'Woods Murder

SCENE OF SLAYING—This Corvair parked on Glasco Turnpike a short distance from the Viking Lounge at High Woods this morning, led to the discovery of the body of Brenda Joan Benson, of the Town of Saugerties and the arrest of S/Sgt. By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

A 21-year-old Marine veteran of 18 months in Vietnam was in custody today facing a charge of murder after the unclothed, bruised body of a pretty 19-year-old Town of Saugerties girl was discovered by two deputy sheriffs in a wooded area off Glasco Turnpike at High Woods.

With Marines Three Years

Arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Marshall Canosa and Barton Kniffen was S/Sgt. Lewis Benjamin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Benjamin of Route 5, Mt. Marion, Saugerties. He recently returned from Vietnam after serving with the U. S. Marines for three years and is presently stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Victim of the Good Friday slaying was Brenda Joan Benson, daughter of Alfred and Joan Benson of RD 2, Box 126, High Woods. She was employed by Manpower, an organization which supplies help to various businesses, and had been assigned to the Poughkeepsie plant of IBM, according to Senior BCI Investigator Charles Teelon.

The alertness of Deputy Sheriffs Canosa and Kniffen resulted in the discovery of the body of Miss Benson, a graduate of Saugerties High School with the class of 1966. The deputies first noticed a Corvair on the turnpike about 150 feet from the Viking Lounge. The car lights were on, the motor running. They stopped to check the vehicle and found no one in it.

Rays Uncover Body

Seconds later the rays of the deputies flashlights revealed a body at the foot of a six-foot embankment in a wooded, rocky area. Moments later the deputies saw Benjamin walking in a parking lot from the direction of Miss Benson's parked car about a 100 feet back of the lounge building.

Benjamin said the Corvair was his. He was told by the deputies he was under arrest for suspicion of murder and informed him of his rights, Canosa said. He made no attempt to avoid arrest but deputies said he appeared bewildered.

Radio calls were made from the scene to the sheriff's office and in a short time more than a dozen sheriff's men and state police converged on the scene of the early morning slaying and the investigation was intensified. Meanwhile, Benjamin was taken to the Lake Katrine State Police barracks for questioning.

Was Not Armed

Investigator Teelon said Benjamin was not armed when taken into custody.

It was 2:45 a.m. when the body was found. Authorities notified the victim's parents and they went to the scene to identify the body. Benson and his wife were crying as they stood near the body talking with Teelon and other investigators. At first the Bensons were informed the girl had been in an accident, and they thought a traffic accident had taken their daughter's life. They were not immediately told she had been the victim of an early morning homicide.

Investigators found some clothing outside in the rear of the Viking. At first they thought the clothes belonged to Miss Benson. Later Mrs. Benson described the clothes that her daughter was wearing when she left her home at 9 p.m. after telling her parents she was going to the Viking, a popular place for young people.

Lying Face Down

Shortly after daybreak troopers combed the wooded area where the body was found lying face down at the foot of the rocky embankment. Troopers discovered Miss Benson's clothes piled near trees about 160 feet off the highway. They said some of the clothes were smeared with fresh blood. Blood was also found on rocks near the body, authorities said.

Teelon said it was not known if the girl had been sexually assaulted.

The girl's parents said Brenda appeared to be happy when she left home and drove her car to the Viking. That was the last

It's a Hard Road to Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say the lengthening hassle between Washington and Hanoi over a site for preliminary talks signals the kind of difficulties expected when and if peace negotiations get under way.

They noted it has been more than a week since the opposing sides publicly declared their readiness for contacts. And on the record, the maneuvering to date has involved only initial talks—rather than negotiations—aimed only at setting the stage for an actual peace conference.

The White House objected to Warsaw, which the North Vietnamese proposed Thursday, on the ground the capital of Communist Poland would not provide a neutral, fair setting.

The North Vietnamese have so far refused to accept U.S. site suggestions that are known to include Geneva, Switzerland; Rangoon, Burma; Vientiane, Laos; New Delhi, India; Jakarta, Indonesia; Vienna, Austria; Berne, Switzerland, and Bonn, West Germany.

The United States also objected to Hanoi's choice of Phnom Penh, Cambodia, on grounds Washington no longer has diplomatic relations with the neutral nation, a situation raising communications and logistic problems.

Presidential press secretary George Christian said the U.S. government first learned of North Vietnam's proposal to meet at Warsaw from reading the Soviet news agency Tass—and only later received the Hanoi message through official diplomatic channels.

Views of top generals on gradual shift of major war effort to South Vietnamese forces and the end of security for a million South Vietnamese due to the Communist Tet offensive. These war sidebar stories are found on Page 30.

The United States, he added, has not yet received a Hanoi response to U.S. proposals for sites in neutral countries. Other sources said the North Vietnamese, before their Warsaw proposition, had previously indicated they prefer an Asian locale and had named Rangoon—also deemed acceptable by Washington.

While President Johnson reportedly has not ruled out sending peace envoy W. Averell Harriman to Warsaw or Phnom Penh if the North Vietnamese insist, he is said to be pressing hard for selection of a neutral nation where both sides have diplomatic accreditation and facilities exist for rapid, private communications back to Washington.

Meanwhile, in Washington the White House said today President Johnson will meet Wednesday in Honlulu with President Chung Hee Park of South Korea.

The announcement said Johnson would leave for Hawaii from his Texas ranch where he will spend the Easter Weekend.

The meeting with Park had been planned for last weekend, when Johnson was scheduled to fly to Honolulu to meet also with his advisers from Vietnam.

But that trip was canceled after violence erupted in the nation's capital and other U.S. cities following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Instead, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U. S. military commander in Vietnam, and Ellsworth Bunker, ambassador to South Vietnam, flew to Washington for conferences.

The argument over a site generated fresh criticism of Johnson at home and abroad.

Tass chided Johnson for U.S. reluctance to hold talks at Phnom Penh and noted past administration utterances about sending peace emissaries anywhere, anytime.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, told an audience in Lincoln, Neb.:

"The President said several months ago that he would meet anyplace, anytime. Then the administration raised objection to meeting in Cambodia—which is someplace."

Johnson told a group of state legislators on June 16, 1966: "We are ready to talk anywhere, anytime, with any government. All they have to do to test us is name the place and date. They will find us there."

In his March 31 announcement of a "hold down in U.S. bombing of North Vietnam in a bid for negotiations, Johnson said: "Now, as in the past, the U.S. is ready to send its representatives to any forum, anytime, to discuss the needs of bringing this ugly war to an end."

Communist Toll at 128 In Raging Five-Hour Battle

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. foot soldiers, artillery and dive bombers repulsed 400 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops who stormed an American bivouac today and drove to within a few feet of the GI's foxholes.

After five hours of close-quarter fighting in War Zone C 49 miles northwest of Saigon, Vietnamese and Viet Cong fled, leaving 128 of their dead and more than 50 weapons on the battlefield.

Probably Many Others

All of the enemy bodies were killed inside or on the fringes of the American perimeter. AP photographer Al Chang reported from the battlefield that more bodies were probably farther out, victims of the massive air and artillery strikes.

Sixteen U.S. troops were killed and 47 wounded.

Chang said the fighting was at such close range that at one point the 25th Division infantrymen fixed their bayonets as their ammunition ran low. They didn't have to use them.

Two Americans were found dead inside their bunker. Around them were the bodies of eight Viet Cong, gunned down by the two Americans before they were killed.

A radio operator held out against 10 Viet Cong until a company commander, Lt. Richard J. Prairie of Kankakee, Ill., and three other infantrymen reinforced him. Prairie was awarded a Silver Star on the spot.

Breaks Ground Lull

The heavy fighting broke a week-long lull in the Vietnam war and was the first major action reported in Operation Complete Victory, the biggest allied campaign of the war in which 100,000 troops are sweeping through 11 provinces around Saigon.

A battalion of 25th Division infantrymen on a reconnaissance mission had taken up defensive positions for the night in a clearing of a heavily wooded area.

Listening posts detected a heavy movement on the west side of the perimeter about 2:40 a.m. shortly after, waves of Viet Cong threw themselves at the camp.

The fighting lasted until 7:30 a.m. Shortly after the Viet Cong broke contact, tanks and armored personnel carriers reinforced the infantrymen and began sweeping the battlefield.

New Uniforms, Weapons

A U.S. spokesman said the enemy troops were wearing new uniforms, some of them black and some of them green. He said their weapons also were new or in good condition, indicating the troops were recent replacements who had come down the Ho Chi Minh Trail from North Vietnam through Laos and Cambodia.

Senior U.S. officers maintained during the lull that the Viet Cong were avoiding a fight because they were still suffering from heavy losses they suffered in their Lunar New Year offensive. These officers said the enemy was regrouping, refitting and awaiting replacements.

The U.S. Command announced the loss of two more American aircraft in South Vietnam, a Marine A4 Skyhawk fighter-bomber and an Army UH1 helicopter.

The chopper was hit by ground fire 65 miles northwest of Saigon this morning and crashed in flames, killing three crewmen. A fourth escaped unhurt. The Skyhawk was shot down 360 miles northeast of Saigon, but the pilot parachuted and was rescued unhurt.

In the curtailed air war against North Vietnam, American bombers stayed below the 19th Parallel Thursday for the eighth consecutive day. Pilots flew a total of 105 missions against enemy supply routes, storage areas and artillery positions, with the northernmost strike 162 miles above the demilitarized zone and eight miles below the 19th Parallel.

Murder Scene--- And the Deputies

"We flashed our lights down the embankment into the woods and there was the body of a woman."

That was the comment of Deputy Sheriff Marshall J. Canosa in an interview with a Freeman reporter at the scene of the Good Friday slaying of pretty 19-year-old Brenda Joan Benson, daughter of Alfred and Joan (nee Crotty) Benson of R.D.2, Box 126 B, High Woods.

On Routine Check

Deputy Canosa and Deputy Bart Kniffen were on night patrol making a routine check on properties in the High Woods area in the vicinity of the Viking Lounge on Dutchtown Road just off the Glasco Turnpike at 2:45 a. m. today.

"We were driving up the pike when we saw a compact car a Corvair," Canosa said. "We noticed the motor was running and the lights were on.

"Bart and I stopped and got out. We walked to the car and looked in. The car was empty. Kniffen was checking the car when I put the ray of my flashlight in the woods just to see if I could find who owned the car. As I moved the light in a circular fashion showing in the woods I looked down and the light revealed the body. It was an unclothed young woman.

"I hurried back to the car and radioed the office to report what we had found and asked the man on duty to call Sheriff (William B.) Martin. Kniffen looked in the parking lot and I went with him and suddenly we saw a man walking from the corner of the parking lot of the Viking near the woods. Kniffen and I approached him and asked if he owned the car that was stopped on the turnpike with the motor running, "Canosa told the reporter.

'For What' Suspect Asks

"He said he did own the car, and I told him he was under arrest. He asked 'for what?' and I told him suspicion of murder. We handcuffed the man and took him to the police car to await the arrival of the sheriff.

"It wasn't long before the sheriff and state troopers arrived and they took over. We took the man, Benjamin to the state police barracks for questioning. We had informed him of his rights before we handcuffed him," the deputy said.

Historic Signing

Open Housing Bill Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, voicing outrage at the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King and the violence that followed it, has signad a historic open-housing bill as a federal task force girded to enforce the new law.

It is the third landmark civil rights bill to become law since Johnson entered the White House.

"All America is outraged at the assassination" of King, the President told a crowd of civil rights leaders, Congress members and government leaders in the East Room of the White House Thursday. "And America is also outraged at the looting and burning that defiles our democracy.

"We just must put our shoulders together and put a stop to both," he said of the violence that takes the lives of men like King and of the slum riots.

The signing came one week after King's death in Memphis, Tenn. The President recalled that King was among the civil rights leaders who met with him two years ago to lay the groundwork for an open-housing bill.

Mrs. King was invited to attend the ceremony but could not arrange to be in Washington, White House aides said.

The new law will prohibit discrimination in 80 per cent of all housing sales and rentals by 1970, but much of it takes effect next Jan. 1.

The law also makes it a federal crime to use threats or violence to interfere with anyone seeking to exercise his civil rights and prohibits the crossing of state lines with intent to incite rioting.

The measure follows up the 1964 Civil Rights Act which Congress sent to Johnson eight months after the death of President John F. Kennedy, another assassination victim. That measure opened up all public accommodations to Negroes and strengthened their voting rights. In 1966 Johnson signed the Voting Rights Bill which outlawed literacy tests as a requirement for voting.

As Johnson was signing the new bill Thursday in a ceremony nationally telecast and broadcast, the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division was assigning a newly formed task force to assemble the government's enforcement program.

The task force will operate under Stephen J. Pollak, assistant attorney general for civil rights.

It will search for violations and may refer some cases to the FBI for further investigation, Pollak said in an interview.

The act is not expected to substantially break up large urban Negro slums immediately but should benefit middle-class Negroes who can afford to buy or rent better homes but who have been excluded on racial grounds.

Pollak said some large housing developers have refused to sell or rent to Negroes on grounds that white residents would move or refuse to buy. Pollak said the new law leaves the developers no such reason to discriminate.

Colgate University Head Acts, Revokes Phi Delta Theta Charter

HAMILTON, N. Y. (AP) — Colgate University's president revoked the local charter of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity today in a bid to end the takeover of the administrative building by 300 students and teachers protesting fraternity discrimination.

A Negro student speaking in behalf of the demonstrators said, however, he did not believe the move would satisfy "our demands" and called for continuation of the sit-in.

President Vincent McD. Barnett made his announcement around 2 a.m., after lengthy consultations with other administrators and university trustees.

He went into the 78-year-old, stone administrative building — into which the demonstrators had barricaded themselves Wednesday — and said:

In Conflict

"In view of the fact the national constitution of Phi Delta Theta makes impossible the elimination of the 'blackball' system for at least two years and in view of the fact that such practices are in conflict with the stated policy of the university and this administration, I am tonight announcing the revocation of the charter of the New York Theta Chapter of Phi Delta Theta, effective immediately."

Barnett also proposed methods for resolving issues that led to the peaceful sit-in, which began Wednesday afternoon.

These included consultations with such organizations as the American Civil Liberties Union and the State Commission on Human Rights and designation of a committee comprising trustees, faculty members and alumni to study "the broader questions raised..."

"These steps," the president said, "should allow us to resume the primary functions of the university, which, I assume, are the basic concerns of all."

Started Sunday

The drive to reform campus social life was touched off Sunday, when two Negro students said they were shot at from the Sigma Nu fraternity house.

Barnett said several shots had been fired from a starter's pistol loaded with blanks. He closed the fraternity and suspended the student held responsible for the incident.

The estimated 35 Negro students on campus made several demands that won approval from the faculty and trustees. About half of Colgate's 1,850 students apparently supported them.

But members of the Association of Black Collegians at Colgate said they wanted Phi Delta Theta's charter revoked, the house closed and its members dispersed.

William Robinson Jr. of Port Chester, association president, responded to Barnett's decision today by saying the president had answered the first demand but added:

"The boys are still living in Phi Delta Theta, and we feel this will not satisfy our demands for physical removal of the brothers of Phi Delta Theta."

He then urged the demonstrators to remain in the building.

Barnett had received support Thursday night from about 100 faculty members and 750 students, many of whom signed a statement by officers of the senior class and members of Kappa Delta Rho.

The statement endorsed "peaceful demonstration" to abolish racial discrimination but opposed "forcibly prohibiting university officials from entering the administrative building and disrupting normal functions of the university."

Earlier, the Interfraternity Committee, representing the university's 15 fraternities, had voted to end so-called blackballing and called for membership selection on the basis of majority rule.

Phi Delta Theta announced — before the start of the sit-in — that it had freed itself "of constitutional restriction in membership selection based on race, color, creed or national origin." The fraternity said its action might cause it to lose its national charter.

Barnett, who had been in New York City Wednesday, returned here Thursday morning. Wellington Powell, board chairman, and State Sen. Warren Anderson, R-Binghamton, a trustee, met with the president here Thursday night. A school spokesman said other trustees were contacted by telephone prior to Barnett's announcement.

Violence After Shooting: Student Leader Critical

BERLIN (AP)—New Left students attacked the headquarters of West Germany's largest publisher with Molotov cocktails and rocks today as their hero and leader, "Red Rudi" Dutschke, lay in critical condition from a would-be assassin's bullets.

Ten persons were arrested but later released after the outburst of violence that followed the shooting.

A 23-year-old man police said was Dutschke's assailant was also in critical condition after a one-hour gunfight with police. He was identified from his fingerprints as Joseph Bachmann, from Peine, in West Germany, but police said they had no other information on him.

Doctors gave Dutschke a chance to survive after they removed a bullet from his brain. The student firebrand was also hit in the right cheek and chest as he was getting on his bicycle late Thursday afternoon.

Dutschke was shot on the Kurfuerstendamm, West Berlin's main street, as he left the office of the radical student organization he heads.

Word of the attempted assassination spread quickly, and 3,000 to 5,000 students marched on the headquarters alongside the Berlin Wall of Axel Springer's publishing concern. The students charged that the assassination attempt was inspired by attacks in Springer's papers on Dutschke and other student leftists.

The mob set fire to the garage of the publishing house. Flames shot skyward as gasoline exploded inside, and about a dozen delivery trucks burned.

Top officials hurriedly sought to prevent student resentment against the government. West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger and West Berlin Mayor Klaus Schuetz sent telegraphs to Dutschke's American wife, the former Gretchen Klotz of Chicago.

Dutschke, a 28-year-old philosophy student who favors sweaters and wears his black hair long and bushy, is the leader of the SDS, or Socialistic Student Federation. He fled from East Germany to escape army service and last year married Miss Klotz, a theology student.

The students have taken a strongly anti-American stance have held antiwar rallies and provoked confrontations with city authorities. Dutschke's main rallying cries were opposition to U. S. policy in Vietnam and reform of German universities.

Eugene's Proposals Aimed to Aid Poor

By DAVID NYHAN

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., has proposed a guaranteed minimum income and a federally subsidized health insurance program to raise the standard of living of the nation's poor.

The United States "has passed the point of no return with reference to domestic problems," the Democratic presidential candidate said Thursday night in a speech before more than 1,800 cheering students at Boston University.

The Minnesota senator described the report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders as "the most significant political document, I think, to be published in this country in this century."

McCarthy told the audience his strong showing in the New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries meant that "public judgment has been passed" on the Vietnam war, which he called "not morally justifiable."

At a news conference after his arrival in Boston from Lincoln, Neb., McCarthy said the call-up of reserves earlier Thursday "fits into the same pattern of continued escalation even while they sought negotiations," he said.

McCarthy's visit kicked off his campaign for the Massachusetts presidential primary April 30, one of which he is expected to win since his is the only name on the Democratic ballot.

But, Bay State voters may write in any candidate's name and state law allows them to use even a candidate's first or last name, or even his nickname as long as the voter's intent is clear.

However, workers for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy have yet to launch a write-in campaign.

ALLEGED SNIPERS — Wesley Cox (L) and Leo Castanza (R) enter the Jackson County jail in Kansas City, Mo., after being arraigned early today. The two are being held for allegedly sniping during two nights of rioting in Kansas City. They were booked for carrying a concealed weapon, assault and possession of marijuana. Both are from Kansas City. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Kansas City's Near Quiet Punctured by Guns, Fires

KANSAS CITY (AP) — An uneasy calm under a tightened curfew returned to Kansas City's Near East Side Thursday night, following two nights of violence in which six persons were killed.

The near quiet, however, was punctuated by reports of sporadic sniping and isolated fires.

Besides the deaths that occurred during the previous nights of looting and fire bombings, 68 persons have been injured.

Violence Wanes

City officials were heartened Thursday night that the violence had waned. Mayor Ilus Davis, who continued a 7 p.m. curfew, said, "It appears the number of law violations are greatly reduced. . .I think it is necessary to watch for the next several hours to see what the trend will be in restoring calm to the area."

Police Chief C. M. Kelley said the situation was much better than the two previous days.

Liquor stores and gasoline service stations were closed at 5 p.m., and by 7 o'clock city streets were virtually deserted.

Not long after dark, however, sniper shots were reported from the vicinity of the police and National Guard command post near the trouble zone.

Snipers fired on firemen who responded to two false alarms, and at one place, firemen were forced under their truck.

Only a few incidents were reported Thursday during daylight hours. One looter was shot and wounded.

Three Whites Arrested

Three white men were arrested Thursday night for carrying concealed weapons.

In all, police said, there have been 148 felony arrests since the trouble started Tuesday. Most of them are being held under bonds of $50,000 each.

The trouble began Tuesday over what started out to be a memorial march by high school students for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., slain civil rights leader. Police say the students threw rocks at them and police responded with tear gas.

There have been more than 150 fires, with firemen hampered by snipers. Some fire calls had to go unanswered.

Order Out, Withdrawn

The King Assassin Probe

By GAYLORD SHAW

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The FBI issued, then withdrew, a pickup order for Eric Starvo Galt, a Birmingham, Ala., white man as the widescale investigation of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., entered its second week.

Federal agents refused to say why they were seeking Galt.

The bulletin distributed on the statewide police teletype network in Florida said Galt was driving a white Mustang. Witnesses in Memphis told investigators earlier they saw a man in a white Mustang drive away from the rooming house from which King was shot last Thursday night.

Released by Mistake

At about the same time the pickup order was sent in Florida, federal agents in Atlanta impounded a white Mustang that had been parked since last Friday at a public housing project near the Georgia state Capitol.

The message, withdrawn with the explanation that it was released by mistake, described Galt as a white male, 36 years old, about 5-foot-11 and 175 pounds with blue eyes and brown hair.

This roughly matched the description circulated by federal authorities the night of King's slaying.

Special Agent John Hanlong of the Miami FBI office, who withdrew the pickup order about four hours after it was issued, said, "I cannot comment," when asked for further details.

The Florida teletype message said Galt was last seen driving a white 1966 Mustang hardtop, Alabama license 1-38993. Birmingham police said this tag had been issued to Eric S. Galt, 608 Highland Ave., Birmingham.

In Atlanta, the residents who first told police about the abandoned white Mustang said the car bore the same Alabama license as given out by the FBI and bore two stickers which said "Tourista." Earlier reports indicated the investigation had spread to Mexico.

All Over the Place

"The FBI was all over the place," before the car was impounded, an Atlanta witness said. He said the vehicle was towed away between 5:15 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. Thursday—about the time the Florida teletype message was sent.

Witnesses in Memphis who reported seeing a white Mustang pull away from the rooming house said the car had a red and white license plate. Alabama tags are red and white.

The Birmingham address given for Galt is a large white two-story house in what once was an elite residential area. A red neon sign flashes the word "rooms," but a knock on the door was unanswered.

A Birmingham newspaper, the Post-Herald, said residents of the rooming house confirmed they had been questioned by the FBI. It added the residents reported they had not seen Galt for about three months and could not recall what type car he owned.

The Riot Damage Report Given for Major Cities

Insurers put preliminary estimates of riot damage in Chicago at $10 million, in Baltimore at between $8 million and $10 million, Washington, D.C., officials estimate building damage alone at $13.3 million.

The number of homeless in Chicago is estimated at upward of 500. In Newark the figure is set at 600 and in the nation's capital a guess on the homeless is placed at between 1,200 and 1,400.

Preliminary Figures

These were some of the preliminary figures available today as city officials, insurance adjustors and welfare workers began the months-long job of assembling a statistical picture of riot damage.

An Associated Press survey showed the pattern and extent of damage during the week-long wave of disorders following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. seemed to vary from city to city.

Thus Chicago reported many businesses damaged were owned by Negroes although no breakdown was available. In Pittsburgh it appeared that mostly white-owned firms were firebombed and looted while many Negro-owned shops and bars with "soul brother' signs went untouched.

No overall figure on total damage was available but the American Insurance Association and the General Adjustment Bureau said Thursday that insured losses could cost insurance companies $45 million or more.

The figure was "up to date as of Wednesday" and was "conservatively estimated," they said. The bureau said payout figures were "revised as new incidents took place and as a more exact evaluation of earlier incidents became possible."

Well Above Insured Losses

Total damage can be expected to run well above insured losses. In Chicago the federal Small Business Administration estimated small business [illegible] $7 million to $10 million in damage with more than [illegible] sured.

19 of 39 Killed In Looting or Fires

Authorities say 19 of the 39 persons killed in the post-assassination violence either were shot while they were looting or died as a result of fires.

All but five of the 39 were Negroes. Four of the victims were females, 15 of the dead were 21 years of age or under including one 11-month-old baby who burned to death in his crib in Chicago.

Of the total, 25 persons died from gunshot wounds, 10 died as a result of fires and 4 died from other causes, according to an Associated Press survey.

Eleven persons died in Chicago, 7 in Washington, 6 each in Baltimore and Kansas City, 2 each in Cincinnati and the Detroit area and 1 each in Memphis, Minneapolis, Tallahassee, Trenton and Jacksonville.

Police gunfire accounted for 11 of the gunshot victims, nine were shot by unknown persons and five were shot by private citizens.

No deaths were specifically attributed to National Guard action.

Chicago authorities gave the following case-by-case breakdown on the 11 deaths there. All the victims were Negroes:

1. Curtis Jefro, 31, a die caster, lived in a housing project with his wife, two sisters, a brother and a sister-in-law. Went out on his 12th floor balcony to observe a disturbance Saturday. Found dead of a bullet wound which police said was a stray bullet.

2. Marvin Carter, 24, quit a janitor's job after arguing with his boss. Was to have started a job in a window sash company Monday. Married with three children. Left home Friday around 5 p.m. four hours later police saw some men carrying merchandise from the rear of a South Side store. They fired and Carter fell dead in an alley.

3. Robert T. Dorsey, 31, a truck driver. He and his wife, who had no children, were walking home Friday when shots rang out on the West Side. Dorsey pushed his wife to the ground, then fell, moaning, "They got me. They shot me in my back."

4. Clayton Webb Jr., 27, a meat packing plant employe, went out Friday in his bedroom slippers to get some beer. Several hours later police found him shot to death in a South Side alley. His mother said, "Clayton was never in trouble. He drank, but he was all right. I don't know what happened to the child." Neither do police.

5. Willie McMullin, 21, had been in Chicago a year since he left his home in Dundee, Miss. He worked in a meat packing company. "Two weeks ago he got a better job at a steel mill in Gary," his cousin said. "He was on top of the world." McMullin was found dead Friday of smoke inhalation in a looted, destroyed grocery store on the West Side. "He couldn't have been a looter,' his cousin said. "He just got his first paycheck from the steel mill that day."

Police Chief C. M. Kelley said the situation was much better than the two previous days.

Liquor stores and gasoline service stations were closed at 5 p.m., and by 7 o'clock city streets were virtually deserted.

Not long after dark, however, sniper shots were reported from the vicinity of the police and National Guard command post near the trouble zone.

Snipers fired on firemen who responded to two false alarms, and at one place, firemen were forced under their truck.

Only a few incidents were reported Thursday during daylight hours. One looter was shot and wounded.

Three Whites Arrested

Three white men were arrested Thursday night for carrying concealed weapons.

In all, police said, there have been 148 felony arrests since the trouble started Tuesday. Most of them are being held under bonds of $50,000 each.

The trouble began Tuesday over what started out to be a memorial march by high school students for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., slain civil rights leader. Police say the students threw rocks at them and police responded with tear gas.

There have been more than 150 fires, with firemen hampered by snipers. Some fire calls had to go unanswered.

Order Out, Withdrawn

The King Assassin Probe

By GAYLORD SHAW

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The FBI issued, then withdrew, a pickup order for Eric Starvo Galt, a Birmingham, Ala., white man as the widescale investigation of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., entered its second week.

Federal agents refused to say why they were seeking Galt.

The bulletin distributed on the statewide police teletype network in Florida said Galt was driving a white Mustang. Witnesses in Memphis told investigators earlier they saw a man in a white Mustang drive away from the rooming house from which King was shot last Thursday night.

Released by Mistake

At about the same time the pickup order was sent in Florida, federal agents in Atlanta impounded a white Mustang that had been parked since last Friday at a public housing project near the Georgia state Capitol.

The message, withdrawn with the explanation that it was released by mistake, described Galt as a white male, 36 years old, about 5-foot-11 and 175 pounds with blue eyes and brown hair.

This roughly matched the description circulated by federal authorities the night of King's slaying.

Special Agent John Hanlong of the Miami FBI office, who withdrew the pickup order about four hours after it was issued, said, "I cannot comment," when asked for further details.

The Florida teletype message said Galt was last seen driving a white 1966 Mustang hardtop, Alabama license 1-38993. Birmingham police said this tag had been issued to Eric S. Galt, 608 Highland Ave., Birmingham.

In Atlanta, the residents who first told police about the abandoned white Mustang said the car bore the same Alabama license as given out by the FBI and bore two stickers which said "Tourista." Earlier reports indicated the investigation had spread to Mexico.

All Over the Place

"The FBI was all over the place," before the car was impounded, an Atlanta witness said. He said the vehicle was towed away between 5:15 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. Thursday—about the time the Florida teletype message was sent.

Witnesses in Memphis who reported seeing a white Mustang pull away from the rooming house said the car had a red and white license plate. Alabama tags are red and white.

The Birmingham address given for Galt is a large white two-story house in what once was an elite residential area. A red neon sign flashes the word "rooms," but a knock on the door was unanswered.

A Birmingham newspaper, the Post-Herald, said residents of the rooming house confirmed they had been questioned by the FBI. It added the residents reported they had not seen Galt for about three months and could not recall what type car he owned.

The Riot Damage Report Given for Major Cities

Insurers put preliminary estimates of riot damage in Chicago at $10 million, in Baltimore at between $8 million and $10 million, Washington, D.C., officials estimate building damage alone at $13.3 million.

The number of homeless in Chicago is estimated at upward of 500. In Newark the figure is set at 600 and in the nation's capital a guess on the homeless is placed at between 1,200 and 1,400.

Preliminary Figures

These were some of the preliminary figures available today as city officials, insurance adjustors and welfare workers began the months-long job of assembling a statistical picture of riot damage.

An Associated Press survey showed the pattern and extent of damage during the week-long wave of disorders following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. seemed to vary from city to city.

Thus Chicago reported many businesses damaged were owned by Negroes although no breakdown was available. In Pittsburgh it appeared that mostly white-owned firms were firebombed and looted while many Negro-owned shops and bars with "soul brother" signs went untouched.

No overall figure on total damage was available but the American Insurance Association and the General Adjustment Bureau said Thursday that insured losses could cost insurance companies $45 million or more.

The figure was "up to date as of Wednesday" and was "conservatively estimated," they said. The bureau said payout figures were "revised as new incidents took place and as a more exact evaluation of earlier incidents became possible."

Well Above Insured Losses

Total damage can be expected to run well above insured losses. In Chicago the federal Small Business Administration estimated small [illegible] $7 million to $10 million in damage with more than [illegible] sured.

19 of 39 Killed In Looting or Fires

Authorities say 19 of the 39 persons killed in the post-assassination violence either were shot while they were looting or died as a result of fires.

All but five of the 39 were Negroes. Four of the victims were females, 15 of the dead were 21 years of age or under including one 11-month-old baby who burned to death in his crib in Chicago.

Of the total, 25 persons died from gunshot wounds, 10 died as a result of fires and 4 died from other causes, according to an Associated Press survey.

Eleven persons died in Chicago, 7 in Washington, 6 each in Baltimore and Kansas City, 2 each in Cincinnati and the Detroit area and 1 each in Memphis, Minneapolis, Tallahassee, Trenton and Jacksonville.

Police gunfire accounted for 11 of the gunshot victims, nine were shot by unknown persons and five were shot by private citizens.

No deaths were specifically attributed to National Guard action.

Chicago authorities gave the following case-by-case breakdown on the 11 deaths there. All the victims were Negroes:

1. Curtis Jefro, 31, a die caster, lived in a housing project with his wife, two sisters, a brother and a sister-in-law. Went out on his 12th floor balcony to observe a disturbance Saturday. Found dead of a bullet wound which police said was a stray bullet.

2. Marvin Carter, 24, quit a janitor's job after arguing with his boss. Was to have started a job in a window sash company Monday. Married with three children. Left home Friday around 5 p.m. four hours later police saw some men carrying merchandise from the rear of a South Side store. They fired and Carter fell dead in an alley.

3. Robert T. Dorsey, 31, a truck driver. He and his wife, who had no children, were walking home Friday when shots rang out on the West Side. Dorsey pushed his wife to the ground, then fell, moaning, "They got me. They shot me in my back."

4. Clayton Webb Jr., 27, a meat packing plant employe, went out Friday in his bedroom slippers to get some beer. Several hours later police found him shot to death in a South Side alley. His mother said, "Clayton was never in trouble. He drank, but he was all right. I don't know what happened to the child." Neither do police.

5. Willie McMullin, 21, had been in Chicago a year since he left his home in Dundee, Miss. He worked in a meat packing company. "Two weeks ago he got a better job at a steel mill in Gary," his cousin said. "He was on top of the world." McMullin was found dead Friday of smoke inhalation in a looted, destroyed grocery store on the West Side. "He couldn't have been a looter," his cousin said. "He just got his first paycheck from the steel mill that day."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 12, 1968

No Outdoor Burning

The State Conservation Department has canceled all burning permits and placed a ban on all outdoor burning because of the threat of major forest fires in the Counties of Ulster, Sullivan, Rockland and Orange. A state of emergency exists.

The threat of disastrous fires in all townships of Ulster County is due to the extreme dryness, because of the small amount of snowfall last winter, making tall grass and weed tinder. In this very dangerous situation, extra care must be taken by everyone everywhere. The present emergency exists throughout the entire county and residents of all townships, regardless of whether a burning permit is needed or not, should refrain from starting fires.

The ban on burning came as a result of the large number of brush and grass fires that have occurred in most parts of the area. Some of these, which were intended to be small fires, were abandoned to become out of control by the gusty winds of spring. Homes and other buildings have been threatened with destruction.

It also is well to remember that most of these brush fires are the result of carelessness—a discarded cigarette or match. And it happens every year. But one of these days, a fire will spread over a wide area, fire fighters will arrive just a little late and there will be vast destruction not to mention loss of life.

Another reason for the ban, which will continue indefinitely, is the prediction by the meteorologist forecaster for the Bureau of Forests of the Conservation Department that for the next few days at least, there will exist an extremely dangerous forest fire threat throughout the district.

Fire wardens, who protect our woodlands, and other fire officials have been alerted and they will endeavor to prevent violations.

Residents, upon seeing a fire, large or small, should summon the nearest fire department and give the exact location. Early arrival of fire fighting forces is imperative. Numbers of fire districts, stations and volunteer companies throughout the area, are listed on the back of the front page cover of the telephone book.

Is it too much to hope that local area residents will be conscientious enough to take all necessary precautions against fire until the emergency ban is lifted?

Affluence Compared

The decade in which the United States was to take a back seat to the Soviet Union in affluence is drawing to a close. Our difficulties are many, but affluence is not one of them, so far as the general lot is concerned.

It was at the start of the decade in 1961 that Nikita S. Khrushchev, then all-powerful in Moscow, promised his people that the Soviet Union would surpass the United States by 1970.

Now, the frankest explanations ever printed of the "affluence gap" appeared in Komsomolkskaya Pravda. It openly stated that the Soviets lag in almost every facet of modern development, and made no promise that the gap would soon be closed.

The only face-saver offered was that the problems associated with affluence "are not a burning issue here now, because the fullest abundance is not that close." The statement is borne out by a survey of a wide range of food, clothing and consumer goods.

For instance, the average Russian gets almost as many calories a day, 3,000, as the citizens of more developed countries, but he eats half as much meat and twice as much animal fat as the average American.

The Russian diet is near the top only in starchy food, traditionally associated with underfed nations. In bread, the Soviet is third behind Egypt and Yugoslavia; in potatoes, second only to Poland.

There is plenty of room for improvement here for many people, but even those on welfare can eat better than the people in the so-called workers' paradise. Now even the Russians admit the gap is beyond them.

The United States and other countries make awards to citizens who achieve, but the name for it given by Japan tops all others. The seven just honored in Tokyo are called "Human National Treasures." That's worth more than the prizes that range between $700 and $1,100.

Arriving at 7:47 a. m., Robert S. McNamara began his duties as president of the World Bank in Washington the first day of this month. He commands a 1,500-man force of fiscal experts warring on poverty and famine in underdeveloped countries, instead of the world's most powerful military force as Secretary of Defense.

David Lawrence Says

Agents of Subversion Believed Back of Riots

WASHINGTON—Police from one end of the country to the other are baffled by the riots that have swept more than 100 cities and towns during the last few days. Arson, vandalism and looting have occurred in so many parts of a city simultaneously that previous planning seems to have been involved.

Though government authorities say they have no "evidence" of a conspiracy, law-enforcement agencies concede that nothing like the orgy of crime and destruction which has emerged in the past week has ever been witnessed in America. In some respects it resembles guerilla warfare. The formula has been to provoke disorders in one section of a city, and, when police and firemen move in, then the looting and setting of fires with gasoline bombs are promptly started in another section. The originators of the arson have thus been able to escape.

Although more than 40 people were killed and many thousands were injured during the disturbances, the nation as a whole has not come to grips thus far with the methods of the rioters. Gangs of teenagers seem to have been formed and taught exactly how to start the riots. While the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. supposedly triggered a number of uprisings, it is recalled that for several weeks there have been predictions of riots and disorders. The assumption now is that the arsonists were ready to start the fires at any time an occasion arose which they could use as an excuse for their action.

What most Americans, both Negro and white, are puzzled about is the renewal of disturbances in places which were thought to have been quieted down. On Tuesday of this week, arsonists set more than 100 fires to homes and stores in the very same Negro district in Newark, N. J., where the riots occurred last summer. Hundreds were again left homeless, and stores were looted. The mayor said that "most of the fires were well planned and well organized" by arsonists.

Among the deaths the Negroes far outnumber the whites. Whether the purpose of it all is to inflame the entire Negro population or whether it is to break down authority generally is a mystery to the police. There is no question but that the riots have saddened the Negro population as much as the white and that it is a small minority which is responsible for the disturbances.

Some experts in guerrilla warfare claim that the communists have always adopted a similar technique in smaller countries. Nobody in the Department of Justice or in the local police departments, however, has come forth with any charge that there has been foreign intrusion.

The disturbances on many of the college campuses have been regarded as "spontaneous." But it is well known that some students have been subverted by communist agents and aroused to take rebellious action.

It requires a certain amount of planning to bring about the riots and to set the fires which have caused tens of millions of dollars of damage in the past week. Few arrests have been based on a charge of conspiracy. People generally are beginning to suspect that sooner or later facts will become available to confirm that 110 cities in the United States would never have been victimized by arsonists and looters if there had been no concerted effort in certain areas.

Violence can be stimulated by inflammatory speeches. While federal authorities say they have no evidence of a connection between speeches that have threatened disorder and the subsequent disturbances, more and more people are beginning to believe that some agents of subversion have been busily engaged in supplying guns and giving instructions on how to make and use "Molotov cocktails." Various "marches" and "demonstrations" have been scheduled and announced for the spring and summer of 1968. A series of disorders far more sensational than any witnessed last year is still expected.

Both federal and state troops have been mobilized in large numbers. The realistic fact is that instigators of riots are not being detected or apprehended. Congress is being stampeded into passing legislation to provide more civil-rights "reforms" but the Negro leaders themselves seem unable to cope with the virtual insurrection which has left its mark on almost every section of the country.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

"There," I said to my wife. "How does the TV set look recessed in the wall?" "Like a million dollars," she said, and burst into tears. Women can't bear to admit it when they are wrong. She ran to our room sobbing.

In our family, I am the tough trader. Kelly is the soft touch. She hasn't the brass to examine the rare Japanese object d'art where it says underneath "Made in Jersey City." I am the one who has to watch the butcher weigh his thumb with the half pound of imported salami; or to rationalize the sale which declares "One pound of coffee 45 cents" and, underneath in light-face agate, "with every $50 order when a full moon falls on Sunday."

Take that recessed television set. It had color, most of the time. Sometimes it depicted nothing but an Alaskan blizzard hours on end. I bought that set. Four hundred and fifty skins from a dear, dedicated buddy.

We had the set, but it was too big. One day a man stood at the side door and said he was looking for work. Well, he came to a good place because I have never seen more of it waiting to be done than in our place. I asked if he knew anything about television. It turned out nothing much — he only wrote the book. He was like a TV Ph.D. cum louder.

I invited him in. He was of French descent and his name was Alphonse Dummet, which is pronounced doom-aye, but sounds better Anglicized as dummy. I asked Dummy to split a cup of coffee and a piece of toast with me, but he said he couldn't eat anything because he had a wife and three little kids on the other side of town and they were starving. The toast would stick in his throat.

Okay, I showed him the big box. "Can you put that square object inside this wall?" I said. "What's in that wall?" he said, intelligently. "It leads to the center hall." I told him. "Ah," he said. Dummy examined the set, the wall, got inside the center closet, caught his neck on a wire hanger, came out and said it could be done.

"How much?" I said, narrowing my eyes because I wanted him to know that I am no sucker. He studied the lids and said: "I'll work for anything, mister. My poor little kids . . ." "Let's leave your little ones out of this, shall we?" I said, opening the eyes and closing the trap.

He would work for $2 an hour. Fair enough. Kelly didn't like it; she said he looked like a weeping crook who would cheat his mother at bingo. I said "Fie!" and ordered her to stick to soiled dishes and such like. "If Mr. Dummy has any children," she said, "they are about as legitimate as he is." A canard to be sure.

After that, I became acquainted with Dummy's face. His face was framed in a hole in my wall. When the hole had been squared off, he looked like a good color picture, sweating. Some days he was there. Some days not. Week after week, I watched him appear and disappear. Some mornings, I missed him and his chisel. He looked like something coming out of a San Quentin sewer.

The first check we gave Dummy was for a hundred. The kids needed milk. After that, the tapping became regular. "How many ways do I love thee?" he would murmur. "Let me count the hours." And he did. One day he heard me say that I needed an air conditioner for a small room. Dummy came out of the hole in the way to say that it just happened that he had one. Why pay $225? Take mine—practically brand new—for $150.

I did. We paid in cash. I never saw Dummy again. After three months, we had a big box in addition to a hole in the wall. The air conditioner had a cha-cha beat. When I shut it off, it sounded like the last of an ice cream soda through a straw.

Two days later a doctor was at my door. He said he was sorry to intrude, but he was sure I had stolen his air conditioner. He had the serial number on a sheet of paper, in addition to a bill of sale. He wanted to charge me for taking it out of my window. This gave us two big holes.

My wife called a qualified television man and he crouched through the center closet and got in the hole in the wall. He was there a moment and he busted out laughing. He came out with the big box. The television box was still intact, but there was nothing inside it. My friend Dummy had stolen the parts, one by one, and sold them. He had drawn $380 in pay. The new t.v. man wanted $400 for a new set, with the empty box as a trade-in.

I took it. "How does the new t.v. set look?" I said to my wife. "Like a million dollars," she said and burst into tears. They hate to admit when they're wrong . .

Drew Pearson Says

Washington, Baltimore Suffer By Delayed Police Integration

WASHINGTON—Some lessons regarding police training can be drawn from the rioting following the assassination of Martin Luther King.

Atlanta, Ga., under liberal but tough Police Chief Herbert Jenkins, had no riots. Twenty years ago Jenkins began integrating the Atlanta police, and has Negro cops patrolling Negro sections of his city. But if looting or rioting starts, they are under strict orders to stand in front of any broken window with a shotgun and shoot looters.

Another city which went unscathed was Philadelphia, under Police Chief Frank Rizzo, one of the toughest cops in the USA. Philadelphia police are well integrated and have been for some time.

On the other hand, Washington, D. C., where the police were under instructions not to fire at looters, suffered blocks of destruction, as did Baltimore, where a similar order was in force. Under the circumstances, they did a superb job. But looters saw the police were not retaliating as they pillaged downtown stores and the looting increased. It was impossible for the police to arrest more than the ringleaders.

Washington and Baltimore were both handicapped by two factors: (1) lack of early police integration; and (2) reported instructions of black power leaders to make these cities, along with Chicago, the chief targets in the nation.

In the nation's capital, former Police Chief Robert Murray had a strict policy of hiring no Negroes. His successors have changed that policy, and Commissioner Patrick Murphy has been hiring and promoting well qualified Negroes as rapidly as possible.

In Baltimore, Donald Pomerleau, considered one of the best qualified police commissioners in the country, has also been hiring Negro police at an accelerated rate, but qualified men are not easy to get in a short time. Pomerleau has been trying to secure Negroes with high school educations, but not many are available. About 20 per cent of the Baltimore police force is integrated; about 12 per cent of the entire force comprises high school graduates.

Assassination Changed Plans

Both cities, however, suffered from the black power advocates of violence. It's now learned that the original schedule for burning the capital was June 18-19. It was also planned that, after federal troops had moved into Washington, black terrorists would move on to Baltimore before troops could get there.

The target date was stepped up from June to April after King's assassination. It's significant that Baltimore was quite peaceful during the first two days of rioting in Washington. Then it flared even more viciously.

Also significant is the fact that some of the most determined looters in Washington were government employes. D. C. judges who sat all night processing the 4,000 arrested looters were flabbergasted at the fact that a predominant number worked for the government. What the Negro world will be waiting to see is whether these looters lose their government jobs. If they don't, it will be a signal for more looting in the future.

A great majority of Negroes in Washington are bitter over the looting. The looters constituted a very small percentage of the Negro population. Washington was considered a model city until last week's riots broke out. Therefore the Negro population will watch with great interest to what happens to the government employes who flouted the government which employed them.

Smog Control Drags

The people of Los Angeles don't know it yet, but they will probably gag on a smog a little longer because the Justice Department declines to take drastic action.

Inside the Justice Department, Assistant Attorney General Donald Turner has given preliminary orders to his staff to drop a criminal antitrust case against the big automobile companies on a charge of conspiring to suppress exhaust patents to clean up auto smog.

For 18 months the Justice Department has conducted a grand jury probe of this alleged conspiracy, and Samuel Flatow, in charge of the investigation, has asked Assistant Attorney General Turner to instruct him to bring criminal indictments.

However, Turner has chickened. He's about to drop any criminal action, and start new civil action instead. This will mean that 18 months of the taxpayers' money for conducting the investigation goes down the drain; also that more time elapses while the civil case is prepared. Turner, incidentally, is the pal of Lloyd Cutler, astute and able attorney for the automobile industry.

Note: Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., recently told the antitrust section of the American Bar Association: "Antitrust today is sick and nobody seems greatly concerned." Attorney General Ramsey Clark says that he is concerned, but apparently he's too busy with race riots to watch his own antitrust division. Meanwhile the Federal Communications Commission reports that mergers in manufacturing and mining industries rose by 50 per cent last year, the "sharpest increase in modern industrial history."

Merry-Go-Round

The Republican Congressional Committee struggled frantically to kill its Daily News Digest of April 5, the day after Martin Luther King was assassinated. It contained two critical items about King and his march on Washington by Rep. Robert Michel, Ill., and Rep. William Brock, Tenn. Brock maintained that King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference should not have tax-exempt status. All copies of the News Digest that could be collected were killed. . . . Rep. Lawrence G. Williams, Pa., also protested in the Republican Congressional Newsletter against the Interior Department's plan to permit King's Poor People's March to use national park areas in Washington.

U.S. War Role in Vietnam Bolsters, Thailand and Laos

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

BANGKOK (NEA)—It gives strong pause to hear the troubled thoughts of Thai and Lao men and women in all walks of life who believe their lives, their hopes for the future and the very existence of their countries depend on the willingness of the United States to sacrifice its young men to protect a very small nation more than 8,000 miles away.

Some Americans may have doubts about why we are in Vietnam. But there's no doubt in the minds of the Thai and Lao this reporter has met up with here and in Vietiane and in the miles in between.

The Thai government's backing is firm and unwavering. It has been picking from among its best troops for additional forces to fight side by side with American units in the war. But this reporter found admiration for the U.S. defense of South Vietnam equally strong among the major opposition political groups and among ordinary people.

Typical was a long talk this reporter had with one of the grand old men of Thailand—a blunt, frank patriot who has been out of power since the military government was established more than a decade ago. He fought the Japanese as a leader in the Free Thai Movement in World War II.

"I don't know you can do it" he said—"to fight for a small country so far away. But it is a wonderful thing that you are doing.

"If you were not there in Vietnam, my country would go down also.

"The big fear here is that you will leave, that you will get tired of this effort that is costing you so much. Already there are the rumors.

"It seems impossible for us to believe that you will continue these big sacrifies for Vietnam and us. I don't know how the mothers can stand to see their sons go. But we are thankful that you do this.

"If you leave, the North Vietnamese will take us for sure. We would accommodate, as we did when the Japanese came — on the surface. Underneath, we would resist. We would smile and say 'Yes sir.' But we would slow them down. We would be like—what do you say—mush. And they would be sorry that they came.

"But we would have no country either."

In Laos, the story is the same. "The North Vietnamese could and would take us over in a few weeks if you weren't in Vietnam," said one official. His words were echoed by all Lao this reporter met, high and low, in government and out.

The people in Laos feel very much alone out at the end of things. Their economy is hurting badly because of the North Vietnamese raids on the rice-growing regions and the high costs of the war. They are up against superior numbers of North Vietnamese troops.

Their situation would seem hopeless. But to the Lao who talked to me, there will be hope so long as the United States stands strong in Vietnam and in Thailand.

McCarthy in Race to Win

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two primaries and two candidates ago, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy wryly remarked that his Democratic campaign for the White House was taking "a controlled fall." He doesn't joke about it that way now.

For the Minnesota Democrat has experienced victory, has sampled the prospect that what once seemed a futile gesture could actually lead him to the presidency.

Where once he spoke of an effort to change the course of a Democratic administration on war in Vietnam, now McCarthy talks of making his party's race against former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the front running candidate for the Republican nomination.

The metamorphosis began with New Hampshire's startling primary verdict on March 12: a 42 per cent vote for McCarthy, 20 of 24 Democratic convention votes for him.

The two candidates followed, one in each direction. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., entered the race March 16, and McCarthy has been taunting him ever since as a tardy arrival.

And President Johnson stepped aside on March 31.

Then came McCarthy's April 2 Wisconsin primary landslide, a 57 per cent share of the vote.

Kennedy wasn't on the ballot there, but he will be in Indiana on May 7. And McCarthy has asknowledged the primary tests may prove more difficult to his cause.

But he insists he will wage to the end—the Democratic National Convention in Chicago—the campaign he announced on Nov. 30.

And the major shift, from an effort to focus internal Democratic debate on Vietnam policy to one designed to win the White House, already has occurred.

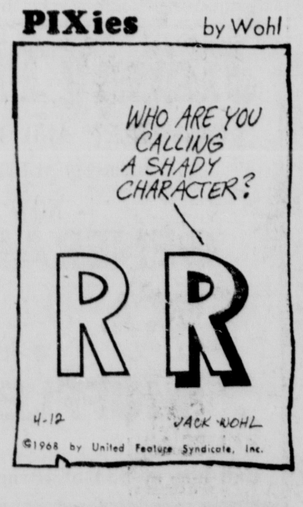

It was, perhaps best signaled by McCarthy's nationwide television address from Milwaukee on April 1, delivered in his familiar low-key style.

"This effort is really no longer, if it ever was, one which was concerned simply with raising issues," McCarthy said. "It was never just an educational program, although some of the critics of my effort in the early stages suggested that that was really all that it could be.

"This is my role today, this is what I am—a candidate for the nomination of the Democratic Party for the presidency of the United States of America."

This was the man who, three months earlier, had said that if Robert Kennedy would challenge Johnson "there would be no need for me to try."

No Outdoor Burning

The State Conservation Department has canceled all burning permits and placed a ban on all outdoor burning because of the threat of major forest fires in the Counties of Ulster, Sullivan, Rockland and Orange. A state of emergency exists.

The threat of disastrous fires in all townships of Ulster County is due to the extreme dryness, because of the small amount of snowfall last winter, making tall grass and weed tinder. In this very dangerous situation, extra care must be taken by everyone everywhere. The present emergency exists throughout the entire county and residents of all townships, regardless of whether a burning permit is needed or not, should refrain from starting fires.

The ban on burning came as a result of the large number of brush and grass fires that have occurred in most parts of the area. Some of these, which were intended to be small fires, were abandoned to become out of control by the gusty winds of spring. Homes and other buildings have been threatened with destruction.

It also is well to remember that most of these brush fires are the result of carelessness—a discarded cigarette or match. And it happens every year. But one of these days, a fire will spread over a wide area, fire fighters will arrive just a little late and there will be vast destruction not to mention loss of life.

Another reason for the ban, which will continue indefinitely, is the prediction by the meteorologist forecaster for the Bureau of Forests of the Conservation Department that for the next few days at least, there will exist an extremely dangerous forest fire threat throughout the district.

Fire wardens, who protect our woodlands, and other fire officials have been alerted and they will endeavor to prevent violations.

Residents, upon seeing a fire, large or small, should summon the nearest fire department and give the exact location. Early arrival of fire fighting forces is imperative. Numbers of fire districts, stations and volunteer companies throughout the area, are listed on the back of the front page cover of the telephone book.

Is it too much to hope that local area residents will be conscientious enough to take all necessary precautions against fire until the emergency ban is lifted?

Affluence Compared

The decade in which the United States was to take a back seat to the Soviet Union in affluence is drawing to a close. Our difficulties are many, but affluence is not one of them, so far as the general lot is concerned.

It was at the start of the decade in 1961 that Nikita S. Khrushchev, then all-powerful in Moscow, promised his people that the Soviet Union would surpass the United States by 1970.

Now, the frankest explanations ever printed of the "affluence gap" appeared in Komsomolkskaya Pravda. It openly stated that the Soviets lag in almost every facet of modern development, and made no promise that the gap would soon be closed.

The only face-saver offered was that the problems associated with affluence "are not a burning issue here now, because the fullest abundance is not that close." The statement is borne out by a survey of a wide range of food, clothing and consumer goods.

For instance, the average Russian gets almost as many calories a day, 3,000, as the citizens of more developed countries, but he eats half as much meat and twice as much animal fat as the average American.

The Russian diet is near the top only in starchy food, traditionally associated with underfed nations. In bread, the Soviet is third behind Egypt and Yugoslavia; in potatoes, second only to Poland.

There is plenty of room for improvement here for many people, but even those on welfare can eat better than the people in the so-called workers' paradise. Now even the Russians admit the gap is beyond them.

The United States and other countries make awards to citizens who achieve, but the name for it given by Japan tops all others. The seven just honored in Tokyo are called "Human National Treasures." That's worth more than the prizes that range between $700 and $1,100.

Arriving at 7:47 a. m., Robert S. McNamara began his duties as president of the World Bank in Washington the first day of this month. He commands a 1,500-man force of fiscal experts warring on poverty and famine in underdeveloped countries, instead of the world's most powerful military force as Secretary of Defense.

Helping Hand

Agents of Subversion Believed Back of Riots

WASHINGTON—Police from one end of the country to the other are baffled by the riots that have swept more than 100 cities and towns during the last few days. Arson, vandalism and looting have occurred in so many parts of a city simultaneously that previous planning seems to have been involved.

Though government authorities say they have no "evidence" of a conspiracy, law-enforcement agencies concede that nothing like the orgy of crime and destruction which has emerged in the past week has ever been witnessed in America. In some respects it resembles guerilla warfare. The formula has been to provoke disorders in one section of a city, and, when police and firemen move in, then the looting and setting of fires with gasoline bombs are promptly started in another section. The originators of the arson have thus been able to escape.

Although more than 40 people were killed and many thousands were injured during the disturbances, the nation as a whole has not come to grips thus far with the methods of the rioters. Gangs of teenagers seem to have been formed and taught exactly how to start the riots. While the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. supposedly triggered a number of uprisings, it is recalled that for several weeks there have been predictions of riots and disorders. The assumption now is that the arsonists were ready to start the fires at any time an occasion arose which they could use as an excuse for their action.

What most Americans, both Negro and white, are puzzled about is the renewal of disturbances in places which were thought to have been quieted down. On Tuesday of this week, arsonists set more than 100 fires to homes and stores in the very same Negro district in Newark, N. J., where the riots occurred last summer. Hundreds were again left homeless, and stores were looted. The mayor said that "most of the fires were well planned and well organized" by arsonists.

Among the deaths the Negroes far outnumber the whites. Whether the purpose of it all is to inflame the entire Negro population or whether it is to break down authority generally is a mystery to the police. There is no question but that the riots have saddened the Negro population as much as the white and that it is a small minority which is responsible for the disturbances.

Some experts in guerrilla warfare claim that the communists have always adopted a similar technique in smaller countries. Nobody in the Department of Justice or in the local police departments, however, has come forth with any charge that there has been foreign intrusion.

The disturbances on many of the college campuses have been regarded as "spontaneous." But it is well known that some students have been subverted by communist agents and aroused to take rebellious action.

It requires a certain amount of planning to bring about the riots and to set the fires which have caused tens of millions of dollars of damage in the past week. Few arrests have been based on a charge of conspiracy. People generally are beginning to suspect that sooner or later facts will become available to confirm that 110 cities in the United States would never have been victimized by arsonists and looters if there had been no concerted effort in certain areas.

Violence can be stimulated by inflammatory speeches. While federal authorities say they have no evidence of a connection between speeches that have threatened disorder and the subsequent disturbances, more and more people are beginning to believe that some agents of subversion have been busily engaged in supplying guns and giving instructions on how to make and use "Molotov cocktails." Various "marches" and "demonstrations" have been scheduled and announced for the spring and summer of 1968. A series of disorders far more sensational than any witnessed last year is still expected.

Both federal and state troops have been mobilized in large numbers. The realistic fact is that instigators of riots are not being detected or apprehended. Congress is being stampeded into passing legislation to provide more civil rights "reforms" but the Negro leaders themselves seem unable to cope with the virtual insurrection which has left its mark on almost every section of the country.

Drew Pearson Says

Washington, Baltimore Suffer By Delayed Police Integration

WASHINGTON—Some lessons regarding police training can be drawn from the rioting following the assassination of Martin Luther King.

Atlanta, Ga., under liberal but tough Police Chief Herbert Jenkins, had no riots. Twenty years ago Jenkins began integrating the Atlanta police, and has Negro cops patrolling Negro sections of his city. But if looting or rioting starts, they are under strict orders to stand in front of any broken window with a shotgun and shoot looters.

Another city which went unscathed was Philadelphia, under Police Chief Frank Rizzo, one of the toughest cops in the USA. Philadelphia police are well integrated and have been for some time.

On the other hand, Washington, D. C., where the police were under instructions not to fire at looters, suffered blocks of destruction, as did Baltimore, where a similar order was in force. Under the circumstances, they did a superb job. But looters saw the police were not retaliating as they pillaged downtown stores and the looting increased. It was impossible for the police to arrest more than the ringleaders.

Washington and Baltimore were both handicapped by two factors: (1) lack of early police integration; and (2) reported instructions of black power leaders to make these cities, along with Chicago, the chief targets in the nation.

In the nation's capital, former Police Chief Robert Murray had a strict policy of hiring no Negroes. His successors have changed that policy, and Commissioner Patrick Murphy has been hiring and promoting well qualified Negroes as rapidly as possible.

In Baltimore, Donald Pomerleau, considered one of the best qualified police commissioners in the country, has also been hiring Negro police at an accelerated rate, but qualified men are not easy to get in a short time. Pomerleau has been trying to secure Negroes with high school educations, but not many are available. About 20 per cent of the Baltimore police force is integrated; about 12 per cent of the entire force comprises high school graduates.

Assassination Changed Plans

Both cities, however, suffered from the black power advocates of violence. It's now learned that the original schedule for burning the capital was June 18-19. It was also planned that, after federal troops had moved into Washington, black terrorists would move on to Baltimore before troops could get there.

The target date was stepped up from June to April after King's assassination. It's significant that Baltimore was quite peaceful during the first two days of rioting in Washington. Then it flared even more viciously.

Also significant is the fact that some of the most determined looters in Washington were government employes. D. C. judges who sat all night processing the 4,000 arrested looters were flabbergasted at the fact that a predominant number worked for the government. What the Negro world will be waiting to see is whether these looters lose their government jobs. If they don't, it will be a signal for more looting in the future.

A great majority of Negroes in Washington are bitter over the looting. The looters constituted a very small percentage of the Negro population. Washington was considered a model city until last week's riots broke out. Therefore the Negro population will watch with great interest to what happens to the government employes who flouted the government which employed them.

Smog Control Drags

The people of Los Angeles don't know it yet, but they will probably gag on a smog a little longer because the Justice Department declines to take drastic action.

Inside the Justice Department, Assistant Attorney General Donald Turner has given preliminary orders to his staff to drop a criminal antitrust case against the big automobile companies on a charge of conspiring to suppress exhaust patents to clean up auto smog.

For 18 months the Justice Department has conducted a grand jury probe of this alleged conspiracy, and Samuel Flatow, in charge of the investigation, has asked Assistant Attorney General Turner to instruct him to bring criminal indictments.

However, Turner has chickened. He's about to drop any criminal action, and start new civil action instead. This will mean that 18 months of the taxpayers' money for conducting the investigation goes down the drain; also that more time elapses while the civil case is prepared. Turner, incidentally, is the pal of Lloyd Cutler, astute and able attorney for the automobile industry.

Note: Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., recently told the antitrust section of the American Bar Association: "Antitrust today is sick and nobody seems greatly concerned." Attorney General Ramsey Clark says that he is concerned, but apparently he's too busy with race riots to watch his own antitrust division. Meanwhile the Federal Communications Commission reports that mergers in manufacturing and mining industries rose by 50 per cent last year, the "sharpest increase in modern industrial history."

Merry-Go-Round

The Republican Congressional Committee struggled frantically to kill its Daily News Digest of April 5, the day after Martin Luther King was assassinated. It contained two critical items about King and his march on Washington by Rep. Robert Michel, Ill., and Rep. William Brock, Tenn. Brock maintained that King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference should not have tax-exempt status. All copies of the News Digest that could be collected were killed. . . . Rep. Lawrence G. Williams, Pa., also protested in the Republican Congressional Newsletter against the Interior Department's plan to permit King's Poor People's March to use national park areas in Washington.

U.S. War Role in Vietnam Bolsters, Thailand and Laos

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

BANGKOK (NEA)—It gives strong pause to hear the troubled thoughts of Thai and Lao men and women in all walks of life who believe their lives, their hopes for the future and the very existence of their countries depend on the willingness of the United States to sacrifice its young men to protect a very small nation more than 8,000 miles away.

Some Americans may have doubts about why we are in Vietnam. But there's no doubt in the minds of the Thai and Lao this reporter has met up with here and in Vietiane and in the miles in between.

The Thai government's backing is firm and unwavering. It has been picking from among its best troops for additional forces to fight side by side with American units in the war. But this reporter found admiration for the U.S. defense of South Vietnam equally strong among the major opposition political groups and among ordinary people.

Typical was a long talk this reporter had with one of the grand old men of Thailand—a blunt, frank patriot who has been out of power since the military government was established more than a decade ago. He fought the Japanese as a leader in the Free Thai Movement in World War II.

"I don't know you can do it" he said—"to fight for a small country so far away. But it is a wonderful thing that you are doing.

"If you were not there in Vietnam, my country would go down also.

"The big fear here is that you will leave, that you will get tired of this effort that is costing you so much. Already there are the rumors.

"It seems impossible for us to believe that you will continue these big sacrifies for Vietnam and us. I don't know how the mothers can stand to see their sons go. But we are thankful that you do this.

"If you leave, the North Vietnamese will take us for sure. We would accommodate, as we did when the Japanese came—on the surface. Underneath, we would resist. We would smile and say 'Yes sir.' But we would slow them down. We would be like—what do you say—mush. And they would be sorry that they came.

"But we would have no country either."

In Laos, the story is the same. "The North Vietnamese could and would take us over in a few weeks if you weren't in Vietnam," said one official. His words were echoed by all Lao this reporter met, high and low, in government and out.

The people in Laos feel very much alone out at the end of things. Their economy is hurting badly because of the North Vietnamese raids on the rice-growing regions and the high costs of the war. They are up against superior numbers of North Vietnamese troops.

Their situation would seem hopeless. But to the Lao who talked to me, there will be hope so long as the United States stands strong in Vietnam and in Thailand.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

"There," I said to my wife. "How does the TV set look recessed in the wall?" "Like a million dollars," she said, and burst into tears. Women can't bear to admit it when they are wrong. She ran to our room sobbing.

In our family, I am the tough trader. Kelly is the soft touch. She hasn't the brass to examine the rare Japanese object d'art where it says underneath "Made in Jersey City." I am the one who has to watch the butcher weigh his thumb with the half pound of imported salami; or to rationalize the sale which declares "One pound of coffee 45 cents" and, underneath in light-face agate, "with every $50 order when a full moon falls on Sunday."

Take that recessed television set. It had color, most of the time. Sometimes it depicted nothing but an Alaskan blizzard hours on end. I bought that set. Four hundred and fifty skins from a dear, dedicated buddy.

We had the set, but it was too big. One day a man stood at the side door and said he was looking for work. Well, he came to a good place because I have never seen more of it waiting to be done than in our place. I asked if he knew anything about television. It turned out nothing much — he only wrote the book. He was like a TV Ph.D. cum louder.

I invited him in. He was of French descent and his name was Alphonse Dummet, which is pronounced doom-aye, but sounds better Anglicized as dummy. I asked Dummy to split a cup of coffee and a piece of toast with me, but he said he couldn't eat anything because he had a wife and three little kids on the other side of town and they were starving. The toast would stick in his throat.

Okay, I showed him the big box. "Can you put that square object inside this wall?" I said. "What's in that wall?" he said, intelligently. "It leads to the center hall," I told him. "Ah" he said. Dummy examined the set, the wall, got inside the center closet, caught his neck on a wire hanger, came out and said it could be done.

"How much?" I said, narrowing my eyes because I wanted him to know that I am no sucker. He studied the lids and said: "I'll work for anything, mister. My poor little kids . . . ." "Let's leave your little ones out of this, shall we?" I said, opening the eyes and closing the trap.

He would work for $2 an hour. Fair enough. Kelly didn't like it; she said he looked like a weeping crook who would cheat his mother at bingo. I said "Fie!" and ordered her to stick to soiled dishes and such like. "If Mr. Dummy has any children," she said, "they are about as legitimate as he is." A canard to be sure.

After that, I became acquainted with Dummy's face. His face was framed in a hole in my wall. When the hole had been squared off, he looked like a good color picture, sweating. Some days he was there. Some days not. Week after week, I watched him appear and disappear. Some mornings, I missed him and his chisel. He looked like something coming out of a San Quentin sewer.

The first check we gave Dummy was for a hundred. The kids needed milk. After that, the tapping became regular. "How many ways do I love thee?" he would murmur. "Let me count the hours." And he did. One day he heard me say that I needed an air conditioner for a small room. Dummy came out of the hole in the way to say that it just happened that he had one. Why pay $225? Take mine—practically brand new—for $150.

I did. We paid in cash. I never saw Dummy again. After three months, we had a big box in addition to a hole in the wall. The air conditioner had a cha-cha beat. When I shut it off, it sounded like the last of an ice cream soda through a straw.

Two days later a doctor was at my door. He said he was sorry to intrude, but he was sure I had stolen his air conditioner. He had the serial number on a sheet of paper, in addition to a bill of sale. He wanted to charge me for taking it out of my window. This gave us two big holes.

My wife called a qualified television man and he crouched through the center closet and got in the hole in the wall. He was there a moment and he busted out laughing. He came out with the big box. The television box was still intact, but there was nothing inside it. My friend Dummy had stolen the parts, one by one, and sold them. He had drawn $380 in pay. The new t.v. man wanted $400 for a new set, with the empty box as a trade-in.

I took it. "How does the new t.v. set look?" I said to my wife. "Like a million dollars," she said and burst into tears. They hate to admit when they're wrong . . .

McCarthy in Race to Win

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two primaries and two candidates ago, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy wryly remarked that his Democratic campaign for the White House was taking "a controlled fall." He doesn't joke about it that way now.

For the Minnesota Democrat has experienced victory, has sampled the prospect that what once seemed a futile gesture could actually lead him to the presidency.

Where once he spoke of an effort to change the course of a Democratic administration on war in Vietnam, now McCarthy talks of making his party's race against former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the front running candidate for the Republican nomination.

The metamorphosis began with New Hampshire's startling primary verdict on March 12: a 42 per cent vote for McCarthy, 20 of 24 Democratic convention votes for him.

The two candidates followed, one in each direction. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., entered the race March 16, and McCarthy has been taunting him ever since as a tardy arrival.

And President Johnson stepped aside on March 31.

Then came McCarthy's April 2 Wisconsin primary landslide, a 57 per cent share of the vote.

Kennedy wasn't on the ballot there, but he will be in Indiana on May 7. And McCarthy has asknowledged the primary tests may prove more difficult to his cause.

But he insists he will wage to the end—the Democratic National Convention in Chicago—the campaign he announced on Nov. 30.

And the major shift, from an effort to focus internal Democratic debate on Vietnam policy to one designed to win the White House, already has occurred.

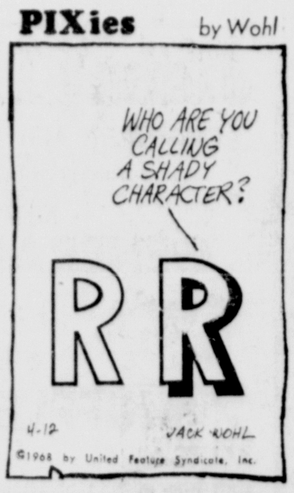

It was, perhaps best signaled by McCarthy's nationwide television address from Milwaukee on April 1, delivered in his familiar low-key style.

"This effort is really no longer, if it ever was, one which was concerned simply with raising issues," McCarthy said. "It was never just an educational program, although some of the critics of my effort in the early stages suggested that that was really all that it could be.

"This is my role today, this is what I am—a candidate for the nomination of the Democratic Party for the presidency of the United States of America."

This was the man who, three months earlier, had said that if Robert Kennedy would challenge Johnson "there would be no need for me to try."

Hanoi: The Most Unusual Capital

William C. Baggs, editor of the Miami News, has made a second trip to North Vietnam. His first visit was in January, 1967. This is the third of Mr. Baggs' reports on his findings.

News

HANOI, North Vietman (AP — Delayed) — This old city simply has to be the most unusual capital in the world today.

It is a city without children. Except on weekends. It is a Communist capital where the young and the old enthusiastically crowd the cathedral of the Roman Catholic church. The prevailing religion is Buddhist, but the ancient pagodas are more the breeding place for cobwebs than for believers.

The shops open before the sun—at 5 a.m. They close three hours later and not until five in the afternoon do they open again. Retail trade exists only at either end of the day.

No 'Red Lights,' Bars

There are no houses of prostitution. There are no hard liquor bars. And, at the beer gardens in the city, most of the customers order tea or a cool drink uninspired by an alcoholic knock.

And finally, this is a city where private enterprise still co-exists with the Communist economy. You can purchase extra food, which is rationed, at the private markets flourishing on the sides of the roads. Or, at the other extreme from the necessities of life, you can buy French or Asian antiques from private shops. These non-government enterprises operate without any cloak of subterfuge, and must be approved. You just walk in and do business.

Doubtless the strangest aspect of life in Hanoi is the absence of the young.

More than 300,000 children have been evacuated to schools in the countryside.

Then, on the weekends, it seems as if all of them suddenly reappear, and the city is filled with the wonderful, clattering noises of children until Monday noon when they emigrate on the weary old busses back into the countryside.

One million Catholics fled to the south of Vietnam when the revolutionaries began to establish their Marxist-Leninist society in the north. The Virgin has gone south, an archbishop said. Now, there are only native priests in the North, no foreigners, but there is no apparent scheme by the state to discourage Catholic worship.

Mass in Five Languages

One gentleman of Catholic persuasion said he had a difficult time getting into the cathedral during the Christmas holidays. He also reported that mass was served in five languages . . . Vietnamese, French, Chinese, German and English.

But the pagodas are a different story. Buddhism must still be the dominant religion in North Vietnam, but you never would guess it by the frequency of worshippers in the pagodas. Old women and old men are the lonely caretakers of these ancient temples, and few other people are seen inside them.

One theory is that the North Vietnamese, in an evolving accommodation of their religion to Communist life, are developing a personal approach to Buddha, which does not require their presence in the pagodas.

Much Explanation

A load of propaganda is laid upon a visitor in explaining why the shops open early, close at 8 a.m., and do not get back into business until late in the day. The authorities say they fear that the U.S. bombers may come and customers might be injured or killed if they were out on the streets with retail purchases in mind. Maybe so. But you also can easily believe that the early and late shopping hours fit rather nicely into the Hanoi tradition of a little catnap when the sun stands at the top of the sky. The siesta, or the Asian equivalent of it, is an honored tradition here.

Asia, by legend and fact, has never been a Sahara of women for hire. The species generally described as old Asian hands, however, tell a less learned visitor that Hanoi probably has fewer prostitutes than any city of comparable size in this neighborhood.

Ho Chi the Reason

One reason is said to be Ho Chi Minh, founder of the government in North Vietnam and the only president the country has ever had. According to the story, Ho shipped more than 1,800 prostitutes across the Red River to a camp, had them indoctrinated in personal hygiene, and now they are the public health officers in the cities of the country.

And then there is the incongruity of private enterprise existing alongside the controlled economy of a Communist state. Some persons here argue that Marxism-Leninist theory is almost incidental, and that the primary characteristic of the North Viet people is nationalism. And this may very well be true.

Public Welfare Topic of Talk For Kiwanians

Speaking on the subject of Public Welfare—"the whipping boy for the ills of society," Harold Larsen of the Department of Social Services of Ulster County told the members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club that seven million dollars of the county budget is earmarked for his particular department.

Larsen explained that originally it had been anticipated that Social Security would take care of those who suffered from various troubles and needed assistance, "but such was not the case."

He listed the work of the Department of Social Services as caring for older people, the blind, the disabled persons and families in need. He revealed that the local department maintains three infirmaries, supports foster home and hospital care, and provides glasses, dentures and drugs for the elderly who cannot take care of themselves.

It was noted that approximately 10 per cent of the population in Ulster County was the object of some sort of aid, that there had been increases in the cost of operation of the department, and that a large share of those receiving help were located in the City of Kingston.

On Regional Plans

Advisory Council Favored

William K. Hayes, executive vice-president of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association, has called on government officials from six counties to invite formation of an Industry Advisory Council on Regional Development, to be composed of executives of companies both large and small, engaged in a wide variety of industries, and drawn from all sections of the Mid-Hudson area.

Pledges Cooperation

Speaking before a recent meeting of the Mid-Hudson Intercounty Council at the Dutchess County Office Building, Poughkeepsie, Hayes emphasized the advisory character of the proposed group. He told the government officials that "it would concern itself with presenting to you, at your call or on its own initiative, public policy recommendations which it believes will encourage an increased rate of industrial growth and employment, and the kind of vibrant, diversified economy upon which all our hopes depend. If properly constituted, it will make available to you as a permanent resource the best thinking of a true cross-section of our industrial leadership on the problems and challenges facing the Hudson Valley in these last decades of the Twentieth Century." He offered the "full and prompt cooperation of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association in organizing the Advisory Council and in developing it as an effective partner in progress."

Urges Action

On another matter, Hayes urged the county government officers to act through the Intercounty Council to commit the Mid-Hudson area to a long range plan for economic diversification and to implement its plan by establishing "a single official industrial development body, supported by and representing the entire region, and led by the best professional staff we can attract."

Addressing himself to the problems of water supply and water pollution, he noted that even if a manufacturer uses no water at all in his industrial processes, lack of pressure greatly increases the cost of his insurance. He said that "through the Intercounty Council, the leaders of Mid-Hudson county governments can plan for water districts which are not limited by the political boundaries of one or two municipalities—which extend wherever they need to extend to serve present and future areas of industrial expansion throughout the region."

Aware of Pollution

On pollution: "Industrial enterprises today are acutely aware of the problems of water pollution and have no desire to pump raw wastes into the waterways. But they must also be mindful of the cost of building and maintaining their own treatment facilities where the existing public facilities cannot carry the additional load. If the Mid-Hudson area is to be competitive in attracting and holding job-producing industries, we will want to be sure that as new public waste treatment plants are built or existing ones enlarged, extra capacity is provided for the future. Here again, strong leadership by the Intercounty Council is the key."

Hanoi: The Most Unusual Capital

William C. Baggs, editor of the Miami News, has made a second trip to North Vietnam. His first visit was in January, 1967. This is the third of Mr. Baggs' reports on his findings.

News

HANOI, North Vietman (AP — Delayed) — This old city simply has to be the most unusual capital in the world today.

It is a city without children. Except on weekends. It is a Communist capital where the young and the old enthusiastically crowd the cathedral of the Roman Catholic church. The prevailing religion is Buddhist, but the ancient pagodas are more the breeding place for cobwebs than for believers.

The shops open before the sun —at 5 a.m. They close three hours later and not until five in the afternoon do they open again. Retail trade exists only at either end of the day.

No 'Red Lights,' Bars

There are no houses of prostitution. There are no hard liquor bars. And, at the beer gardens in the city, most of the customers order tea or a cool drink uninspired by an alcoholic knock.

And finally, this is a city where private enterprise still co-exists with the Communist economy. You can purchase extra food, which is rationed, at the private markets flourishing on the sides of the roads. Or, at the other extreme from the necessities of life, you can buy French or Asian antiques from private shops. These non- government enterprises operate without any cloak of subterfuge, and must be approved. You just walk in and do business.

Doubtless the strangest aspect of life in Hanoi is the absence of the young.

More than 300,000 children have been evacuated to schools in the countryside.

Then, on the weekends, it seems as if all of them suddenly reappear, and the city is filled with the wonderful, clattering noises of children until Monday noon when they emigrate on the weary old busses back into the countryside.

One million Catholics fled to the south of Vietnam when the revolutionaries began to establish their Marxist-Leninist society in the north. The Virgin has gone south, an archbishop said. Now, there are only native priests in the North, no foreigners, but there is no apparent scheme by the state to discourage Catholic worship.

Mass in Five Languages

One gentleman of Catholic persuasion said he had a difficult time getting into the cathedral during the Christmas holidays. He also reported that mass was served in five languages . . . Vietnamese, French, Chinese, German and English.

But the pagodas are a different story. Buddhism must still be the dominant religion in North Vietnam, but you never would guess it by the frequency of worshippers in the pagodas. Old women and old men are the lonely caretakers of these ancient temples, and few other people are seen inside them.

One theory is that the North Vietnamese, in an evolving accommodation of their religion to Communist life, are developing a personal approach to Buddha, which does not require their presence in the pagodas.

Much Explanation

A load of propaganda is laid upon a visitor in explaining why the shops open early, close at 8 a.m., and do not get back into business until late in the day. The authorities say they fear that the U.S. bombers may come and customers might be injured or killed if they were out on the streets with retail purchases in mind. Maybe so. But you also can easily believe that the early and late shopping hours fit rather nicely into the Hanoi tradition of a little catnap when the sun stands at the top of the sky. The siesta, or the Asian equivalent of it, is an honored tradition here.

Asia, by legend and fact, has never been a Sahara of women for hire. The species generally described as old Asian hands, however, tell a less learned visitor that Hanoi probably has fewer prostitutes than any city of comparable size in this neighborhood.

Ho Chi the Reason

One reason is said to be Ho Chi Minh, founder of the government in North Vietnam and the only president the country has ever had. According to the story, Ho shipped more than 1,800 prostitutes across the Red River to a camp, had them indoctrinated in personal hygiene, and now they are the public health officers in the cities of the country.

And then there is the incongruity of private enterprise existing alongside the controlled economy of a Communist state. Some persons here argue that Marxism-Leninist theory is almost incidental, and that the primary characteristic of the North Viet people is nationalism. And this may very well be true.

HO CHI MINH

Public Welfare Topic of Talk For Kiwanians

Speaking on the subject of Public Welfare—"the whipping boy for the ills of society," Harold Larsen of the Department of Social Services of Ulster County told the members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club that seven million dollars of the county budget is earmarked for his particular department.

Larsen explained that originally it had been anticipated that Social Security would take care of those who suffered from various troubles and needed assistance, "but such was not the case."

He listed the work of the Department of Social Services as caring for older people, the blind, the disabled persons and families in need. He revealed that the local department maintains three infirmaries, supports foster home and hospital care, and provides glasses, dentures and drugs for the elderly who cannot take care of themselves.

It was noted that approximately 10 per cent of the population in Ulster County was the object of some sort of aid, that there had been increases in the cost of operation of the department, and that a large share of those receiving help were located in the City of Kingston.

On Regional Plans

Advisory Council Favored

William K. Hayes, executive vice-president of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association, has called on government officials from six counties to invite formation of an Industry Advisory Council on Regional Development, to be composed of executives of companies both large and small, engaged in a wide variety of industries, and drawn from all sections of the Mid-Hudson area.

Pledges Cooperation

Speaking before a recent meeting of the Mid-Hudson Intercounty Council at the Dutchess County Office Building, Poughkeepsie, Hayes emphasized the advisory character of the proposed group. He told the government officials that "it would concern itself with presenting to you, at your call or on its own initiative, public policy recommendations which it believes will encourage an increased rate of industrial growth and employment, and the kind of vibrant, diversified economy upon which all our hopes depend. If properly constituted, it will make available to you as a permanent resource the best thinking of a true cross-section of our industrial leadership on the problems and challenges facing the Hudson Valley in these last decades of the Twentieth Century." He offered the "full and prompt cooperation of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association in organizing the Advisory Council and in developing it as an effective partner in progress."

Urges Action

On another matter, Hayes urged the county government officers to act through the Intercounty Council to commit the Mid-Hudson area to a long range plan for economic diversification and to implement its plan by establishing "a single official industrial development body, supported by and representing the entire region, and led by the best professional staff we can attract."

Addressing himself to the problems of water supply and water pollution, he noted that even if a manufacturer uses no water at all in his industrial processes, lack of pressure greatly increases the cost of his insurance. He said that "through the Intercounty Council, the leaders of Mid-Hudson county governments can plan for water districts which are not limited by the political boundaries of one or two municipalities — which extend wherever they need to extend to serve present and future areas of industrial expansion throughout the region."

Aware of Pollution

On pollution: "Industrial enterprises today are acutely aware of the problems of water pollution and have no desire to pump raw wastes into the waterways. But they must also be mindful of the cost of building and maintaining their own treatment facilities where the existing public facilities cannot carry the additional load. If the Mid-Hudson area is to be competitive in attracting and holding job-producing industries, we will want to be sure that as new public waste treatment plants are built or existing ones enlarged, extra capacity is provided for the future. Here again, strong leadership by the Intercounty Council is the key."

Political Hopefuls Begin Warm-Ups

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sure that their man will declare soon for the Democratic presidential nomination, backers of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey have organized United Democrats for Humphrey with former President Harry S. Truman as honorary chairman.

A score of public figures, including two senators and five members of the House, were named Thursday as sponsors. But the only two governors on the list later denied they had authorized use of their names.

They were Gov. William L. Guy of North Dakota and Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee.

Humphrey, expected to jump into the race soon after Easter, said in Baton Rouge, La., Thursday night he stands on the record of the present administration and is "not going to retreat from it one bit."

"I do not intend to disavow either President Johnson or the Johnson-Humphrey administration," he said to the Louisiana AFL-CIO.

"I intend to stand up for the promises we have kept. I intend to take our message to the country—an affirmative, positive, hopeful message."

Besides Truman, founder of United Democrats for Humphrey include Sens. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, Mayors Ivan Allen Jr. of Atlanta and A. J. Cervantes of St. Louis, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO; James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman; assistant House majority leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana and four other House members.

Elsewhere on the political scene, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said he is still available if the party wants him. And Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan, of California was showing signs of increased political activity.

Reagan aides said the governor who announced earlier this year he was all but cutting out national speeches, is scheduling several at which he will discuss "problems facing the country."

Rockefeller was asked at a news conference in New York if, in view of his March 21 statement that he would not seek the nomination, he still wants to be president.

"If the party wants me," he replied, "the answer is yes."

In Washington, Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said a Rockefeller booster group was setting out to round up convention delegates in favor of Rockefeller to convince him he's wanted.

"We'll do it in four weeks," Morton said. "We'll have more delegates lined up in four weeks than a mule can haul."

The new Rockefeller for President Committee will be headed by J. Irwin Miller, of Columbus, Ind., chairman of the Cummins Engine Co.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, stalking the Democratic nomination, advocated a guaranteed minimum income in a speech at Boston University.

The Minnesotan also called for a federally subsidized health insurance program for the poor. The United States "has passed the point of no return with reference to domestic problems," he said.

McCarthy's rival, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, of New York, proposed a sweeping "national reconstruction" program at Lansing, Mich.

The building of needed schools, hospitals, parks, transportation systems and homes would benefit the nation and take the energies of thousands who cannot find work, Kennedy said.

"This is man's work," he said, "solid and substantial, by itself the best antidote to the debilitating and degrading welfare system."

Faces Possible Expulsion For Giving False Address

NEW YORK (AP) — Linda LeClair, 20, a sophomore at Barnard College, faces possible expulsion or suspension from school for allegedly giving a false off-campus address so that she could move in with her boy friend.

The school administration charged Miss LeClair at a hearing Thursday with violating college regulations by giving a false address. The hearing was continued at her request to April 16 so that additional witnesses could be called.

The case has aroused a great interest at the college because Miss LeClair has admitted openly that she lied to school authorities in order to move out of her residence hall and into an apartment with her boy friend.

The boy friend was identified as Peter Behr, a junior at Columbia University.

Miss LeClair is from New Hampshire, but the college declined to give her home town.

The hearing is being conducted by a nine-member student faculty judicial committee.

Her address was 525 Lyell Ave.

Steal Frozen Shrimp

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — State Police are on the lookout for a tractor-trailer and 16,000 pounds of "hot," frozen shrimp.

Henry D. Berg of Winchester, Va. told troopers Wednesday his truck and the cargo were taken from a truckers' motel in suburban Henrietta.

The vehicle and the shrimp each were worth $25,000, Berg said.

Fire Causes Heavy Damage At Girls' School

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Fire has caused heavy damage to Mercy Hall, a dormitory housing 150 girls at Trinity College.

The college is closed this week for Easter vacation so none of the residents of the hall were there when the blaze broke out Thursday night. The college has an enrollment of 480.

The fire was confined to the fourth floor and burned through the roof. However, smoke and water went through the other floors causing heavy damage.

More than 50 firemen were brought to the scene by three alarms. Three firemen were injured and treated at a hospital for cuts and smoke inhalation.

Recall 100 000 Chrysler Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Recall of more than 100,000 Chrysler 1968 model vehicles for possible defects, including faulty carburetors and brakes, has been announced.

Chrysler said Thursday 100,080 Chrysler, Dodge and Plymouth cars equipped with high performance engines and four-barrel carburetors may have fast idle cams which could operate improperly after prolonged use.

The auto firm said notices also were being sent to dealers and customers regarding possible brake fluid contamination in 240 medium duty Dodge trucks.

In another callback, 27 current model Dodge Darts equipped with a 383-cubic inch engine and manual steering will be checked for installation of incorrect left side engine exhaust manifolds.

The Capital-Riot Troops Carbon Copy Elsewhere

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 14,000 troops called into the nation's capital to quell racial violence operated according to well-laid plans—plans their commander says have been made for every city with a potential for racial civil disorders strife.

Gen. Ralph E. Haines Jr., the Army's vice chief of staff who commands the troops in Washington, said the national contingency plans are known collectively as "Garden Plot." Washington's plan is called "Operation Cabin Guard."

The troops are still in this city although there hasn't been serious trouble since Saturday night, the third night of violence following the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Memphis, Tenn.

Haines took newsmen on a tour Thursday of three bivouac areas for the troops.

Haines said that as early as last August, Army officers had walked Washington's streets, surveying the scene and getting acquainted with local officials and police officers they would have to work with in any riot emergency.

Haines said the Washington plan had been developed for several years and was revised after last summer's Detroit riot on the basis of Army experiences there.

Haines said that establishing contact with local officials and police and the advance planning are important in easing the dispatch of thousands of troops "into a strange city, especially if it's in flames."

Hundreds of fires and widespread looting had broken out when President Johnson ordered the troops into the capital last Friday.

"There's one of these plans for every city you can think of," Haines said.

Bay State GOPers Backing Rockefeller

BOSTON (AP) — Some leading Massachusetts Republicans cheered the word from Washington Thursday that a new organization is forming to back New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for president.

One of the organizers is Sen. Edward W. Brooks, R-Mass., who was an early backer of Gov. George Romney of Michigan. Since Romney's withdrawal, Brooke has been supporting Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts as a favorite son candidate.

Volpe is interested in the vice presidential nomination.

Josiah A. Spaulding, Republican state chairman, called the Rockefeller committee plan "wonderful" and said it would restore to the Republicans the campaign momentum they lost when Richard M. Nixon would up alone in the field for the GOP nomination.

"Nixon can't get to the public by talking to himself," he said.

Lt. Gov. Francis W. Sargent, who is acting governor in the absence of Gov. Volpe, in Japan with a group of U.S. governors, said it was natural for people to think of Rockefeller again after the events of the last couple of weeks.

He said the withdrawal of President Johnson and the entry of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., in the Democratic field, plus the assassination of Martin Luther King and the destructive city riots which followed his death, made the political campaign this year "a whole new ball game."

Rockefeller, he said, "is a man as expert in federal, state and city problems as any man in America."

He said Nixon couldn't get any real national attention if he was running unopposed for the nomination.

Sen. John F. Parker of Taunton, GOP floor leader in the State Senate, also welcomed the organization of the committee, but said Rockefeller still appears to be a reluctant candidate.

"Wishful thinking isn't going to win any election for the Republican party," he said. "We need some real bellowing in the jungle...."

O'Connor Will Serve Group For Humphrey

NEW YORK (AP) — City Council President Frank D. O'Connor said today he will serve on the committee supporting Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination because Humphrey "can fulfill our quest for national unity."

O'Connor, who had aligned himself with the forces supporting President Johnson before his withdrawal from the race, said:

"I believe Vice President Humphrey is singularly qualified by experiecne and emotional and intellecutal commitment to preserve and expand the democratic idealism inherent in the Kennedy-Johnson aministrations"

He said he had given serious consideration to the candidacies of both Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, both of whom he termed men "of character and ability."

"Both men have rendered useful public service in discussing the issues of the day," O'Connor said, "But, unfortunately, in doing so, their candidacies have become identified with factionalism and fragmentation of nation and party."

"Thus, they cannot provide the broad national appeal which Vice President Humphrey's candidacy will give to our country and the Democratic party."

Yates Ordered Back to State On Bank Charge

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Officials here have ordered Harry Yates, 22, of Liberty, N. Y., returned to New York State to face charges of staging a $13,361 holdup of the United National Bank in Callicoon, N.Y., southwest of the Catskills.

Yates surrendered to the FBI March 17, 10 days after the holdup. His extradition was ordered Thursday.

time they saw their daughter alive.

Authorities temporarily eliminated the clothes found not far from the rear of the lounge. They said they would check later to find the owner of those clothes, which had evidence of vomit.

Known to Parents

Benjamin was known to the Bensons, according to investigators, but said the girl's parents knew nothing about tneir daughter dating the marine, if she had.

Invesigator Teelon said the girl apparently went directly to the High Woods establishment from her home. While there she met Benjamin and some of her friends. Benjamin and the girl danced and there was some friendly drinking, as far as authorities could learn.

After midnight Benjamin and Miss Benson left separately but not far apart in time. Benjamin was first to walk out of the lounge, it was said. What happened after that was a key point the investigators were endeavoring to determine.

Marks on Throat

Teelon told a reporter at the scene that marks were found on the victim's throat. He also said bruises were found on her head, which was bleeding. Search of the area disclosed no weapon, but blood was reportedly found on some rocks not far from the body.

The investigator said Benjamin "made certain comments about the crime." He did not elaborate. It was learned that the accused man started to make a statement and then stopped abruptly.

Information Filed

Informations were filed against Benjamin. According to Teelon the complaint charged that Benjamin "did, with intent to cause a death of another, caused the death of another, to wit, the defendant did cause the death of Brenda Joan Benson by the use of his hands."

After the questioning ended and the necessary papers were prepared to present before Saugerties Town Justice Calvin Cody at arraignment of the accused man, Benjamin was taken to Saugerties.

Benjamin requested a preliminary examination and Judge Cody adjourned the case until Monday, April 22 at 9 a. m. The defendant was committed to the county jail without bail pending further court proceedings.

Shortly after the discovery of the body, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Reardon, pastor of St. John's Church at Veteran was called to the scene. He administered the last rites of the church to Miss Benson.

Sheriff at Scene

Investigating at the scene of the death of the girl were Sheriff William B. Martin, State Police Lieut. A. F. Van Blarcum, County Investigator Harold T. Bowers, Investigator Joseph Ventriglia, Investigator Teelon, Assistant District Attorney Francis Vogt, Sergeant Joseph Ellsworth and Troopers Craig Bremer and James Fitzgerald who took photographs of the area including the spot where the body was found and where the girls' clothes were piled, and the location of the cars belonging to Miss Benson and Benjamin. Deputy James Milesky and others from the sheriff's office and state police assisted.

Ulster County Coroner Henry S. Hartley of Saugerties went to the scene and removed the body of the dead woman to the county morgue in Kingston where an autopsy was scheduled .

Ironically, the name of the victim—Benson, was the same family name of a Wallkill woman whose murder on Easter Monday in 1963 never was solved with an arrest. The Wallkill victim was Carol Ruth Benson.

While in Saugerties High School, Miss Benson belonged to the English club and the Homemaking Club. She played volleyball, archery and soccer and was on the staff of the Ulsterette, the school newspaper. She also was a member of the National Honor Society.

Three of Benjamin's brothers are in military service. Lieut. Gilbert Benjamin is with the U. S. Marines in Vietnam near Saigon. He is a 19-year veteran of the armed forces. Sergeant William Benjamin is serving in Korea with the U. S. Air Force, and another brother, T/Sgt. Reginald Benjamin is in the U. S. Air Force stationed at Presque Isle, Me. He has been in service 16 years.

Political Hopefuls Begin Warm-Ups

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sure that their man will declare soon for the Democratic presidential nomination, backers of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey have organized United Democrats for Humphrey with former President Harry S. Truman as honorary chairman.

A score of public figures, including two senators and five members of the House, were named Thursday as sponsors. But the only two governors on the list later denied they had authorized use of their names.

They were Gov. William L. Guy of North Dakota and Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee.

Humphrey, expected to jump into the race soon after Easter, said in Baton Rouge, La., Thursday night he stands on the record of the present administration and is "not going to retreat from it one bit."

"I do not intend to disavow either President Johnson or the Johnson-Humphrey administration," he said to the Louisiana AFL-CIO.

"I intend to stand up for the promises we have kept. I intend to take our message to the country—an affirmative, positive, hopeful message."

Besides Truman, founder of United Democrats for Humphrey include Sens. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, Mayors Ivan Allen Jr. of Atlanta and A. J. Cervantes of St. Louis, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO; James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman; assistant House majority leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana and four other House members.

Elsewhere on the political scene, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said he is still available if the party wants him. And Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan, of California was showing signs of increased political activity.

Reagan aides said the governor who announced earlier this year he was all but cutting out national speeches, is scheduling several at which he will discuss "problems facing the country."

Rockefeller was asked at a news conference in New York if, in view of his March 21 statement that he would not seek the nomination, he still wants to be president.

"If the party wants me," he replied, "the answer is yes."

In Washington, Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said a Rockefeller booster group was setting out to round up convention delegates in favor of Rockefeller to convince him he's wanted.

"We'll do it in four weeks," Morton said. "We'll have more delegates lined up in four weeks than a mule can haul."

The new Rockefeller for President Committee will be headed by J. Irwin Miller, of Columbus, Ind., chairman of the Cummins Engine Co.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, stalking the Democratic nomination, advocated a guaranteed minimum income in a speech at Boston University.

The Minnesotan also called for a federally subsidized health insurance program for the poor. The United States "has passed the point of no return with reference to domestic problems," he said.

McCarthy's rival, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, of New York, proposed a sweeping "national reconstruction" program at Lansing, Mich.

The building of needed schools, hospitals, parks, transportation systems and homes would benefit the nation and take the energies of thousands who cannot find work, Kennedy said.

"This is man's work," he said, "solid and substantial, by itself the best antidote to the debilitating and degrading welfare system."

Faces Possible Expulsion For Giving False Address

NEW YORK (AP) — Linda LeClair, 20, a sophomore at Barnard College, faces possible expulsion or suspension from school for allegedly giving a false off-campus address so that she could move in with her boy friend.

The school administration charged Miss LeClair at a hearing Thursday with violating college regulations by giving a false address. The hearing was continued at her request to April 16 so that additional witnesses could be called.

The case has aroused a great interest at the college because Miss LeClair has admitted openly that she lied to school authorities in order to move out of her residence hall and into an apartment with her boy friend.

The boy friend was identified as Peter Behr, a junior at Columbia University.

Miss LeClair is from New Hampshire, but the college declined to give her home town.

The hearing is being conducted by a nine-member student faculty judicial committee.

Killed by Auto

She was Mrs. Rose DiClementine, 76.

Her address was 525 Lyell Ave.

Steal Frozen Shrimp

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — State Police are on the lookout for a tractor-trailer and 16,000 pounds of "hot," frozen shrimp.

Henry D. Berg of Winchester, Va. told troopers Wednesday his truck and the cargo were taken from a truckers' motel in suburban Henrietta.

The vehicle and the shrimp each were worth $25,000, Berg said.

Fire Causes Heavy Damage At Girls' School

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Fire has caused heavy damage to Mercy Hall, a dormitory housing 150 girls at Trinity College.

The college is closed this week for Easter vacation so none of the residents of the hall were there when the blaze broke out Thursday night. The college has an enrollment of 480.

The fire was confined to the fourth floor and burned through the roof. However, smoke and water went through the other floors causing heavy damage.

More than 50 firemen were brought to the scene by three alarms. Three firemen were injured and treated at a hospital for cuts and smoke inhalation.

Recall 100 000 Chrysler Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Recall of more than 100,000 Chrysler 1968 model vehicles for possible defects, including faulty carburetors and brakes, has been announced.

Chrysler said Thursday 100,080 Chrysler, Dodge and Plymouth cars equipped with high performance engines and four-barrel carburetors may have fast idle cams which could operate improperly after prolonged use.

The auto firm said notices also were being sent to dealers and customers regarding possible brake fluid contamination in 240 medium duty Dodge trucks.

In another callback, 27 current model Dodge Darts equipped with a 383-cubic inch engine and manual steering will be checked for installation of incorrect left side engine exhaust manifolds.

The Capital-Riot Troops Carbon Copy Elsewhere

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 14,000 troops called into the nation's capital to quell racial violence operated according to well-laid plans—plans their commander says have been made for every city with a potential for racial civil disorders strife.

Gen. Ralph E. Haines Jr., the Army's vice chief of staff who commands the troops in Washington, said the national contingency plans are known collectively as "Garden Plot." Washington's plan is called "Operation Cabin Guard."

The troops are still in this city although there hasn't been serious trouble since Saturday night, the third night of violence following the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Memphis, Tenn.

Haines took newsmen on a tour Thursday of three bivouac areas for the troops.

Haines said that as early as last August, Army officers had walked Washington's streets, surveying the scene and getting acquainted with local officials and police officers they would have to work with in any riot emergency.

Haines said the Washington plan had been developed for several years and was revised after last summer's Detroit riot on the basis of Army experiences there.

Haines said that establishing contact with local officials and police and the advance planning are important in easing the dispatch of thousands of troops "into a strange city, especially if it's in flames."

Hundreds of fires and widespread looting had broken out when President Johnson ordered the troops into the capital last Friday.

"There's one of these plans for every city you can think of," Haines said.

Bay State GOPers Backing Rockefeller

BOSTON (AP) — Some leading Massachusetts Republicans cheered the word from Washington Thursday that a new organization is forming to back New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for president.

One of the organizers is Sen. Edward W. Brooks, R-Mass., who was an early backer of Gov. George Romney of Michigan. Since Romney's withdrawal, Brooke has been supporting Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts as a favorite son candidate.

Volpe is interested in the vice presidential nomination, Josiah A. Spaulding, Republican state chairman, called the Rockefeller committee plan "wonderful" and said it would restore to the Republicans the campaign momentum they lost when Richard M. Nixon would up alone in the field for the GOP nomination.

"Nixon can't get to the public by talking to himself," he said.

Lt. Gov. Francis W. Sargent, who is acting governor in the absence of Gov. Volpe, in Japan with a group of U.S. governors, said it was natural for people to think of Rockefeller again after the events of the last couple of weeks.

He said the withdrawal of President Johnson and the entry of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., in the Democratic field, plus the assassination of Martin Luther King and the destructive city riots which followed his death, made the political campaign this year "a whole new ball game."

Rockefeller, he said, "is a man as expert in federal, state and city problems as any man in America."

He said Nixon couldn't get any real national attention if he was running unopposed for the nomination.

Sen. John F. Parker of Taunton, GOP floor leader in the State Senate, also welcomed the organization of the committee, but said Rockefeller still appears to be a reluctant candidate.

"Wishful thinking isn't going to win any election for the Republican party," he said. "We need some real bellowing in the jungle...."

O'Connor Will Serve Group For Humphrey

NEW YORK (AP) — City Council President Frank D. O'Connor said today he will serve on the committee supporting Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic presidential nomination because Humphrey "can fulfill our quest for national unity."

O'Connor, who had aligned himself with the forces supporting President Johnson before his withdrawal from the race, said:

"I believe Vice President Humphrey is singularly qualified by experiecne and emotional and intellecutal commitment to preserve and expand the democratic idealism inherent in the Kennedy-Johnson aministrations"

He said he had given serious consideration to the candidacies of both Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, both of whom he termed men "of character and ability."

"Both men have rendered useful public service in discussing the issues of the day," O'Connor said, "But, unfortunately, in doing so, their candidacies have become identified with factionalism and fragmentation of nation and party."

"Thus, they cannot provide the broad national appeal which Vice President Humphrey's candidacy will give to our country and the Democratic party."

Yates Ordered Back to State On Bank Charge

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Officials here have ordered Harry Yates, 22, of Liberty, N. Y., returned to New York State to face charges of staging a $13,361 holdup of the United National Bank in Callicoon, N.Y., southwest of the Catskills.

Yates surrendered to the FBI March 17, 10 days after the holdup. His extradition was ordered Thursday.

time they saw their daughter alive.

Authorities temporarily eliminated the clothes found not far from the rear of the lounge. They said they would check later to find the owner of those clothes, which had evidence of vomit.

Known to Parents

Benjamin was known to the Bensons, according to investigators, but said the girl's parents knew nothing about their daughter dating the marine, if she had.

Invesigator Teelon said the girl apparently went directly to the High Woods establishment from her home. While there she met Benjamin and some of her friends. Benjamin and the girl danced and there was some friendly drinking, as far as authorities could learn.

After midnight Benjamin and Miss Benson left separately but not far apart in time. Benjamin was first to walk out of the lounge, it was said. What happened after that was a key point the investigators were endeavoring to determine.

Marks on Throat

Teelon told a reporter at the scene that marks were found on the victim's throat. He also said bruises were found on her head, which was bleeding. Search of the area disclosed no weapon, but blood was reportedly found on some rocks not far from the body.

The investigator said Benjamin "made certain comments about the crime." He did not elaborate. It was learned that the accused man started to make a statement and then stopped abruptly.

Information Filed

Informations were filed against Benjamin. According to Teelon the complaint charged that Benjamin "did, with intent to cause a death of another, caused the death of another, to wit, the defendant did cause the death of Brenda Joan Benson by the use of his hands."

After the questioning ended and the necessary papers were prepared to present before Saugerties Town Justice Calvin Cody at arraignment of the accused man, Benjamin was taken to Saugerties.

Benjamin requested a preliminary examination and Judge Cody adjourned the case until Monday, April 22 at 9 a. m. The defendant was committed to the county jail without bail pending further court proceedings.

Shortly after the discovery of the body, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Reardon, pastor of St. John's Church at Veteran was called to the scene. He administered the last rites of the church to Miss Benson.

Sheriff at Scene

Investigating at the scene of the death of the girl were Sheriff William B. Martin, State Police Lieut. A. F. Van Blarcum, County Investigator Harold T. Bowers, Investigator Joseph Ventriglia, Investigator Teelon, Assistant District Attorney Francis Vogt, Sergeant Joseph Ellsworth and Troopers Craig Bremer and James Fitzgerald who took photographs of the area including the spot where the body was found and where the girls' clothes were piled, and the location of the cars belonging to Miss Benson and Benjamin. Deputy James Milesky and others from the sheriff's office and state police assisted.

Ulster County Coroner Henry S. Hartley of Saugerties went to the scene and removed the body of the dead woman to the county morgue in Kingston where an autopsy was scheduled.

Ironically, the name of the victim—Benson, was the same family name of a Wallkill woman whose murder on Easter Monday in 1963 never was solved with an arrest. The Wallkill victim was Carol Ruth Benson.

While in Saugerties High School, Miss Benson belonged to the English club and the Homemaking Club. She played volleyball, archery and soccer and was on the staff of the Ulsterette, the school newspaper. She also was a member of the National Honor Society.

Three of Benjamin's brothers are in military service. Lieut. Gilbert Benjamin is with the U. S. Marines in Vietnam near Saigon. He is a 19-year veteran of the armed forces. Sergeant William Benjamin is serving in Korea with the U. S. Air Force, and another brother, T/Sgt. Reginald Benjamin is in the U. S. Air Force stationed at Presque Isle, Me. He has been in service 16 years.

Bodie Jailed, Awaiting Action By Grand Jury

A 21-year-old Kingston man arrested for the attempted rape of a Kingston woman last Friday was remanded to the Ulster County after a preliminary hearing last night. He will await Grand Jury action.

Bodie had been charged with attempting to rape the 53-year-old city woman last Friday at about 3 p. m. just over the city line in the Town of Esopus in the vicinity of Kaufman's Pond.

He was arrested by Kingston police then handed over to officials from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation of the State Police.

Justice Montafia, at the end of last night's hearing, set bail at $2,500 cash and $5,000 property value.

Bodie went back to jail in lieu of bail.

Platoon Sgt. Is Honored, Snatched Enemy Payroll

DONG TAM, Vietnam (AP)—Snatching an Army payroll is hardly the way for a sergeant to win a medal — unless the payroll belongs to the enemy.

Slow-spoken Platoon Sgt. Lawrence Nine wasn't thinking about anything of the sort when he cut down a Viet Cong with a burst from his M16.

It was near the end of a hard day's slogging beneath a sweltering Mekong Delta sun. The 33-year-old marksman from Columbia, S.C., was content with bagging one of the elusive Viet Cong and capturing his companion.

"I went up to make sure he was dead and pick up his weapon," Nine says. "Then all this money fell out and I yelled 'We got a paymaster.' We bundled it back up and got out."

When Nine brought the money back to battalion headquarters the staff in the squad tent erupted like college boys after winning the big game. There were shouts and corny jokes and everybody gathered around the battered olive-drab field table where the money was dumped —neat bundles of notes adding up to 358,000 piasters, equivalent to more than $3,000.

Lt. Col. William T. Leggett, Rocky Mount, N.C., commander of the 2nd Battalion, 39th Infantry, 9th Division, happily jumped the radio network to brigade with the good news. The money would be heading back along with the prisoner and a stack of documents as soon as a helicopter arrived.

By nightfall the prisoner was being questioned and the brigade commander, Col. Henry Emerson of Milford, Pa., who won the name "The Gunfighter" during a previous tour in Vietnam, was cooking up an evening s skullduggery.

"Get 'e m where it 'hurts," chortled the lanky, ex-airborne soldier who takes as much pleasure in outsmarting the Viet Cong as he does in outfighting them.

The documents showed the money was the payroll of the 514th Viet Cong main-force battalion, an outfit Emerson's men had been working on for weeks.

Before midnight, Emerson had a psychological warfare plane lazily circling above the Viet Cong's marshy hideouts.

"You're not going to get your pay this month," a Vietnamese voice boomed from the plane's powerful loud-speaker. "We killed your paymaster this afternoon."

Next day leaflets were prepared to spread the message and spread discontent.

"That s the kind of operation I like," beamed Emerson. "Something hard. Something those guys can understand."

Nine's commander put him in for a medal.

Rotary Hears 'Halfway' Plea By State Guest

Peter Knauss, Community Relations Consultant for the Bureau of Site Affairs, Department of Mental Hygiene of the State of New York, was guest speaker at the Kingston Rotary Club meeting this week, and addressed the assembly on the subject of mental retardation and the community residence program of the department.

Saying that there were over 300,000 mentally retarded people in New York State, Knauss mentioned the desire to set up an additional "half-way" house in the community, similar to the one presently in operation for some 30 years on Wall Street. The desirability of Kingston, he said, was based upon the excellent operation of Gateway Industries in which the mentally retarded could be trained. Speaking most frankly, Knauss expressed the thought that rather than spend $4,000 per person a year for patient care, through the development and operation of such training centers, many people with mental retardation could develop into good producing members of society. He concluded his remarks by reading a quotation from an address by Dr. Gunnar Dybwad, Executive Director National Association for Retarded Children:

"There is little use in training a retarded child with painstaking effort to became socially adept and responsive—to play a game or sing or dance—if misinformed, fearful neighbors will have their children shun him and make him the outcast of the neighborhood. There is little use in teaching a retarded youth, work habits, independence in geting about alone, and occupational skills, however simple, if misguided townspeople, haunted by old-wives tales and superstitions, refuse to even consider that a mental handicap too, can be partially overcome."

A question and answer period followed.

Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, co-chairman of the Kingston Coffee House Steering Committee, also addressed the group on the subject of the coffee house, seeking the club's endorsement. A program is being planned at the end of the month to consider the topic further.

Platoon Sgt. Is Honored, Snatched Enemy Payroll

DONG TAM, Vietnam (AP)—Snatching an Army payroll is hardly the way for a sergeant to win a medal — unless the payroll belongs to the enemy.

Slow-spoken Platoon Sgt. Lawrence Nine wasn't thinking about anything of the sort when he cut down a Viet Cong with a burst from his M16.

It was near the end of a hard day's slogging beneath a sweltering Mekong Delta sun. The 33-year-old marksman from Columbia, S.C., was content with bagging one of the elusive Viet Cong and capturing his companion.

"I went up to make sure he was dead and pick up his weapon," Nine says. "Then all this money fell out and I yelled 'We got a paymaster.' We bundled it back up and got out."

When Nine brought the money back to battalion headquarters the staff in the squad tent erupted like college boys after winning the big game. There were shouts and corny jokes and everybody gathered around the battered olive-drab field table where the money was dumped—neat bundles of notes adding up to 358,000 piasters, equivalent to more than $3,000.

Lt. Col. William T. Leggett, Rocky Mount, N.C., commander of the 2nd Battalion, 39th Infantry, 9th Division, happily jumped the radio network to brigade with the good news. The money would be heading back along with the prisoner and a stack of documents as soon as a helicopter arrived.

By nightfall the prisoner was being questioned and the brigade commander, Col. Henry Emerson of Milford, Pa., who won the name "The Gunfighter" during a previous tour in Vietnam, was cooking up an evening s skullduggery.

"Get 'e m where it 'hurts," chortled the lanky, ex-airborne soldier who takes as much pleasure in outsmarting the Viet Cong as he does in outfighting them.

The documents showed the money was the payroll of the 514th Viet Cong main-force battalion, an outfit Emerson's men had been working on for weeks.

Before midnight, Emerson had a "psychological warfare plane lazily circling above the Viet Cong's marshy hideouts.

"You're not going to get your pay this month," a Vietnamese voice boomed from the plane's powerful loud-speaker. "We killed your paymaster this afternoon."

Next day leaflets were prepared to spread the message and spread discontent.

"That s the kind of operation I like," beamed Emerson. "Something hard. Something those guys can understand."

Nine's commander put him in for a medal.

Rotary Hears 'Halfway' Plea By State Guest

Peter Knauss, Community Relations Consultant for the Bureau of Site Affairs, Department of Mental Hygiene of the State of New York, was guest speaker at the Kingston Rotary Club meeting this week, and addressed the assembly on the subject of mental retardation and the community residence program of the department.

Saying that there were over 500,000 mentally retarded people in New York State, Knauss mentioned the desire to set up an additional "half-way" house in the community, similar to the one presently in operation for some 30 years on Wall Street. The desirability of Kingston, he said, was based upon the excellent operation of Gateway Industries in which the mentally retarded could be trained. Speaking most frankly, Knauss expressed the thought that rather than spend $4,000 per person a year for patient care, through the development and operation of such training centers, many people with mental retardation could develop into good producing members of society. He concluded his remarks by reading a quotation from an address by Dr. Gunnar Dybwad, Executive Director National Association for Retarded Children:

"There is little use in training a retarded child with painstaking effort to became socially adept and responsive—to play a game or sing or dance—if misinformed, fearful neighbors will have their children shun him and make him the outcast of the neighborhood. There is little use in teaching a retarded youth, work habits, independence in geting about alone, and occupational skills, however simple, if misguided townspeople, haunted by old-wives tales and superstitions, refuse to even consider that a mental handicap too, can be partially overcome."

A question and answer period followed.

Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, co-chairman of the Kingston Coffee House Steering Committee, also addressed the group on the subject of the coffee house, seeking the club's endorsement. A program is being planned at the end of the month to consider the topic further.

KINGSTON PLAZA

Community Action Busy Finding Jobs

The Ulster County Community Action Committe, Inc. has announced today that during the first six months of operation of the Rondout Head Start Day Care Centers in Kingston, 17 mothers have found positions and are now working. Eleven of these are no longer on the welfare rolls and the remaining six are receiving only partial assistance.

Involves Whole Family

The center program involves the whole family. Parents are encouraged and expected to take part in the actual day to day operation of the Center, either as a paid employee in positions such as teacher aide, health aide, social aide or kitchen aide, or as a volunteer who may assist the teacher in the classroom, on the playground, or on field trips. Parents serve on an advisory committee where an opportunity is given to share in making the program more effective. Because of this interest in the Rondout Center's activities parents have raised funds to supply the center with such "extras" as phonograph records, new window shades, and wooden bathroom steps for the younger children.

The improvement in the economic condition of these parents can be directly related to the presence of a facility in the community which could offer day care for the pre-school child, thereby permitting the mother to find work outside the home.

In a related development, as a follow up to the Governor's Arden House Conference on Public Welfare held last November, the State Board of Welfare convened a hearing in Albany March 19 on revision of the welfare law. Eight representatives from the Ulster County Community Action Committee appeared before the Board to press for changes in the law that would facilitate welfare recipients' ability to work.

It was recommended that provision be made for day care centers for pre-school children, for crib care, and for after school care, so that mothers who can, and wish to do so, may be able to work. It was also recommended that some means for a gradual reduction of wefare payments, when a recipient returns to work, be devised instead of a sudden cessation of payments as is presently the case. This is important not merely as an incentive but as a necessity if a recipient is to meet the increased expenses of working, such as transportation, clothing, and other conveniences involved in getting and keeping a job. Because small families of one, two or three members are hardest hit by the level of welfare payments, it was urgently recommended that Office of Economic Opportunity poverty guidelines become the standard for welfare payments.

Plans Underway

The Ulster County Community Action Committee currently is working on plans for involving other agencies, both private and public, in establishing day care facilities, and after school centers for older children in Kingston, Ellenville and other locations within the county.

Lindsay Praises Legislature

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay says that "in dollar terms, New York City would be better off right now if the 1968 legislature had never opened." Along with his complaint, Lindsay charges that the Urban Development Corp. program that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller got the legislature to enact "represents the thinking of 20 years ago."

Lindsay voiced his complaints about the politically divided legislature and about the urban legislation pushed by the governor, a fellow Republican, in a speech Thursday before 1,000 members of service clubs in the city.

Lindsay said the $6 billion Urban Development Corp., which cleared the legislature Tuesday night, will undermine city attempts to "give poor people a positive voice in government."

Lindsay had been denouncing the corporation plan for weeks, largely on the ground that the corporation would have power to ignore zoning laws and other local regulations. He charged violation of the home rule principle.

"At a time when we're attempting to make democracy work in the streets of our cities," Lindsay told the service club members, "the legislature has decided that the answer is greater, more distance authority. That in my judgment, is asking for trouble...In concept, the bill represents the thinking of 20 years ago."

Lindsay said the legislature "has responded to the urban crisis with negativism."

He said 1968 has been a bad year for the city because "since Jan. 1, Albany has withdrawn $165 million in program money from New York City."

Lindsay said later that the figure is the total of cutbacks in state medical care, welfare assistance, narcotics and education programs.

The mayor appealed small businessmen to hire slum teenagers this summer.

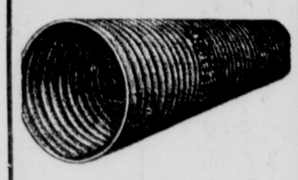

Lindsays audience was composed of Rotarians, Kiwanians, Lions and members of the Jaycees and other service clubs.

The luncheon session was cosponsored by the clubs and the National Alliance of Businessmen, which is involved in programs to provide jobs this summer for disadvantaged young men.

IBM Announces Its Earnings

For the three months ended March 31, 1968, worldwide consolidated net earnings of International Business Machines Corporation were $187,377,331 after taxes, Thomas J Watson Jr., chairman of the board, reported today. Earnings per share were $3.33 on the 56,186,374 shares outstanding. This compares with net earnings after taxes for the corresponding 1967 peiod of $137,139,959, equivalent to $2.45 per share on 55,880,599 shares, the number of shares outstanding March 31, 1967, adjusted for the 2½ per cent stock dividend paid June 10, 1967.

Net earnings before taxes amounted to $368,177,331 compared with $273,239,950 in the corresponding peiod of 1967.

Consolidated gross income for the three months ended March 31, 1968 amounted to $1,480,769,642 compared with $1,150,603,576 in the coresponding 1967 period. The report pointed out that IBM's business consists primarily of the rental and sale of data processing machines and systems. The increases in gross income and net earnings for the first quarter reflect the continuing nigh level of business volume of the System/360 data processing product line, as well as a conticuation of the increased level of outright sales of this equipment experienced during the last six months of 1967. As he has noted previously to stockholders, Watson commented that changes in the level of outright sales can result in significant fluctuations in income, since outright sales have the effect of realizing income currently which, on a rental basis, would be realized over a period of years.

Will Open 150 Offices For Resnick in State

A citizens committee for the election of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick to the U.S. Senate will have a headquarters in every assembly district in the state—150 offices with staffs.

According to Helen Bloom, the congressman's press secretary in New York City, the cost of running the offices will come out of campaign contributions that have been coming in or have been pledged to the Ellenville Democrat's bid for the Democratic nomination for senator.

Last night, Resnick was in the Syracuse area to open up two of the "citizens" headquarters—one in the large upstate city itself, and the other in North Syracuse.

The North Syracuse office is located in the Northern Lights shopping center and the City of Syracuse address is 474 Salina Street, in the heart of the downtown business area.

John Logan, the congressman's upstate coordinator, has opened up an office in Kingston at the Stuyvesant Motor Hotel at 37 John Street, but, according to Miss Bloom, it is not a citizen's committee headquarters.

"There is some work being done there that we did not want done at the Pearl Street office," she said.

Resnick's District Representative office is located on Pearl Street.

It was also learned that another Resnick office has been operating in Utica for "over a month."

Resnick has claimed that he would spend something in the neighborhood of $3 million to win the Democratic primary against party designee Eugene Nickerson and to face Republican Senator Jacob K. Javits in November.

The Democratic primary will be held on June 18.

Resnick is also seekig the "favorite son" designation from the state's Democrats in a move to oppose Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's bid for the Presidential nod.

Rising Land Values Hedge Against Inflation

Q—We have $20,000 invested in farm land. This land has netted us a 7 per cent return on our investment and has also appreciated in value. Why, then, isn't good farm land as sound an investment as the marketable securities you recommend? Personally, I think it would be most difficult to pick up elsewhere a low-risk 7 per cent yield.—N.S.

A—Your conclusions are easy to agree with. In fact, I have specifically stated here more than once that well-located land and real estate—in addition to growth stocks—are sound investments and an equally good hedge against inflation. I have not before, however, received such a cogent statement as to yield and profit possibilities on good farm land. The difficulty, of course, is that few people can appraise good farm land and such statistical analyses as those guiding the investor in stocks are not available for potential investors in land. Your letter is interesting and informative; but I think the average uninformed person will do better to stick to stocks, when seeking inflation protection.

Q—Would you help us to select a stock that might grow during the early years of our retirement which starts soon? I know little about the market and want to avoid costly mistakes. Which would be your choice of the following: Sunray DX Oil, Texas Utilities, Pacific Gas & Electric?—E.P.

A — You should be commended for recognizing excellence in your trio of choices. Sunray is a good, relatively small oil operation, attractive for its merger prospects, rather than for growth. Pacific Gas & Electric is an excellent stock for appreciation and moderate income. If you can afford the relatively low yield from Texas Utilities, this would be my choice. Earnings and dividends have risen in each of the past 10 years and the outlook is for continuation of this strong growth pattern. May I also suggest that you consider some of the growth stocks I have commented upon recently.

Community Action Busy Finding Jobs

The Ulster County Community Action Committe, Inc. has announced today that during the first six months of operation of the Rondout Head Start Day Care Centers in Kingston, 17 mothers have found positions and are now working. Eleven of these are no longer on the welfare rolls and the remaining six are receiving only partial assistance.

Involves Whole Family

The center program involves the whole family. Parents are encouraged and expected to take part in the actual day to day operation of the Center, either as a paid employee in positions such as teacher aide, health aide, social aide or kitchen aide, or as a volunteer who may assist the teacher in the classroom, on the playground, or on field trips. Parents serve on an advisory committee where an opportunity is given to share in making the program more effective. Because of this interest in the Rondout Center's activities parents have raised funds to supply the center with such "extras" as phonograph records, new window shades, and wooden bathroom steps for the younger children.

The improvement in the economic condition of these parents can be directly related to the presence of a facility in the community which could offer day care for the pre-school child, thereby permitting the mother to find work outside the home.

In a related development, as a follow up to the Governor's Arden House Conference on Public Welfare held last November, the State Board of Welfare convened a hearing in Albany March 19 on revision of the welfare law. Eight representatives from the Ulster County Community Action Committee appeared before the Board to press for changes in the law that would facilitate welfare recipients' ability to work.

It was recommended that provision be made for day care centers for pre-school children, for crib care, and for after school care, so that mothers who can, and wish to do so, may be able to work. It was also recommended that some means for a gradual reduction of wefare payments, when a recipient returns to work, be devised instead of a sudden cessation of payments as is presently the case. This is important not merely as an incentive but as a necessity if a recipient is to meet the increased expenses of working, such as transportation, clothing, and other conveniences involved in getting and keeping a job. Because small families of one, two or three members are hardest hit by the level of welfare payments, it was urgently recommended that Office of Economic Opportunity poverty guidelines become the standard for welfare payments.

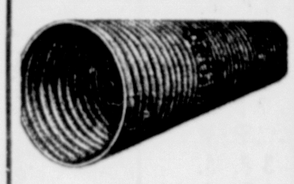

Plans Underway

The Ulster County Community Action Committee currently is working on plans for involving other agencies, both private and public, in establishing day care facilities, and after school centers for older children in Kingston, Ellenville and other locations within the county.

Lindsay Praises Legislature

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay says that "in dollar terms, New York City would be better off right now if the 1968 legislature had never opened." Along with his complaint, Lindsay charges that the Urban Development Corp. program that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller got the legislature to enact "represents the thinking of 20 years ago."

Lindsay voiced his complaints about the politically divided legislature and about the urban legislation pushed by the governor, a fellow Republican, in a speech Thursday before 1,000 members of service clubs in the city.

This compares with net earnings after taxes for the corresponding 1967 peiod of $137,139,959, equivalent to $2.45 per share on 55,880,599 shares, the number of shares outstanding March 31, 1967, adjusted for the 2½ per cent stock dividend paid June 10, 1967.

Net earnings before taxes amounted to $368,177,331 compared with $273,239,956 in the corresponding peiod of 1967.

Consolidated gross income for the three months ended March 31, 1968 amounted to $1,480,769,642 compared with $1,150,603,576 in the coresponding 1967 period. The report pointed out that IBM's business consists primarily of the rental and sale of data processing machines and systems. The increases in gross income and net earnings for the first quarter reflect the continuing nigh level of business volume of the System/360 data processing product line, as well as a conticuation of the increased level of outright sales of this equipment experienced during the last six months of 1967. As he has noted previously to stockholders, Watson commented that changes in the level of outright sales can result in significant fluctuations in income, since outright sales have the effect of realizing income currently which, on a rental basis, would be realized over a period of years.

HOG SLAUGHTER — About 300 hogs were shot and buried on the John Shoots farm near Belfontaine, Ohio. The slaughter was part of a National Farmers Organization (NFO) attempt to get the major meat packers to raise the price paid to farmers for hogs. The group said this action would "get their plight before the public." (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Will Open 150 Offices For Resnick in State

A citizens committee for the election of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick to the U.S. Senate will have a headquarters in every assembly district in the state—150 offices with staffs.

According to Helen Bloom, the congressman's press secretary in New York City, the cost of running the offices will come out of campaign contributions that have been coming in or have been pledged to the Ellenville Democrat's bid for the Democratic nomination for senator.

Last night, Resnick was in the Syracuse area to open up two of the "citizens" headquarters—one in the large upstate city itself, and the other in North Syracuse.

The North Syracuse office is located in the Northern Lights shopping center and the City of Syracuse address is 474 Salina Street, in the heart of the downtown business area.

John Logan, the congressman's upstate coordinator, has opened up an office in Kingston at the Stuyvesant Motor Hotel at 37 John Street, but, according to Miss Bloom, it is not a citizen's committee headquarters.

"There is some work being done there that we did not want done at the Pearl Street office," she said.

Resnick's District Representative office is located on Pearl Street.

It was also learned that another Resnick office has been operating in Utica for "over a month."

Resnick has claimed that he would spend something in the neighborhood of $3 million to win the Democratic primary against party designee Eugene Nickerson and to face Republican Senator Jacob K. Javits in November.

The Democratic primary will be held on June 18.

Resnick is also seekig the "favorite son" designation from the state's Democrats in a move to oppose Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's bid for the Presidential nod.

Rising Land Values Hedge Against Inflation

Q—We have $20,000 invested in farm land. This land has netted us a 7 per cent return on our investment and has also appreciated in value. Why, then, isn't good farm land as sound an investment as the marketable securities you recommend? Personally, I think it would be most difficult to pick up elsewhere a low-risk 7 per cent yield.—N.S.

A—Your conclusions are easy to agree with. In fact, I have specifically stated here more than once that well-located land and real estate—in addition to growth stocks—are sound investments and an equally good hedge against inflation. I have not before, however, received such a cogent statement as to yield and profit possibilities on good farm land. The difficulty, of course, is that few people can appraise good farm land and such statistical analyses as those guiding the investor in stocks are not available for potential investors in land. Your letter is interesting and informative; but I think the average uninformed person will do better to stick to stocks, when seeking inflation protection.

Q—Would you help us to select a stock that might grow during the early years of our retirement which starts soon? I know little about the market and want to avoid costly mistakes. Which would be your choice of the following: Sunray DX Oil, Texas Utilities, Pacific Gas & Electric?—E.P.

A — You should be commended for recognizing excellence in your trio of choices. Sunray is a good, relatively small oil operation, attractive for its merger prospects, rather than for growth. Pacific Gas & Electric is an excellent stock for appreciation and moderate income. If you can afford the relatively low yield from Texas Utilities, this would be my choice. Earnings and dividends have risen in each of the past 10 years and the outlook is for continuation of this strong growth pattern. May I also suggest that you consider some of the growth stocks I have commented upon recently.

The Green Thumb

Cotton Makes Good House Plant

Many of our readers have written to tell us what good luck they've had raising cotton plants indoors. The plants even produce big cotton bolls right in your own home. One reader writes: "Sometime back I picked up a cotton boll in the South and planted the seed. I used plain soil in a wooden box and after the seeds came up I planted them outdoors in June. The plants start to blossom in September and were showy. I brought the pots indoors and the plants blossomed indoors during the winter months."

Because so many readers tell us how much they enjoy raising cotton as a novelty I've taken up the idea and have some plants growing in my office window and in the greenhouse. Cotton is easy to grow. You simply put seed in a flower pot containing sand, peat and loam. Seed is set in one-inch deep, watered, and after the plant comes up water only once every four to six days, or when the plant looks withered. Grow in full sun. If you don't know where you can get cotton seed, send be your name and address and we'll forward it along to a source nearest you.

African Violets

You can start your own violets from seed. Save the seed pods from your violets. If they are brown and shrivelled, you know they are ripe. It takes seven to nine months for a pod to ripen, once pollination has been effected. Pinch off the ripe pod and place in a dish to dry. Takes about a week to dry the pods off, and after that, break them open and sow the seeds in sand and vermiculite. Do not cover seed, but press it down lightly. Seedlings will pop up in two to three weeks. Transplant them an inch apart when they have three leaves. When plants have four or five leaves, transplant into three-inch pots. Young plants from seed begin to bloom when six months old.

A common trouble now is leaf bleaching. This may mean too much light or a lack of nitrogen in the soil. Move plants to a darker window. Failure to bloom may be due to insufficient light for flower bud formation. Sometimes you can force violets into bloom by setting the pots in a pan of hot water (115 degrees F.). This "hotfoot" treatment shocks the plants into blooming, if there is enough light.

A reader writes: "Last year we raised cucumbers and melons and they were tasteless. They had good size to them but no quality. What caused this?"

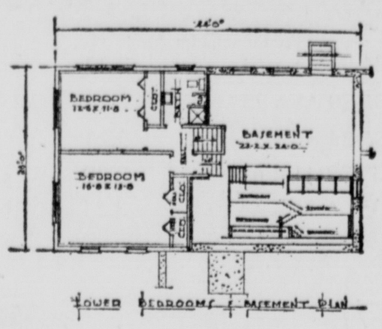

Answer: Probably due to the weather. Lack of sun is one reason.

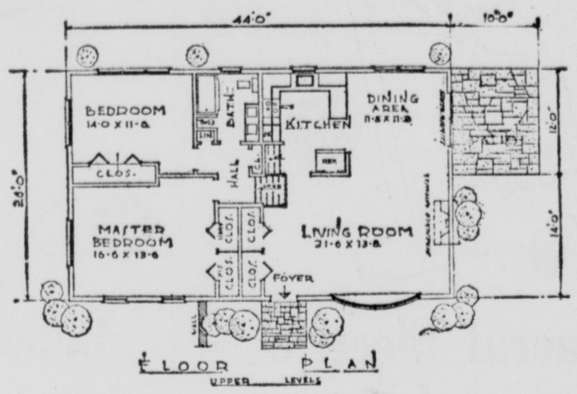

Love Thy Neighbor

MILLINGTON, N.J. (AP) — Frank W. Gibson obviously believes in the adage, "Love thy neighbor"—and thy neighbor's dog.

When his neighbor's house caught fire recently, Gibson ran next door and risked his life to rescue a pet boxer. His neighbors were not home at the time.

New Look in Tri-Levels

By JACK McELENEY

The tri-level trend is a tribute to a type of home that for many years has been prevented from proving its versatility. Today's feature, called The Mettle, is a good example of what can be done with a home of this design. This home was drawn for electric heat and without a fireplace, but if one should be desired, the floor plan shows a suggested location.

With modern building methods a tri-level, such as The Mettle, is readily adaptable to most any kind of a lot contour able than the standard level design. Another important factor is the desirable appearance of broken exterior lines rather than the straight boxy look of some common ranch type designs.

The designer used rare imagination by deleting the customary garage on the lower level, and replacing it with two additional bedrooms for a total of four larger than average bedrooms. The areas thru the kitchen, dining and living room have and in many cases more suitsix-by-ten open beams spaced at five feet with plank ceiling showing the natural wood to create the environment that should be characteristic of a cathedral type ceiling.

The house is 44 feet long by 26 feet wide and has an overall living area of 1,144 square feet.

Complete working plans are available at moderate cost by using the accompanying coupon, and they conform to the VA and FHA building requirements.

Computer Talks

FREEPORT, Ill. (AP) — Highland Community College here has a computer that prints report cards complete with choice teacher comments.

Dr. Kenneth Borland, president of the two-year college, said the specially-programmed Honeywell 200 computer offers teachers a choice of 28 comments, in any combination of four phrases, such as:

"Doing poorly,' "needs extra work in math," "needs to spend more time on homework,' "parents are asked to visit teacher.'

The computer prints the report cards for Highland's 900 students and for 3,000 local high school students. It also handles scheduling and various administrative tasks.

Plant Hints

Always popular as indoor plants because they tend to hold moisture, succulents and sedums in red clay pots can be effectively used in outdoor garden, too. Succulents make fine ground covers for sunny areas and many of them flower spectacularly. They like sunshine and the good drainage provided by porous clay pots and require less fertilizing and care than most container plants.

Play safe with your spring bedding plans by ordering them early in individual red clay pots, for both vegetable and flowering plants. Clay-potted plants enjoy healthier root structures than those in substitute containers. They can be quickly set into your vegetable or flower garden by tapping out the soil ball and planting it intact, with no root shock or disturbance.

Spring's the best time to start younger children on their own pot plant gardens. They'll enjoy plunging a few small ivy or spring bedding plants and supervising their care and growth in red clay pots. They can change locations of their portable clay-pot gardens whenever they wish.

An "instant" hedge of stately upright pothos plants, supported on redwood poles in large clay pots can add rich green distinction to porch or patio area, that do not receive direct sunlight. Pothos plants like good drainage, so porous clay pots are preferred containers.

A common trouble now is leaf bleaching. This may mean too much light or a lack of nitrogen in the soil. Move plants to a darker window. Failure to bloom may be due to insufficient light for flower bud formation. Sometimes you can force violets into bloom by setting the pots in a pan of hot water (115 degrees F.). This "hotfoot" treatment shocks the plants into blooming, if there is enough light.

A reader writes: "Last year we raised cucumbers and melons and they were tasteless. They had good size to them but no quality. What caused this?"

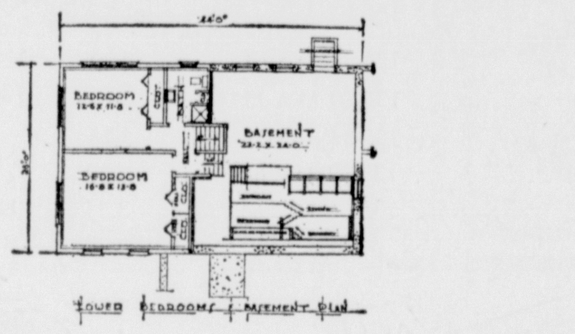

Answer: Probably due to the weather. Lack of sun is one reason.

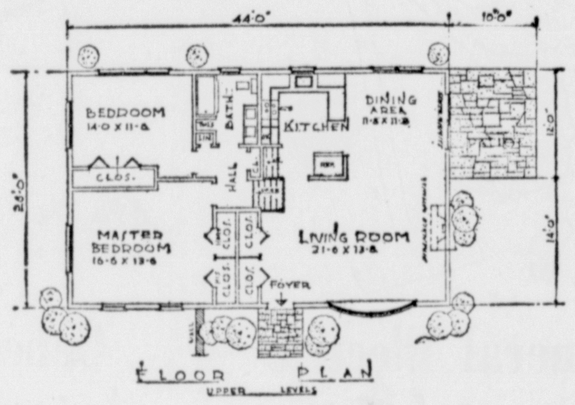

Love Thy Neighbor

MILLINGTON, N.J. (AP) — Frank W. Gibson obviously believes in the adage, "Love thy neighbor'—and thy neighbor's dog.

When his neighbor's house caught fire recently, Gibson ran next door and risked his life to rescue a pet boxer. His neighbors were not home at the time.

New Look in Tri-Levels

By JACK McELENEY

The tri-level trend is a tribute to a type of home that for many years has been prevented from proving its versatility. Today's feature, called The Mettle, is a good example of what can be done with a home of this design. This home was drawn for electric heat and without a fireplace, but if one should be desired, the floor plan shows a suggested location.

With modern building methods a tri-level, such as The Mettle, is readily adaptable to most any kind of a lot contour able than the standard level design. Another important factor is the desirable appearance of broken exterior lines rather than the straight boxy look of some common ranch type designs.

The designer used rare imagination by deleting the customary garage on the lower level, and replacing it with two additional bedrooms for a total of four larger than average bedrooms. The areas thru the kitchen, dining and living room have and in many cases more suitsix-by-ten open beams spaced at five feet with plank ceiling showing the natural wood to create the environment that should be characteristic of a cathedral type ceiling.

The house is 44 feet long by 26 feet wide and has an overall living area of 1,144 square feet.

Complete working plans are available at moderate cost by using the accompanying coupon, and they conform to the VA and FHA building requirements.

St. Nicholas, bishop of Myhrra, started the custom of giving gifts and hanging out stockings in the fourth century.

Computer Talks

FREEPORT, Ill. (AP) — Highland Community College here has a computer that prints report cards complete with choice teacher comments.

Dr. Kenneth Borland, president of the two-year college, said the specially-programmed Honeywell 200 computer offers teachers a choice of 28 comments, in any combination of four phrases, such as:

"Doing poorly,' "needs extra work in math," "needs to spend more time on homework,' "parents are asked to visit teacher.'

The computer prints the report cards for Highland's 900 students and for 3,000 local high school students. It also handles scheduling and various administrative tasks.

Plant Hints

Always popular as indoor plants because they tend to hold moisture, succulents and sedums in red clay pots can be effectively used in outdoor garden, too. Succulents make fine ground covers for sunny areas and many of them flower spectacularly. They like sunshine and the good drainage provided by porous clay pots and require less fertilizing and care than most container plants.

Play safe with your spring bedding plans by ordering them early in individual red clay pots, for both vegetable and flowering plants. Clay-potted plants enjoy healthier root structures than those in substitute containers. They can be quickly set into your vegetable or flower garden by tapping out the soil ball and planting it intact, with no root shock or disturbance.

Spring's the best time to start younger children on their own pot plant gardens. They'll enjoy plunging a few small ivy or spring bedding plants and supervising their care and growth in red clay pots. They can change locations of their portable clay-pot gardens whenever they wish.

An "instant" hedge of stately upright pothos plants, supported on redwood poles in large clay pots can add rich green distinction to porch or patio area, that do not receive direct sunlight. Pothos plants like good drainage, so porous clay pots are preferred containers.

The Ganja

This house is a combination of simplicity and economy that offers an efficient floor plan and an attractive exterior, while holding construction costs to a minimum. The rectangular shape of the house is the factor that will keep original building cost and future upkeep down.

Great care was taken to provide the best possible use of the living and bedroom areas. The location of the living room at the left front is well oriented in regard to the rear kitchen and dining area and the three bedrooms follow the general pattern found in most ranch homes of this type.

The modern fireplace in the living room has built-up cabinets on each side with book shelves and log storage below. The master bedroom features "his" and "hers" wardrobes and the closet area in the other two bedrooms will be more than ample. The exclusion of a closed breezeway or family room and garage on the left side of the house at this time will hold down building costs, but they can be added later as the family grows.

The Ganja is 44 by 26 feet, and contains 1,174 square feet of living space. Complete building plans with form specifications are available by using the accompanying coupon

Airman Is Now Eagle

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Bernard T. Park, 20, Mansfield, worked for his military stripes and Boy Scout merit badges at the same time.

While serving in the U.S. Air Force at Formosa, the airman first class completed requirements for his Eagle award in Boy Scouts. He came home on leave to receive the Eagle award at a special Boy Scout Court of Honor.

Tips for the Home Owner

Question: We are considering purchasing a house made of wooden shakes. It's an old house, and somewhere along the line one of the owners decided to paint the shakes a dull red color, which we aren't too crazy about. Would it be too much of a job to take off the paint, get the wood down to its natural color and then apply a very light stain?

Answer: It sure would. If you don't like the present color, you'd better plan on living with it or repainting the shakes a color of your choice.

Question: I plan to build a kind of trash cabinet to place outside our kitchen door, which is at the back of our house. My idea is to put plywood on the top and bottom of the cabinet, with ordinary 1 by 2s for the framework. My first question is whether the plywood will stand up in all kinds of weather. Should it have legs on it or can the plywood rest directly on the ground?

Answer: Be sure you get exterior plywood and, for extra protection against the elements, seal it with paint, especially along the edges. Legs can be automatically provided merely by extending the four upright parts of the framework a couple of inches below the plywood bottom. Or, to put it another way, set the plywood in place a couple of inches from the bottom of the framework.

* * *

Question: I have just completed a wooden awning to be hung over our back door in a few weeks. It is made of white pine. Can it be left as is, or should I put a finish on it?

Answer: It can be left as is, but will look better and last longer if it is painted.

* * *

Question: It took me some time, but I finally got the tarnish off a brass doorknob. What should I use to refinish it?

Answer: Three or four coats of lacquer, mixed half and half with lacquer thinner.

Rhinebeck's Landfall Farm: Where There's Always Trout

By LYNN MULVANEY

It happened just a couple of years ago at poolside on the beautiful sprawling Landfall Farm in Rhinebeck.

The John Tobiases and their farm manager, Edward Lagno, were engaged in a summer's afternoon bull session concerning what type of livestock, game or poultry might be raised on the estate-like farm property.

Angus, Ducks, or . . .

Many ideas were tossed in the air. They could raise Aberdeen angus, or ducks, or . . .

It was then that something else hit the air—a fish, leaping from the quiet depths of a nearby pond, flipped its silvery self in the sunlight and returned to the cool waters.

Laughingly someone suggested, "Why not raise fish?"

Today, 30,000 trout later, Landfall Farm is fast becoming known from Long Island to Massachusetts for its fine fish stocking material.

On Many Tables

Its trout have graced the tables of some of New York State's finest restaurants and have swum the rivers or creeks of nearby Ulster and neighboring counties.

Rhinebeck's own waters have been replenished with trout this year in order that its annual children's fishing event can continue to encourage the hundreds of youngsters that compete each year for the biggest and the best catch.

In Kingston later this month, about 300 of Landfall's Brown, Brook and Rainbow trout will be housed in a 24-foot-diameter pool, there for the catching.

The event will be the Lions Club annual Auto-Health-Home Show at the New York State Armory, Manor Avenue, April 23-27 each night from 7 to 10:30.

There, anglers, young and old will be able to wet their lines at the rate of 25 cents for five minutes, with a one-trout limit, per five minutes.

Awards will be given for the largest trout caught as well as for certain marked fish, placed for the awards.

Lango, the farms' trout hatchery manager will be in attendance at the show each night and will transport water from Rhinebeck to the Kingston pool in order that the trout will be housed in an environment to which they are accustomed.

Could Be Hit of Show

Show Chairman, Meredith Morgan, thinks the trout pond will be the hit of the show as it has been at the Dutchess County Fair and the Arlington Sportsmen Show.

Ulster County's Rondout Valley Rod and Gun Club will man the exhibit at the armory.

In Cement Raceways

The trout are housed in cement raceways, which are actually giant four-foot-wide troughs about two feet deep.

Here, temperature control is maintained and the water is aeriated as it enters the raceways some of which are 30-foot long and others 50-foot.

Schooled recently in the subject of fish breeding, at Cornell and Southern California Universities, Lagno, who now has breeding stock of his own, nevertheless prefers raising his fish from eggs secured from the West Coast. He also prefers the modern method of feeding protein to the fish in pellet form rather than going to the expense and bother of feeding them fresh meat.

Antibiotics, to control such diseases as fungi, are fed the fish in the water supply as well as in pellet form. Even intestinal ailments can be recognized and treated.

One of the more time consuming jobs for Lagno is sorting the trout according to size and keeping the raceways and the hatchery itself clean. "I vacuum three times a week," he says.

3,000 At Start

When the hatchery operation was begun, the fish population was a mere 3,000. Today it stands at 30,000 and will increase significantly in a short while when the more than 50,000 eggs on order hatch.

As the trout demand continues to increase, so does the Landfall facility. Even now, plans are on the drawing board for more raceways and Lagno and the Tobias family eagerly looks forward to an even bigger trout population—just as long as they don't invade the swimming pool.

RACEWAYS—Unique watering, aeriation and filtration systems mark the raceways (top photo) system employed at Landfall Farm Trout Hatchery at Rhinebeck. Here the fish swim in clear, cool waters, temperature controlled and disease-free through the use of antibiotics. Edward Lagno, the hatchery's manager (lower photo), who is well grounded in fish breeding and raising, is also blessed with a plumbing background which puts him in good stead when it comes to designing the raceways. The water is first pumped into the area called the nursery, where the young fish are kept. It then passes out to a filtration drum where the water is cleansed before it is again pumped into another raceway. It is a continuous operation in which all raceways use the water once before it is disposed of and fresh water enters to begin the cycle. Lagno's first acquaintance was with salt water rather than fresh water fish. As a boy on Staten Island, he went out after weakfish, softshelled crab and whatever else the ocean waters brought forth. His first real encounter with trout was made only four years ago when he embarked in the fish hatchery business for the Tobias family at Rhinebeck. Accelerated college courses aided him in acquiring knowledge of the subject and in a short span he has brought a small stock of 3,000 to 30,000 and a demand for more within a 200-mile radius. Rhinebeck's Landfall Farm: Where There's Always Trout

By LYNN MULVANEY

It happened just a couple of years ago at poolside on the beautiful sprawling Landfall Farm in Rhinebeck.

The John Tobiases and their farm manager, Edward Lagno, were engaged in a summer's afternoon bull session concerning what type of livestock, game or poultry might be raised on the estate-like farm property.

Angus, Ducks, or . . .

Many ideas were tossed in the air. They could raise Aberdeen angus, or ducks, or . . .

It was then that something else hit the air—a fish, leaping from the quiet depths of a nearby pond, flipped its silvery self in the sunlight and returned to the cool waters.

Laughingly someone suggested, "Why not raise fish?"

Today, 30,000 trout later, Landfall Farm is fast becoming known from Long Island to Massachusetts for its fine fish stocking material.

On Many Tables

Its trout have graced the tables of some of New York State's finest restaurants and have swum the rivers or creeks of nearby Ulster and neighboring counties.

Rhinebeck's own waters have been replenished with trout this year in order that its annual children's fishing event can continue to encourage the hundreds of youngsters that compete each year for the biggest and the best catch.

In Kingston later this month, about 300 of Landfall's Brown, Brook and Rainbow trout will be housed in a 24-foot-diameter pool, there for the catching.

The event will be the Lions Club annual Auto-Health-Home Show at the New York State Armory, Manor Avenue, April 23-27 each night from 7 to 10:30.

There, anglers, young and old will be able to wet their lines at the rate of 25 cents for five minutes, with a one-trout limit, per five minutes.

Awards will be given for the largest trout caught as well as for certain marked fish, placed for the awards.

Lango, the farms' trout hatchery manager will be in attendance at the show each night and will transport water from Rhinebeck to the Kingston pool in order that the trout will be housed in an environment to which they are accustomed.

Could Be Hit of Show

Show Chairman, Meredith Morgan, thinks the trout pond will be the hit of the show as it has been at the Dutchess County Fair and the Arlington Sportsmen Show.

Ulster County's Rondout Valley Rod and Gun Club will man the exhibit at the armory.

In Cement Raceways

The trout are housed in cement raceways, which are actually giant four-foot-wide troughs about two feet deep.

Here, temperature control is maintained and the water is aerated as it enters the raceways some of which are 30-foot long and others 50-foot.

Schooled recently in the subject of fish breeding, at Cornell and Southern California Universities, Lagno, who now has breeding stock of his own, nevertheless prefers raising his fish from eggs secured from the West Coast. He also prefers the modern method of feeding protein to the fish in pellet form rather than going to the expense and bother of feeding them fresh meat.

Antibiotics, to control such diseases as fungi, are fed the fish in the water supply as well as in pellet form. Even intestinal ailments can be recognized and treated.

As the trout demand continues to increase, so does the Landfall facility. Even now, plans are on the drawing board for more raceways and Lagno and the Tobias family eagerly looks forward to an even bigger trout population—just as long as they don't invade the swimming pool.

Dr. Preminger: 'Women Can Accomplish the Impossible!'

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

"The most wonderful thing about women is that from the beginning of the world . . . they were always involved in Human Rights. And they always wrote the word HUMAN larger than RIGHTS . . . " These are the words of a woman who holds claim to countless awards and honors, who has been an actress, author, lecturer, scholar, social worker and philanthropist. She is Dr. Marion Preminger, former assistant to the late Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

Meeting recently with Dr. Preminger at the home of Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold in Saugerties, was a remarkable experience. This outstanding woman, who has made such tremendous strides in promoting understanding among people and nations, has an almost explosive exuberance for life and an inspiring set of values which places human worth above and beyond any material worth. This is, no doubt, why she has received so many decorations and honors and why, on Wednesday, May 1 at The Plaza in New York City, she will be the first woman to accept the American Hungarian Studies Foundation's George Washington Award.

The Foundation, in its letter to Dr. Preminger, will be recognizing her " . . . as a most extraordinary woman and a great American," and particularly for her dedicated service in Gabon at the side of Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

Dr. Preminger speaks with great animation and persuasiveness. But it is what she said in a speech before the Department of State recently that really impressed me. It is her faith in what women can and should do that emphasized for me her complete commitment to a reverence for life.

In that address Dr. Preminger said:

" . . . I find that all women are sisters. In America, in Europe, in Asia, and in Africa — wherever I traveled. Women are alike since the beginning of the world. And how talented they are!

"I am a philosopher. So let us philosophize a minute on what is a woman. What are we in life? A passing breeze, a trembling shadow, a frail leaf in the wind—weak. And still, I beg of you to be strong. Strong enough to swear disobedience to conformity and blind obedience to love. I am an incorrigible dreamer. When people ask me: You believe in miracles? —I say, what do you mean . . . I rely on them.

"Hans Christian Andersen said, 'Life is the most wonderful fairy tale' and he was right. Yesterday's luxuries became today's necessities. Hundred years ago this would be all fairy tales what we have now. And we are not satisfied. We are not able to build a lasting strong wall to protect our happiness, but must run every time for moral sandbags for protection. I have to run to Equatorial Africa to the leper colony of Dr. Albert Schweitzer to find out that we won't find happiness before we discipline our own hearts to care for others . . .

"The wonderful thing about women is that from the beginning of the world starting by their own children, they were always involved in Human Rights. And they always wrote the word HUMAN larger than RIGHTS. Mother's love is the only positive promise for the limitless future. The only lucrative Common Market is the common market of love. And the only sure investment in the infinite future is to invest in people. Rich or poor, educated or analphabet, ugly or beautiful, affectionate or cold, however they differ . . .

"But do they really differ? . . . The similarities are much greater than the differences. It is hard to be spiritual in an unspiritual century. But for a woman, it's nothing to set out to accomplish the impossible . . . "

Dr. Preminger also stated that the landscape of our minds do not change. That courage to change is an idea wrapped in imagination. She said:

"Ours is the power of the effectual instant of NOW. When Buddha was asked to say all his wisdom in one word, he said, NOW. Who else, but women practice instant friendliness? A flower does not warm up, it is instantly beautiful. Who else, but women hold in their hand the urgent future of tomorrow and the powerful instant of now? Who else, but a woman can open closed doors, closed minds and closed hearts? If today's problems are too much for us, what about the problems of tomorrow? The tomorrow, which is already here . . . "

Dr. Preminger's message must not fall upon deaf ears. I hope all women will heed it particularly in this holiday season of hope and rededication.

DR. MARION PREMINGER

Dr. Preminger: 'Women Can Accomplish the Impossible!'

"The most wonderful thing about women is that from the beginning of the world . . . they were always involved in Human Rights. And they always wrote the word HUMAN larger than RIGHTS . . . " These are the words of a woman who holds claim to countless awards and honors, who has been an actress, author, lecturer, scholar, social worker and philanthropist. She is Dr. Marion Preminger, former assistant to the late Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

Meeting recently with Dr. Preminger at the home of Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold in Saugerties, was a remarkable experience. This outstanding woman, who has made such tremendous strides in promoting understanding among people and nations, has an almost explosive exuberance for life and an inspiring set of values which places human worth above and beyond any material worth. This is, no doubt, why she has received so many decorations and honors and why, on Wednesday, May 1 at The Plaza in New York City, she will be the first woman to accept the American Hungarian Studies Foundation's George Washington Award.

The Foundation, in its letter to Dr. Preminger, will be recognizing her " . . . as a most extraordinary woman and a great American," and particularly for her dedicated service in Gabon at the side of Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

Dr. Preminger speaks with great animation and persuasiveness. But it is what she said in a speech before the Department of State recently that really impressed me. It is her faith in what women can and should do that emphasized for me her complete commitment to a reverence for life.

In that address Dr. Preminger said:

" . . . I find that all women are sisters. In America, in Europe, in Asia, and in Africa — wherever I traveled. Women are alike since the beginning of the world. And how talented they are!

"I am a philosopher. So let us philosophize a minute on what is a woman. What are we in life? A passing breeze, a trembling shadow, a frail leaf in the wind—weak. And still, I beg of you to be strong. Strong enough to swear disobedience to conformity and blind obedience to love. I am an incorrigible dreamer. When people ask me: You believe in miracles? —I say, what do you mean . . . I rely on them.

"Hans Christian Andersen said, 'Life is the most wonderful fairy tale' and he was right. Yesterday's luxuries became today's necessities. Hundred years ago this would be all fairy tales what we have now. And we are not satisfied. We are not able to build a lasting strong wall to protect our happiness, but must run every time for moral sandbags for protection. I have to run to Equatorial Africa to the leper colony of Dr. Albert Schweitzer to find out that we won't find happiness before we discipline our own hearts to care for others . . .

"The wonderful thing about women is that from the beginning of the world starting by their own children, they were always involved in Human Rights. And they always wrote the word HUMAN larger than RIGHTS. Mother's love is the only positive promise for the limitless future. The only lucrative Common Market is the common market of love. And the only sure investment in the infinite future is to invest in people. Rich or poor, educated or analphabet, ugly or beautiful, affectionate or cold, however they differ . . .

"But do they really differ? . . . The similarities are much greater than the differences. It is hard to be spiritual in an unspiritual century. But for a woman, it's nothing to set out to accomplish the impossible . . ."

Dr. Preminger also stated that the landscape of our minds do not change. That courage to change is an idea wrapped in imagination. She said:

"Ours is the power of the effectual instant of NOW. When Buddha was asked to say all his wisdom in one word, he said, NOW. Who else, but women practice instant friendliness? A flower does not warm up, it is instantly beautiful. Who else, but women hold in their hand the urgent future of tomorrow and the powerful instant of now? Who else, but a woman can open closed doors, closed minds and closed hearts? If today's problems are too much for us, what about the problems of tomorrow? The tomorrow, which is already here . . ."

Dr. Preminger's message must not fall upon deaf ears. I hope all women will heed it particularly in this holiday season of hope and rededication.

HARDENING OF ARTERIES IS A GENERALIZED PROCESS

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Q—Does hardening of the arteries of the brain run in families? What are the early symptoms? Would a blood count indicate this kind of trouble?

A—Hardening of the arteries runs in families only to the extent that long life runs in the family. It is usually a generalized process, so the first sign is often "pipe stem" arteries in the wrists or the appearance of calcification in the arteries on an X-ray film. An artery, even with advanced hardening, causes no symptoms as long as it is functionnig. When the opening in the diseased vessel in the brain becomes so narrow that the blood can't flow though readily or when a brittle artery becomes plugged with a blood clot or breaks, the victim has symptoms that may be mild (little stroke) or severe (apoplexy). The nature of the symyptoms varies widely, depending on the severity and the part of the brain affected.

A blood count would not be helpful in establishing the diagnosis of arterial brain damage.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

HARDENING OF ARTERIES IS A GENERALIZED PROCESS

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Q—Does hardening of the arteries of the brain run in families? What are the early symptoms? Would a blood count indicate this kind of trouble?

A—Hardening of the arteries runs in families only to the extent that long life runs in the family. It is usually a generalized process, so the first sign is often "pipe stem" arteries in the wrists or the appearance of calcification in the arteries on an X-ray film. An artery, even with advanced hardening, causes no symptoms as long as it is functionnig. When the opening in the diseased vessel in the brain becomes so narrow that the blood can't flow though readily or when a brittle artery becomes plugged with a blood clot or breaks, the victim has symptoms that may be mild (little stroke) or severe (apoplexy). The nature of the symyptoms varies widely, depending on the severity and the part of the brain affected.

A blood count would not be helpful in establishing the diagnosis of arterial brain damage.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Oscar Winner Starred at Woodstock

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

The tight, black dress that hampered her walk up the aisle to the stage of the Pantages Theater Wednesday night was the essence of chic—in total contrast to the jodphurs and 1930's length skirts she wore in the role that won her an Oscar.

Still, with hair piled high and shoulders bared, she looked much like the same "Jenny" who sang along with "Mack the Knife" in the 1964 production of "Three Penny Opera" at the Woodstock Playhouse.

Accepting the Oscar as Best Supporting Actress from actor Walter Matthau (an Oscar winner last year), she smiled radiantly and quipped, "My, it's heavy!" It was the kind of piquant remark one could expect from the talented actress-singer who starred as Eliza Doolittle, the cockney flower girl of "My Fair Lady," less than four years ago at the Playhouse in Woodstock.

Many area residents remember Estelle Parsons, who appeared in four shows at the art colony theatre over a period of two seasons. She was the hilariously funny Mrs. Peachum in the 1962 version of "Three Penny Opera" there. The comic talent she displayed then was reflected threefold in this year's bold, brassy movie, "Bonnie and Clyde." As the simpering and frightened daughter of a Southern minister, who has married bank robber Clyde Barrow's brother, Buck, and been drawn into gangster life, Estelle Parsons was at her scene stealing best. The movie industry thought so, too, and voted her one of the most important Oscars of the year.

Totally dedicated to the theatre, Estelle Parsons was a familiar figure in Woodstock for two summer seasons. She appeared often on the streets and in the supermarkets with her twin daughters, Abie and Martha, then nine-years-old. Edgar Rosenblum, Playhouse producer, remembers her as a vivacious, cooperative, hard-working and talented member of his cast. Neighbors recall her as friendly and fun-loving.

Local residents who missed her performances in Woodstock—performances that helped to take her to the top of the acting profession, will be seeing plenty of the talented and vivacious Estelle Parsons from here on out. She's currently starring in a play for David Merrick on Broadway—and "Bonnie and Clyde" is so thoroughly an American work of art that there is little doubt it will be re-issued often in the years to come, following the lead of such public favorites as "Gone with the Wind" and "The African Queen." And, after that Oscar, she'll be in even more demand for movies and television.

'New' Billy Casper Takes Early Lead in Masters

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Billy Casper, golf's quiet man, suddenly turned showman en route to the first round lead in the Masters Golf Tournament.

Casper—for years a rather sombre figure—capered and cavorted over the windy, rolling acres of the Augusta National Golf Course Thursday on the way to a four-under-par 68.

That gave him a one-stroke lead over an international quintet including pre-tourney favorite Jack Nicklaus, British Open champion Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, tough, young Tony Jacklin of England, Australian Bruce Devlin and tour regular Tommy Aaron.

Tied at 70 were Bob Goalby, Kermit Zarley and Jerry Pittman. PGA champion Don January and Hideyeo Sugimoto, six-time Japanese open champion, and amateur Vinnie Giles were in a group of seven at 71 while defending champion Gay Brewer, Arnold Palmer and South African Gary Player were among the seven tied at par 72.

Just Felt Good

"I just felt good," Casper said. "I've felt good all week. And after a round like that I feel even better."

He reeled off six birdies, including three on the last five holes and dropped in putts up to a monster of 55 feet.

His actions on the course were in marked contrast to the placid, plodding picture he has presented in recent years.

He joked with the crowd, waved to the gallery, did a little dance step after a good putt, put body english on his shots and registered disapproval with grimaces and groans.

Casper, acknowledged as one of the world's finest players, always before has had his troubles in this particular tournament.

Has Inner Peace

"But now," he said in a serious vein, "now I have an inner peace that permits me to do everything in my life better."

He is a recent convert to the Mormon religion.

Bill, while aping Palmer's facial expressions on the course, was dressed a la Doug Sanders—all in gold.

Asked if there was any significance in that particular color in this rich tournament, Casper laughed and replied:

"No, none at all. It's not the gold. I'm shooting for the green come Sunday," he said, referring to the green jacket given to Masters champions.

The final two rounds will be televised nationally by CBS-TV, 5-6 p.m., EST Saturday and 4-5:30 p.m., EST Sunday.

Killebrew Raps Second Home Run in Two Days

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Merritt was having trouble with his pivot and suddenly Minnesota Twins were in trouble. But there was nothing wrong with Harmon Killebrew's swing and suddenly the Twins were out of trouble.

Killebrew's second homer in as many days snapped a tie and gave the Twins a 5-4 victory over Washington Thursday night after a shaky start by Merritt allowed the Senators four runs in the first inning.

Minnesota pitching coach Early Wynn detected a hitch in the young left-hander's pivot when delivering the ball and quickly got him to correct the flaw. After that, Merritt allowed just two hits and waited for the Twins' hitters to catch up.

In the only other American League games Thursday, Detroit edged Boston 4-3 and California topped Cleveland 7-5.

The Twins started catching up to the Senators in the third inning when Ken McMullen's two-out throwing error opened the gates to three runs.

In the fifth, Frank Howard muffed a fly ball by Rod Carew for a two-base error and Carew eventually scored the tying run on a wild pitch. Then Killebrew sent one 381 feet into the left field bullpen in left center.

The Tigers beat the Red Sox on Gates Brown's pinch-hit homer in the ninth inning. Dick McAuliffe homered for Detroit in the first inning and Bill Freehan hit one out in the second, staking the Tigers to a 3-0 lead.

But in the sixth, Joe Lahoud, the rookie who is taking Tony Conigliaro's place in right field, and Rico Petrocelli tied the score at 3-3 with successive homers off Denny McLain and that's the way things stayed until Brown hit his homer.

Chuck Hinton's homer in the seventh tied the Angels with the Indians and Bob Rodgers followed with a single that drove in Roger Repoz with the winning run.

Sam McDowell, the Cleveland starter, hit Don Mincher in the face with a pitch in the third inning and the big Angel slugger was carried from the field in a stretcher. Five stitches were taken before he was sent to the hospital for observation.

Cardinal Countdown Starts

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis countdown has begun and it's only April.

The happy-go-lucky Cardinals, defending world champions, were chanting "a hundred more to go," after their second straight victory Thursday night had left them comfortably perched at the top of the National League.

A hundred more victories would give the Cards 102 for the season—one more than it took them to capture the pennant last year.

The Redbirds were understandably chipper Thursday night after an 18-hit attack led by Orlando Cepeda, Tim McCarver, Curt Flood and Mike Shannon had pounded Atlanta 10-3.

In other National League games, rookie Jerry Koosman pitched a four-hitter for his first major league victory as New York blanked Los Angeles 4-0, Pittsburgh pushed across two runs in the 15th inning to nip San Francisco 3-1, Houston dropped Philadelphia 7-3 and Chicago bumped Cincinnati 10-3.

Has 4 RBIs

Cepeda, who led the "hundred to go" chant, drove in four Cardinal runs with a homer, single and his first triple in four years. Twice his clutch hits came with two-strike counts on him.

McCarver had four hits, and Shannon and Flood three each as St. Louis battered three Atlanta pitchers. Deron Johnson accounted for all three Braves' runs with an eighth inning homer.

The Dodgers suffered their second straight shoutout, this time at the hands of the Mets. Koosman, a rookie left-hander, was in complete control and got all the offensive help he needed from Art Shamsky who drove in the first two runs of the game with a bases-loaded single in the sixth inning.

Ferrara Injured

Dodger outfielder Al Ferrara suffered a fracture and dislocation of his left ankle when he fell down chasing Tommie Agee's eighth inning drive. Ferrara was carried off the field on a stretcher and taken to a hospital for X rays. He is expected to be sidlined for three months.

Norm Miller and Rusty Staub drove in two runs apiece as the Astros won their second straight, beating Larry Jackson, an old nemesis.

Jackson, who had beaten Houston 17 times, lasted only three innings. Don Wilson, backed by a 14-hit Astro attack, went the distance against the Phillies on a seven-hitter.

Maury Wills drove in Pittsburgh's winning runs in the 15th inning against the Giants. Nate Oliver's error, a sacrifice, an intentional walk and a hit batsman loaded the bases and set up Wills' winning hit.

Billy Williams rapped a pair of home runs leading a five-homer Chicago barrage that carried the Cubs past Cincinnati. The two homers gave Williams 200 for his career.

Ferguson Jenkins, who slammed one of the Cub homers, breezed to the victory.

DOUBLE FIRST — Mets pitcher Jerry Koosman pitches a 4-hit shutout as the Mets defeated the Dodgers 4-0. For Koosman it was his first major league victory, and, of course a first shutout. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Even Nicklaus Is Amazed by His Own Power

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP — Awed galleries and less-powerful rivals at the Masters have always thought Jack Nicklaus' booming drives were unbelievable.

Big Jack himself says he can't believe some of them, either.

"I hit two of them more than 300 yards—one uphill," Nicklaus said after an opening 69 Thursday on the damp Augusta National Course where the balls didn't roll.

"I couldn't believe I was driving the ball that far," Big Jack said. "On the 17th green I walked 100 paces up hill to get to the ball, which has got to be over 300 yards.

"And on the 13th I only had 115 yards to go after my drive."

The 13th is 420 yards long, which means Nicklaus banged his tee shot 305 yards.

Nicklaus has always been one of pro golf's longest drivers, but he has had trouble keeping the ball in the fairways this spring.

"But I'm driving the ball well now," said the three-time Masters champion as he went into the second round only a shot off the lead.

Nicklaus had a hard time settling down despite his familiarity with the course, on which he holds the Masters record of 271 strokes.

"I was nervous," Nicklaus said, "And it took me four or five holes to calm down."

The blond belter said part of the nervousness may have been brought on by a burning desire to get off to a strong start after failing to qualify last year for the last 36 holes.

Saugerties AD Goes to Clinic

Fred Seither, athletic director and football coach at Saugerties High School recently attended the fourth annual WNBF-Radio-TV Sheraton Inn Football Coaches' clinic at the Sheraton Inn in Binghamton.

More than 600 attended the clinic. The clinic staff consisted of Jack Mellenkopf of Purdue, Colorado State's Milo Lude, Dan Devine of Missouri, Tony Mason, University of Michigan, Lee Royer, Virginia Tech; Bob Odell, Pennsylvania; Don Fuoss, Purdue; Tom Cahill, Army; Dick Lyon, Army and Roger Robinson, Cortland.

Injuries Blight Dodgers' Hopes Early in Season

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Six days ago, the Los Angeles Dodgers had high hopes of contending for the National League baseball championship. Now, after only two games, things are so bad that they can only get better.

A sudden run of bad luck struck the Dodgers again Thursday night when left fielder Al Ferrara was sidelined for three months with a fracture and a dislocation of his left ankle. Loss of the big right-handed hitter further compounds the Dodgers' main weakness, a vulnerability against lefthanded pitching.

Southpaws Chris Short of Philadelphia and Jerry Koosman of the New York Mets have pitched four-hitters to shut out the Dodgers in each of their first two starts.

Short won 2-0 Wednesday night and Koosman won 4-0 Thursday night for his first major league victory.

Ferrara, 28, was the Dodger leader last year in average .277, and home runs, 16. His injury leaves the Dodgers with just five outfielders and only one of those, veteran Rocky Colavito, hits righthanded.

The Dodger run of bad luck began last Saturday. First Manager Walter Alston was hospitalized for the removal of two kidney stones and will be off from work for three to four weeks.

That same day, second baseman Jim Lefebvre was shelved with a reinjury of an Achilles tendon. Lefebvre has missed the first two games.

Holzmann, Knight Will Be Instructors

Two outstanding basketball coaches, Red Holzman of the New York Knicks and Army's Bobby Knight, will join NBA performers Oscar Robertson and Bill Bradley as instructors at Willis Reed's All Star Camp.

The camp will run July 8-13 and August 19-24 in Newburgh. Applications are now being accepted by mail. For more information, write to Willis Reed's All Star Camp, Holiday Inn, Newburgh.

Killebrew Raps Second Home Run in Two Days

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Merritt was having trouble with his pivot and suddenly Minnesota Twins were in trouble. But there was nothing wrong with Harmon Killebrew's swing and suddenly the Twins were out of trouble.

Killebrew's second homer in as many days snapped a tie and gave the Twins a 5-4 victory over Washington Thursday night after a shaky start by Merritt allowed the Senators four runs in the first inning.

Minnesota pitching coach Early Wynn detected a hitch in the young left-hander's pivot when delivering the ball and quickly got him to correct the flaw. After that, Merritt allowed just two hits and waited for the Twins' hitters to catch up.

In the only other American League games Thursday, Detroit edged Boston 4-3 and California topped Cleveland 7-5.

The Twins started catching up to the Senators in the third inning when Ken McMullen's two-out throwing error opened the gates to three runs.

In the fifth, Frank Howard muffed a fly ball by Rod Carew for a two-base error and Carew eventually scored the tying run on a wild pitch. Then Killebrew sent one 381 feet into the left field bullpen in left center.

The Tigers beat the Red Sox on Gates Brown's pinch-hit homer in the ninth inning. Dick McAuliffe homered for Detroit in the first inning and Bill Freehan hit one out in the second, staking the Tigers to a 3-0 lead.

But in the sixth, Joe Lahoud, the rookie who is taking Tony Conigliaro's place in right field, and Rico Petrocelli tied the score at 3-3 with successive homers off Denny McLain and that's the way things stayed until Brown hit his homer.

Chuck Hinton's homer in the seventh tied the Angels with the Indians and Bob Rodgers followed with a single that drove in Roger Repoz with the winning run.

Sam McDowell, the Cleveland starter, hit Don Mincher in the face with a pitch in the third inning and the big Angel slugger was carried from the field in a stretcher. Five stitches were taken before he was sent to the hospital for observation.

Cardinal Countdown Starts

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis countdown has begun and it's only April.

The happy-go-lucky Cardinals, defending world champions, were chanting "a hundred more to go," after their second straight victory Thursday night had left them comfortably perched at the top of the National League.

A hundred more victories would give the Cards 102 for the season—one more than it took them to capture the pennant last year.

The Redbirds were understandably chipper Thursday night after an 18-hit attack led by Orlando Cepeda, Tim McCarver, Curt Flood and Mike Shannon had pounded Atlanta 10-3.

In other National League games, rookie Jerry Koosman pitched a four-hitter for his first major league victory as New York blanked Los Angeles 4-0, Pittsburgh pushed across two runs in the 15th inning to nip San Francisco 3-1, Houston dropped Philadelphia 7-3 and Chicago bumped Cincinnati 10-3.

Has 4 RBIs

Cepeda, who led the "hundred to go" chant, drove in four Cardinal runs with a homer, single and his first triple in four years. Twice his clutch hits came with two-strike counts on him.

McCarver had four hits, and Shannon and Flood three each as St. Louis battered three Atlanta pitchers. Deron Johnson accounted for all three Braves' runs with an eighth inning homer.

The Dodgers suffered their second straight shoutout, this time at the hands of the Mets. Koosman, a rookie left-hander, was in complete control and got all the offensive help he needed from Art Shamsky who drove in the first two runs of the game with a bases-loaded single in the sixth inning.

Ferrara Injured

Dodger outfielder Al Ferrara suffered a fracture and dislocation of his left ankle when he fell down chasing Tommie Agee's eighth inning drive. Ferrara was carried off the field on a stretcher and taken to a hospital for X rays. He is expected to be sidlined for three months.

Norm Miller and Rusty Staub drove in two runs apiece as the Astros won their second straight, beating Larry Jackson, an old nemesis.

Jackson, who had beaten Houston 17 times, lasted only three innings. Don Wilson, backed by a 14-hit Astro attack, went the distance against the Phillies on a seven-hitter.

Maury Wills drove in Pittsburgh's winning runs in the 15th inning against the Giants. Nate Oliver's error, a sacrifice, an intentional walk and a hit batsman loaded the bases and set up Wills' winning hit.

Billy Williams rapped a pair of home runs leading a five-homer Chicago barrage that carried the Cubs past Cincinnati. The two homers gave Williams 200 for his career.

Ferguson Jenkins, who slammed one of the Cub homers, breezed to the victory.

DOUBLE FIRST — Mets pitcher Jerry Koosman pitches a 4-hit shutout as the Mets defeated the Dodgers 4-0. For Koosman it was his first major league victory, and, of course a first shutout. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Injuries Blight Dodgers' Hopes Early in Season

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Six days ago, the Los Angeles Dodgers had high hopes of contending for the National League baseball championship. Now, after only two games, things are so bad that they can only get better.

A sudden run of bad luck struck the Dodgers again Thursday night when left fielder Al Ferrara was sidelined for three months with a fracture and a dislocation of his left ankle. Loss of the big right-handed hitter further compounds the Dodgers' main weakness, a vulnerability against lefthanded pitching.

Southpaws Chris Short of Philadelphia and Jerry Koosman of the New York Mets have pitched four-hitters to shut out the Dodgers in each of their first two starts.

Short won 2-0 Wednesday night and Koosman won 4-0 Thursday night for his first major league victory.

Ferrara, 28, was the Dodger leader last year in average .277, and home runs, 16. His injury leaves the Dodgers with just five outfielders and only one of those, veteran Rocky Colavito, hits righthanded.

The Dodger run of bad luck began last Saturday. First Manager Walter Alston was hospitalized for the removal of two kidney stones and will be off from work for three to four weeks.

That same day, second baseman Jim Lefebvre was shelved with a reinjury of an Achilles tendon. Lefebvre has missed the first two games.

Even Nicklaus Is Amazed by His Own Power

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP — Awed galleries and less-powerful rivals at the Masters have always thought Jack Nicklaus' booming drives were unbelievable.

Big Jack himself says he can't believe some of them, either.

"I hit two of them more than 300 yards—one uphill," Nicklaus said after an opening 69 Thursday on the damp Augusta National Course where the balls didn't roll.

"I couldn't believe I was driving the ball that far," Big Jack said. "On the 17th green I walked 100 paces up hill to get to the ball, which has got to be over 300 yards.

"And on the 13th I only had 115 yards to go after my drive."

The 13th is 420 yards long, which means Nicklaus banged his tee shot 305 yards.

Nicklaus has always been one of pro golf's longest drivers, but he has had trouble keeping the ball in the fairways this spring.

"But I'm driving the ball well now," said the three-time Masters champion as he went into the second round only a shot off the lead.

Nicklaus had a hard time settling down despite his familiarity with the course, on which he holds the Masters record of 271 strokes.

"I was nervous," Nicklaus said, "And it took me four or five holes to calm down."

The blond belter said part of the nervousness may have been brought on by a burning desire to get off to a strong start after failing to qualify last year for the last 36 holes.

Maroon Runners Hope To Avoid Spring Woes

Kingston High's track team, under coach Bill Hurley, has had difficulty down through the years winning in the spring races. And this year, according to Hurley, is one that is a toss-up as far as that category is concerned.

The initial test comes April 23 at Arlington in the first of six dual meets slated for the Maroon this season.

Hurley, not wishing to be either pessimistic or optimistic, feels that his trio of sprinters, Dana Clearwater, Barry Hughes and Albert McClinton will win some points for the Maroon, but none will be outstanding. "They have the potential, each and every one, to be a winner, but so far, none have been above the crowd," Hurley said.

The hurdles finds little help as Allan Burns and Joe Holland not big threats as far as the rest of the DUSO League goes.

Hurley's mainstays will be Gary Boice and Bill Brinnier in the distance events. Boice, who already has a 4:28 mile to his credit, is expected to be a big winner. Brinnier, 10:13 in the two-mile is also counted heavily on for those first place points.

Hurley finds Bruce Brown the frontrunner in the 440 with Ron Shiels in there also. Heading up the half-mile is Fred Kachura and Steve Olson, while backing up Boice and John Salzman and Jim Gilpatric and aiding Brinnier are Ed Freer and Roger Edwards.

The pole vaulter will be Kevin Williams while Ted Wood and Burns seem to be dominating the high jump so far. The broad jump is Gene Ballou's alone.

The Maroon weightmen are Paul Berg, a 50-foot shot putter and Randy Kilder, Tom Dittus and Tony Argulewicz.

Greer's Jumpers Give 76ers 2-1 Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Philadelphia left the driving to Hal Greer and in return Greer put the 76ers in the driver's seat in their National Basketball Association playoffs with Boston.

Greer popped in 21 points in the fourth quarter and steered the host 76ers by the Celtics 122-114 Thursday night, putting Philadelphia up 2-1 in the Easter Division finals.

The Celtics were moving along right well themselves for a time, making up a 77-67 deficit to go ahead 93-91, but by then defensive ace Bill Russell, Bailey Howell and Satch Sanders each had five fouls with 10:18 left.

"That was the key to the game," Greer said, "With Russell out of there it opened everything up. I just drove the middle and those little jumpers were wide open."

After two games in two nights, the best-of-7 series resumes Sunday in Boston.

While the defending NBA champion 76ers, who lost the first game in Philadelphia, won their second straight, Los Angeles took an almost insurmountable 3-0 lead with a 128-124 triumph over San Francisco.

In the only American Basketball Association game, Jesse Branson came off the bench in the second and fourth quarters and led New Orleans to a commanding 3-1 playoff lead with a 119-103 victory over Dallas in New Orleans.

Jerry West put the Los Angeles on the threshold of winning its best-of-7 Western Division final series by scoring 40 points, including six of the Lakers' last eight points. The teams play in Oakland Saturday night.

New Orleans can wrap up its best-of-7 Western Division final set Saturday night at home, after Branson's heroics.

Branson hit the first eight points of the second period and had eight more before the half as the Buccaneers took the lead for good. He came back in the fourth period with 10 more points to insure the victory.

Sawyerkill Golf Course Has Beauty and Distance

A beautiful golf course is taking shape in the Sawyerkill area of the Town of Saugerties—where a winding creek and rich, rolling farm land blend into some of the finest lanscapes in the area.

It will be known as the Sawyerkill Country Club, a magnificent 9-hole, 3515-yard test of hitting power and putting finesse and it is the culmination of a long standing dream of attorney Morris Rosenbloom and five associates.

Messrs. Rosenblum and associates are doing their job well. The new clubhouse rapidly approaching completion is absolutely mod in motif, with facilities and appurtenances never before made available to country club members in this part of the country.

"WE WANTED TO CREATE a real test of golf in a beautiful setting," says Rosenblum. Visual evidence is everywhere that the Saugerties group is sparing nothing to give area golf fans one of the finest 9-hole courses in the state.

"And there is plenty of room for nine more, if we ever need them," Rosenblum points out. The first 9 holes are being laid out over 130 acres of plush soil, an inordinate amount of acres . . . This means long holes and hitting freedom and the Sawyerkill has both in huge quantities.

The Saugerties group put together a first rate team to create the Sawyerkill Country Club.

Hal C. Purdy, a widely known golf architect was hired to design the course and its tantalizing greens.

John Jagodzinski course superintendent at famed Engineers Club in Roslyn, L. I. was lured out of retirement to develop the layout, He was at Engineers, one of the hallowed metropolitan area layouts, for 35 years before settling in Saugerties on retirement.

THE MAN WHO DESIGNED and is building the impressive clubhouse is Vytantas Mecionis of Saugerties.

Purdy has lengthened the championship layout to 3515 yards (7,030 for 18 holes) which makes it a par 37 and next to Wiltwyck's "tiger tee" setup the longest golf course in Eastern New York.

Purdy projected a 3,335-yard regular course and a 3,058-yard women's test.

Sawyerkill challenges the golfer right from the starting with back-to-back par 5 holes at 502 and 490 yards. There are three par 5's, two par 3's and four par 4's. The opening 5's represent a unique design in golf course construction.

ALL THE TEES are at least 100 feet long and 40 feet wide, giving wide latitude in changing the course length and hitting positions from day to day. The first tee, for example, can be stretched to 100 yards.

You won't find a single flat green at Sawyerkill. Hal Purdy has done an uncanny job of creating the maximum challenge for the putter. The greens are undulating, with high crests on some, but never flat or routine.

Proper pin placements will demand maximum accuracy with the pitching irons, since few of the greens are elevated. They range in size from 4,900 to 5,000 square feet in size.

There will be separate tees for women except on the No. 3 and No. 7 holes.

The three layouts projected by Purdy follow:

Holes	Blue	White	Red	Par
No. 1	517	502	425	5
No. 2	490	465	430	5
No. 3	387	367	347	4
No. 4	193	173	143	3
No. 5	385	365	350	4
No. 6	565	545	510	5
No. 7	365	345	325	4
No. 8	220	200	165	3
No. 9	393	378	363	4
Totals	3515	3335	3058	37

A thumbnail sketch of the first nine holes:

No. 1—Dogleg left, breaks at 200 yards out, slight uphill left. Tee 100 yards long.

No. 2 — Dogleg, left which must be carried by golfer, cannot be "cut."

No. 3—Plays off 165 foot tee, can be lengthened to 400 yards or more. Bunker inside dogleg on left side fairway.

No. 4—First par three—193—woods on right, fairway partly obstructed by trees.

No. 5—A double bend dogleg, with swell in front of tee. Needs drive of 150 or better from tee to carry swell. First dogleg cannot be carried from tee.

No. 6 — The Sawyerkill Monster — 565 yards of man made challenge — need 175 yards to get over swail; water behind green and to the right. Prevailing south winds always a factor here.

No. 7—Shortest par 4 (345 yards) — 165-foot tee; out of bounds on left side contigiuous with Saugerties High school property. Huge maple overhanging fairway on right distracts golfer.

No. 8—Route par-3 at 200 yards, with drive between tree can be considerably toughened with alternate 165-yard uphill tee.

No. 9 — Longest par 4—393 yards—coming home with clubhouse and Catskill mountain backdrop on the left. A beautiful finishing hole.

Sawyerkill has it all—beauty of landscape tremendous distance, challenging greens, an impressive clubhouse. A welcome addition to Ulster county golf.

Pine Bush, New Paltz Win Over Ellies

Ellenville, facing two of the three top ranked teams in the UCAL, fell twice in successive days, losing, 6-0, to Pine Bush yesterday and 8-3 to New Paltz Wednesday.

The Ellies were stopped on a one-hitter by the Bushmen, as Steve Hayden got a clean single in the second to ruin Mike Alexander's bid for a no-hitter.

The Bushmen got a run in each of the first two innings, then let Alexander make them stand up until the bottom of the fifth. A walk and a double by Rich Alexander scored the first of those fifth frame runs, and Tom Saxton came up with a three-run homer to wrap things up nicely and give the Bushmen their second one-hitter (second win) of the season.

New Paltz crammed all eight runs into the first three innings, getting three in the first, adding a quartet in the second and closing out with a loner in the third.

Ellenville committed five errors and a wild pitch in those three frames, and the Huguenots took good advantage to post their second win in as many starts.

Ellenville is now 0-2 on the season.

Skates Sharper For Canadiens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Canadiens don't have sharper skates than any other National Hockey League team. They just use them better.

"We got a team effort and we outskated them," Coach Toe Blake said after the Canadiens edged Boston 3-2 Thursday night to sweep their East Division Stanley Cup semifinal series in four straight games. "Very few of our guys were not skating."

Montreal's next opponent will be the winner of the New York-Chicago series. The Black Hawks fired five goals in the third period to beat the Rangers 7-4 and cut New York's lead to 2-1.

In West Division semifinal action, St. Louis whipped Philadelphia 5-2 to take a commanding 3-1 lead and Minnesota nipped Los Angeles 3-2 to square that set at two games apiece. All series are best-of-7.

Harness Drivers to Pick Tracks on Boycott List

The National Association of Harness Drivers (NAHD), a relatively new group that moved into the forefront with the lack of action by the Standardbred Owners Association, will hold a meeting to discuss the naming of harness raceways to be boycotted.

The NAHD, through its attorney, F. Lee Bailey, yesterday sent a telegram to George Morton Levy, Sr., president of Roosevelt Raceway, stating that the association would meet with Mr. Levy Saturday to debate the issues involved with the recently passed parimutuel law in New York State and at the same time, hold a meeting to decide which tracks to boycott over this issue.

The NAHD has stated publicly that it is opposed to the new tax measure incorporated into Governor Rockefeller's budget because it defines and specifies that thoroughbred racing's additional increase from the new measure be used only for increased purses. For harness racing, no such provision is stipulated.

Levy came out against the NAHD's opposition, and last week issued a challenge to Bailey to set a time and date for a debate on the issue.

Bailey set Saturday, 1 p. m. in East Meadow, for the debate —so it would coincide with the NAHD's meeting.

Montclair Linksmen Defeat Hawks Squad

Montclair State of New Jersey wrecked State University New Paltz's golf opener with a 7½-1½ victory in a dual meet at the Granit links at Accord.

Kevin Maelia, playing in the No. 5 spot, picked up the Hawks' only win, defeating his opponent Bill Bray, 3 and 2. Mike Mostransky, New Paltz's No. 1 player, halved with Dick Grant the Montclair captain.

Monstransky carded low gross for the match with 42-39-81 over the par 35-35-70 layout. Runnerup was Joe Peterson of Montclair with 42-40-82. Dick Grant of Montclair posted 40-43-83. Montclair won all three best-ball points in the six-singles, 9-point match.

The summaries:

Valley Central Dumps Dukes

Marlboro, ahead by a 3-1 score, fell victim to a pair of shaky middle innings as Valley Central whipped the Iron Dukes yesterday, 13-9 in baseball.

The sixth, saw VC come up with a six run rally to ice things, but Marlboro put on a short-lived four run string of its own. Highlighted by Rich Passante's bases loaded triple, the Dukes fell short and evened their record at 1-1.

Maroon Runners Hope To Avoid Spring Woes

Kingston High's track team, under coach Bill Hurley, has had difficulty down through the years winning in the spring races. And this year, according to Hurley, is one that is a toss-up as far as that category is concerned.

The initial test comes April 23 at Arlington in the first of six dual meets slated for the Maroon this season.

Hurley, not wishing to be either pessimistic or optimistic, feels that his trio of sprinters, Dana Clearwater, Barry Hughes and Albert McClinton will win some points for the Maroon, but none will be outstanding. "They have the potential, each and every one, to be a winner, but so far, none have been above the crowd," Hurley said.

The hurdles finds little help as Allan Burns and Joe Holland not big threats as far as the rest of the DUSO League goes.

Hurley's mainstays will be Gary Boice and Bill Brinnier in the distance events. Boice, who already has a 4:28 mile to his credit, is expected to be a big winner. Brinnier, 10:13 in the two-mile is also counted heavily on for those first place points.

Hurley finds Bruce Brown the frontrunner in the 440 with Ron Shiels in there also. Heading up the half-mile is Fred Kachura and Steve Olson, while backing up Boice and John Salzman and Jim Gilpatric and aiding Brinnier are Ed Freer and Roger Edwards.

The pole vaulter will be Kevin Williams while Ted Wood and Burns seem to be dominating the high jump so far. The broad jump is Gene Ballou's alone.

The Maroon weightmen are Paul Berg, a 50-foot shot putter and Randy Kilder, Tom Dittus and Tony Argulewicz.

The schedule:

Greer's Jumpers Give 76ers 2-1 Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Philadelphia left the driving to Hal Greer and in return Greer put the 76ers in the driver's seat in their National Basketball Association playoffs with Boston.

Greer popped in 21 points in the fourth quarter and steered the host 76ers by the Celtics 122-114 Thursday night, putting Philadelphia up 2-1 in the Easter Division finals.

The Celtics were moving along right well themselves for a time, making up a 77-67 deficit to go ahead 93-91, but by then defensive ace Bill Russell, Bailey Howell and Satch Sanders each had five fouls with 10:18 left.

"That was the key to the game," Greer said, "With Russell out of there it opened everything up. I just drove the middle and those little jumpers were wide open."

After two games in two nights, the best-of-7 series resumes Sunday in Boston.

While the defending NBA champion 76ers, who lost the first game in Philadelphia, won their second straight, Los Angeles took an almost insurmountable 3-0 lead with a 128-124 triumph over San Francisco.

In the only American Basketball Association game, Jesse Branson came off the bench in the second and fourth quarters and led New Orleans to a commanding 3-1 playoff lead with a 119-103 victory over Dallas in New Orleans.

Jerry West put the Los Angeles on the threshold of winning its best-of-7 Western Division final series by scoring 40 points, including six of the Lakers' last eight points. The teams play in Oakland Saturday night.

New Orleans can wrap up its best-of-7 Western Divisiion final set Saturday night at home, after Branson's heroics.

Branson hit the first eight points of the second period and had eight more before the half as the Buccaneers took the lead for good. He came back in the fourth period with 10 more points to insure the victory.

Sawyerkill Golf Course Has Beauty and Distance

A beautiful golf course is taking shape in the Sawyerkill area of the Town of Saugerties—where a winding creek and rich, rolling farm land blend into some of the finest lanscapes in the area.

It will be known as the Sawyerkill Country Club, a magnificent 9-hole, 3515-yard test of hitting power and putting finesse and it is the culmination of a long standing dream of attorney Morris Rosenbloom and five associates.

Messrs. Rosenblum and associates are doing their job well. The new clubhouse rapidly approaching completion is absolutely mod in motif, with facilities and appurtenances never before made available to country club members in this part of the country.

"WE WANTED TO CREATE a real test of golf in a beautiful setting," says Rosenblum. Visual evidence is everywhere that the Saugerties group is sparing nothing to give area golf fans one of the finest 9-hole courses in the state.

"And there is plenty of room for nine more, if we ever need them," Rosenblum points out. The first 9 holes are being laid out over 130 acres of plush soil, an inordinate amount of acres . . . This means long holes and hitting freedom and the Sawyerkill has both in huge quantities.

The Saugerties group put together a first rate team to create the Sawyerkill Country Club.

Hal C. Purdy, a widely known golf architect was hired to design the course and its tantalizing greens.

John Jagodzinski course superintendent at famed Engineers Club in Roslyn, L. I. was lured out of retirement to develop the layout, He was at Engineers, one of the hallowed metropolitan area layouts, for 35 years before settling in Saugerties on retirement.

THE MAN WHO DESIGNED and is building the impressive clubhouse is Vytantas Mecionis of Saugerties.

Purdy has lengthened the championship layout to 3515 yards (7,030 for 18 holes) which makes it a par 37 and next to Wiltwyck's "tiger tee" setup the longest golf course in Eastern New York.

Purdy projected a 3,515-yard championship test; 3,335-yard regular course and a 3,058-yard women's test.

Sawyerkill challenges the golfer right from the starting with back-to-back par 5 holes at 502 and 490 yards. There are three par 5's, two par 3's and four par 4's. The opening 5's represent a unique design in golf course construction.

ALL THE TEES are at least 100 feet long and 40 feet wide, giving wide latitude in changing the course length and hitting positions from day to day. The first tee, for example, can be stretched to 100 yards.

You won't find a single flat green at Sawyerkill. Hal Purdy has done an uncanny job of creating the maximum challenge for the putter. The greens are undulating, with high crests on some, but never flat or routine.

Proper pin placements will demand maximum accuracy with the pitching irons, since few of the greens are elevated. They range in size from 4,900 to 5,000 square feet in size.

There will be separate tees for women except on the No. 3 and No. 7 holes.

The three layouts projected by Purdy follow:

Holes	Blue	White	Red	Par
No. 1	517	502	425	5
No. 2	490	465	430	5
No. 3	387	367	347	4
No. 4	193	173	143	3
No. 5	385	365	350	4
No. 6	565	545	510	5
No. 7	365	345	325	4
No. 8	220	200	165	3
No. 9	393	378	363	4
Totals	3515	3335	3058	37

A thumbnail sketch of the first nine holes:

No. 1—Dogleg left, breaks at 200 yards out, slight uphill left. Tee 100 yards long.

No. 2 — Dogleg, left which must be carried by golfer, cannot be "cut."

No. 3—Plays off 165 foot tee, can be lengthened to 400 yards or more. Bunker inside dogleg on left side fairway.

No. 4—First par three—193—woods on right, fairway partly obstructed by trees.

No. 5—A double bend dogleg, with swell in front of tee. Needs drive of 150 or better from tee to carry swell. First dogleg cannot be carried from tee.

No. 6 — The Sawyerkill Monster — 565 yards of man made challenge — need 175 yards to get over swail; water behind green and to the right. Prevailing south winds always a factor here.

No. 7—Shortest par 4 (345 yards) — 165-foot tee; out of bounds on left side contigiuous with Saugerties High school property. Huge maple overhanging fairway on right distracts golfer.

No. 8—Route par-5 at 200 yards, with drive between tree can be considerably toughened with alternate 165-yard uphill tee.

No. 9 — Longest par 4—393 yards—coming home with clubhouse and Catskill mountain backdrop on the left. A beautiful finishing hole.

Sawyerkill has it all—beauty of landscape tremendous distance, challenging greens, an impressive clubhouse. A welcome addition to Ulster county golf.

Pine Bush, New Paltz Win Over Ellies

Ellenville, facing two of the three top ranked teams in the UCAL, fell twice in successive days, losing, 6-0, to Pine Bush yesterday and 8-3 to New Paltz Wednesday.

The Ellies were stopped on a one-hitter by the Bushmen, as Steve Hayden got a clean single in the second to ruin Mike Alexander's bid for a no-hitter.

The Bushmen got a run in each of the first two innings, then let Alexander make them stand up until the bottom of the fifth. A walk and a double by Rich Alexander scored the first of those fifth frame runs, and Tom Saxton came up with a three-run homer to wrap things up nicely and give the Bushmen their second one-hitter (second win) of the season.

New Paltz crammed all eight runs into the first three innings, getting three in the first, adding a quartet in the second and closing out with a loner in the third.

Ellenville committed five errors and a wild pitch in those three frames, and the Huguenots took good advantage to post their second win in as many starts.

Ellenville is now 0-2 on the season.

Skates Sharper For Canadiens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Canadiens don't have sharper skates than any other National Hockey League team. They just use them better.

"We got a team effort and we outskated them," Coach Toe Blake said after the Canadiens edged Boston 3-2 Thursday night to sweep their East Division Stanley Cup semifinal series in four straight games. "Very few of our guys were not skating."

Montreal's next opponent will be the winner of the New York-Chicago series. The Black Hawks fired five goals in the third period to beat the Rangers 7-4 and cut New York's lead to 2-1.

In West Division semifinal action, St. Louis whipped Philadelphia 5-2 to take a commanding 3-1 lead and Minnesota nipped Los Angeles 3-2 to square that set at two games apiece. All series are best-of-7.

Harness Drivers to Pick Tracks on Boycott List

The National Association of Harness Drivers (NAHD), a relatively new group that moved into the forefront with the lack of action by the Standardbred Owners Association, will hold a meeting to discuss the naming of harness raceways to be boycotted.

The NAHD, through its attorney, F. Lee Bailey, yesterday sent a telegram to George Morton Levy, Sr., president of Roosevelt Raceway, stating that the association would meet with Mr. Levy Saturday to debate the issues involved with the recently passed parimutuel law in New York State and at the same time, hold a meeting to decide which tracks to boycott over this issue.

The NAHD has stated publicly that it is opposed to the new tax measure incorporated into Governor Rockefeller's budget because it defines and specifies that thoroughbred racing's additional increase from the new measure be used only for increased purses. For harness racing, no such provision is stipulated.

Levy came out against the NAHD's opposition, and last week issued a challenge to Bailey to set a time and date for a debate on the issue.

Bailey set Saturday, 1 p. m. in East Meadow, for the debate —so it would coincide with the NAHD's meeting.

Rondout Valley in Thick of UCAL, OCS Rebuilding

By MIKE HELFNER
(Freeman Sports Staff)

You couldn't convince Rondout Valley baseball coach Harold Ross that everybody in the league picks his Ganders to win the UCAL this year.

Ross, who believes his team has a good chance, but shouldn't rate the favorites role, is a hard man to say you're the favorite to, but all the other UCAL coaches feel Rondout has the material to win the crown.

For Onteora, it will be just the opposite. Under second-year coach Larry Karas, the Indians have been weakened by loss of nine players through graduation, ineligibility or transfer. It will be a rebuilding year for the Indians.

Ross has six starters returning. Heading the parade of veterans is Gary Heinitz, a pitcher-outfielder who Ross expects a great deal from.

Heinitz has two compatriots on the mound that will give him some strong help. They are Terry Sahler, who also doubles at first and Tom Williams, the other double at first. When one is firing, the other is at the sack.

The shortstop position is assigned to Bernie Schaeffer, also a returnee while Tom Frazier has the backstop nailed down—even though Ross has him ready for duty in the outfield. The last returnee is Jay Spiegel, who played third last year and will be set there again.

Ross has a host of new players. Mark Fisher will give him some room to maneuver on the hill. Others play various positions.

Counts on George

Ross is counting heavily on Charlie George for backup at catcher, Keith Gorham, Dave Sims, Larry Baney, Dick Sheil, Mike Denkensohn and Dave Taylor in the outfield (Denkensohn also catches) and George Wallack, John Carle, Ken Brush and John Durkin as reserve infielders. One of these will have to be the second baseman.

OCS has holes all over, and Karas will have a tough job plugging them. With just two returnees, Karas expects many headaches before the season is over.

Back is Mickey Bush, a fixture at short. The center field opening was quickly locked up by Ted Weber, the other returnee.

All three pitchers on the roster are young, and little is known of their ability. Eddie Mercer is only a sophomore. Mike Sims, a transfer in from Fleischmann's is also unknown and Keith Thayer, is out for the first time.

Tom Riley handles the backstop chores along with John Stoothoff, a muscular player, who can also play first base. If necessary, Stoothoff can handle short, Karas informs us. The other first sacker is Wayne Wrightson, a senior.

Second base has just about been conceded to Mike Patrick. His understudy, Bill Beck, is pushing hard and just might unseat Patrick.

A quartet of candidates are vying for the two spots flanking Weber. Allan Cocks, John Stelcin, Barry Knight and John Tisch are all battling hard.

The final infield slot, third base, finds a struggle going on between Danny Waters and Wally Frasier.

Pitching and catching are the two big question marks, and should Karas come up with a solid battery, Onteora can make some headway and shake up the standings.

Pine Bush rates the runner-up nod behind Rondout in the pre-season figuring. Coach John Pliego has last year's squad virtually intact. One member, a reserve, went out instead for track.

He numbers Mike and Rich Alexander as his one and two pitchers, with Mike Steele the third. Steele might also be at second, the one spot that is a question right now.

Set are Steve Sudol at catcher, Tom Saxton at first, Gary Sisco on third and Frank Mercurio, short. Plugging that hole at second is Pliego's big worry now, but you can count on the Pine Bush mentor to fill that.

The outfield finds Mike Zanetti, Fred Pirog, Harry Kramer, Rod Greaves and Dan Abramtsov all in the race for the three spots. John Caputo is a definite reserve as is Wally Westerfield in the infield.

No one wants to count out New Paltz. The Huguenots have back the UCAL's top pitcher in Ray Zappone, who fanned 16 against Arlington. He'll be back for another shot at that honor. A pair of others back him up. Jim Schiller and Bob Lynch, both experienced hurlers, will be around to spell.

Catching finds Bill Bond, a converted third sacker. Dom Zaccheo is set at first, Ron Bonaguara at third and Wayne DuBois one of the outfield jobs.

Second is a toss-up between Frank Nadal and Dennis Marley. The same at third where Dave Shobert and Dane Barr are locked up, and in the outfield is Chuck Bradley, Jay Susdorf and Darryl Castellano fighting for the two vacancies. Add Tony Zagorini to the mound corp and no one wants to count New Paltz out.

Dukes Powerful

Marlboro will also be strong with Mike Pagano and Dale Sutton ready to handle three positions if needed. Coach Jack Kroh, the dean of UCAL coaches, likes to juggle, and his players go right along. Pagano, Sutton and Bill Giametta all pitch. Marlboro won its opener, 5-2.

Sutton and Giametta, plus cousin Fred Giametta, Tom Monahan, Rich Passante, Dom Porpiglia and Mike Stolfe all are outfielders. Inside finds Dan Passante, Roy McAteer, Dan Kurtz and Rocco Lofaro. Catching is between Frank Salzano and Dan Pagano.

Highland still has a shot, since it is the defending champ. Field general Lem Atkins has a few returnees and thinks he can be in the race with a couple of breaks.

Joe Ship is Atkins' lone returning moundsman. He is suffering from tendonitis and his effectiveness is in doubt. He must come around quickly for Highland to have any kind of a chance at unseating the frontrunners.

Also back is Anthony Biancardi at short and Gary Elia at one of the outfield spots or pitching. Brian Franciala is back to catch and will share time with Dirk Sheeley. Infielders are Pat Gaffney, Jim Galioto and John Indelicato. The rest are inexperienced.

Wallkill, under new coach Gene Bilboa, is expected to carry very little weight in deciding the race. Bilboa has nearly decided on a starting lineup and so far it looks like Tony Yurchuck will be the starting pitcher.

Behind him is Andy Hodger. The Blue Devils do not have a third hurler. The infield finds Ish Martinez at second, Ed Valesquez at third, Jan Selles at first, Tim Rosner at short and Bob Coy behind the plate.

Listed as outfielders are Tom Mulqueen, who might be pressed into pitching, Tony Domenicucci and Kevin Gallagher.

It shapes up to be a three team race between Rondout, New Paltz and Pine Bush. Marlboro and Highland have definite chances while Onteora and Highland aren't expected to show too much.

JUNIOR BOWLING CHAMP — John Brown shows off the form that brought him the Junior boys crown in the recent Ulster County Junior Bowler's Association tournament. Brown rolled a 592 scratch for a 712 handicap total. An active 127 average bowler, 14-year-old Brown is also active in football, basketball and Babe Ruth league baseball.

The cost of the package to NBC was not disclosed but was estimated to be between $750,000 and $1 million.

Rondout Valley in Thick of UCAL, OCS Rebuilding

By MIKE HELFNER
(Freeman Sports Staff)

You couldn't convince Rondout Valley baseball coach Harold Ross that everybody in the league picks his Ganders to win the UCAL this year.

Ross, who believes his team has a good chance, but shouldn't rate the favorites role, is a hard man to say you're the favorite to, but all the other UCAL coaches feel Rondout has the material to win the crown.

For Onteora, it will be just the opposite. Under second-year coach Larry Karas, the Indians have been weakened by loss of nine players through graduation, ineligibility or transfer. It will be a rebuilding year for the Indians.

Ross has six starters returning. Heading the parade of veterans is Gary Heinitz, a pitcher-outfielder who Ross expects a great deal from.

Heinitz has two compatriots on the mound that will give him some strong help. They are Terry Sahler, who also doubles at first and Tom Williams, the other double at first. When one is firing, the other is at the sack.

The shortstop position is assigned to Bernie Schaeffer, also a returnee while Tom Frazier has the backstop nailed down—even though Ross has him ready for duty in the outfield. The last returnee is Jay Spiegel, who played third last year and will be set there again.

Ross has a host of new players. Mark Fisher will give him some room to maneuver on the hill. Others play various positions.

Counts on George

Ross is counting heavily on Charlie George for backup at catcher, Keith Gorham, Dave Sims, Larry Baney, Dick Sheil, Mike Denkensohn and Dave Taylor in the outfield (Denkensohn also catches) and George Wallack, John Carle, Ken Brush and John Durkin as reserve infielders. One of these will have to be the second baseman.

OCS has holes all over, and Karas will have a tough job plugging them. With just two returnees, Karas expects many headaches before the season is over.

Back is Mickey Bush, a fixture at short. The center field opening was quickly locked up by Ted Weber, the other returnee.

All three pitchers on the roster are young, and little is known of their ability. Eddie Mercer is only a sophomore. Mike Sims, a transfer in from Fleischmann's is also unknown and Keith Thayer, is out for the first time.

Tom Riley handles the backstop chores along with John Stoothoff, a muscular player, who can also play first base. If necessary, Stoothoff can handle short, Karas informs us. The other first sacker is Wayne Wrightson, a senior.

Second base has just about been conceded to Mike Patrick. His understudy, Bill Beck, is pushing hard and just might unseat Patrick.

A quartet of candidates are vying for the two spots flanking Weber. Allan Cocks, John Stelcin, Barry Knight and John Tisch are all battling hard.

The final infield slot, third base, finds a struggle going on between Danny Waters and Wally Frasier.

Pitching and catching are the two big question marks, and should Karas come up with a solid battery, Onteora can make some headway and shake up the standings.

Pine Bush rates the runner-up nod behind Rondout in the pre-season figuring. Coach John Pliego has last year's squad virtually intact. One member, a reserve, went out instead for track.

He numbers Mike and Rich Alexander as his one and two pitchers, with Mike Steele the third. Steele might also be at second, the one spot that is a question right now.

Set are Steve Sudol at catcher, Tom Saxton at first, Gary Sisco on third and Frank Mercurio, short. Plugging that hole at second is Pliego's big worry now, but you can count on the Pine Bush mentor to fill that.

The outfield finds Mike Zanetti, Fred Pirog, Harry Kramer, Rod Greaves and Dan Abramtsov all in the race for the three spots. John Caputo is a definite reserve as is Wally Westerfield in the infield.

No one wants to count out New Paltz. The Huguenots have back the UCAL's top pitcher in Ray Zappone, who fanned 16 against Arlington. He'll be back for another shot at that honor. A pair of others back him up. Jim Schiller and Bob Lynch, both experienced hurlers, will be around to spell.

Catching finds Bill Bond, a converted third sacker. Dom Zaccheo is set at first, Ron Bonaguara at third and Wayne DuBois one of the outfield jobs.

Second is a toss-up between Frank Nadal and Dennis Marley. The same at third where Dave Shobert and Dane Barr are locked up, and in the outfield is Chuck Bradley, Jay Susdorf and Darryl Castellano fighting for the two vacancies. Add Tony Zagorini to the mound corp and no one wants to count New Paltz out.

Dukes Powerful

Marlboro will also be strong with Mike Pagano and Dale Sutton ready to handle three positions if needed. Coach Jack Kroh, the dean of UCAL coaches, likes to juggle, and his players go right along. Pagano, Sutton and Bill Giametta all pitch. Marlboro won its opener, 5-2.

Sutton and Giametta, plus cousin Fred Giametta, Tom Monahan, Rich Passante, Dom Porpiglia and Mike Stolfe all are outfielders. Inside finds Dan Passante, Roy McAteer, Dan Kurtz and Rocco Lofaro. Catching is between Frank Salzano and Dan Pagano.

Highland still has a shot, since it is the defending champ. Field general Lem Atkins has a few returnees and thinks he can be in the race with a couple of breaks.

Joe Ship is Atkins' lone returning moundsman. He is suffering from tendonitis and his effectiveness is in doubt. He must come around quickly for Highland to have any kind of a chance at unseating the frontrunners.

Also back is Anthony Biancardi at short and Gary Elia at one of the outfield spots or pitching. Brian Franciala is back to catch and will share time with Dirk Sheeley. Infielders are Pat Gaffney, Jim Galioto and John Indelicato. The rest are inexperienced.

Wallkill, under new coach Gene Bilboa, is expected to carry very little weight in deciding the race. Bilboa has nearly decided on a starting lineup and so far it looks like Tony Yurchuck will be the starting pitcher.

Behind him is Andy Hodger. The Blue Devils do not have a third hurler. The infield finds Ish Martinez at second, Ed Valesquez at third, Jan Selles at first, Tim Rosner at short and Bob Coy behind the plate.

Listed as outfielders are Tom Mulqueen, who might be pressed into pitching, Tony Domenicucci and Kevin Gallagher.

It shapes up to be a three team race between Rondout, New Paltz and Pine Bush. Marlboro and Highland have definite chances while Onteora and Highland aren't expected to show too much.

Trophy for Pack 7

Cub Pack 7 won the first prize trophy for exhibits at the Scout Spectacular held at the New York State Armory recently.

Featuring the theme Hudson Valley Heritage, the five Cub Dens and Webelos worked out a colorful display depicting major events in history which helped shape New York State and the Hudson Valley. Four skits were presented by the boys illustrating the great Iroquois Confederation, Henry Hudson's discovery of the river that bears his name, the sale of Manhattan Island to Peter Minuet and the folklore stories of "Rip Van Winkle" and "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" by Washington Irving.

The replicas, artifacts and clever props which acted as background scenery for the historic skits were gathered, designed and built by scouts. They generated a great deal of interest and comment by all who saw them.

Pack 7 also held its annual Pine Wood Derby at its monthly pack meeting and Kim Pearson won the trophy for first place after defeating some very tough and spirited racers.

The scouts and their fathers built the race cars to careful specifications and raced them on a specially designed track at the meet. Second place was won by Brian Johnson and Richard Carlzon held the number three spot. The second runners-up were Billy Frangis, Greg Pugliese and Mike Kirk. Ribbons were awarded to all participants.

The following awards were given: Bobcat to Dave Mendez, Vincent Dingman, Carlo Melendez, Joe Lorenz, Robert Amato, Gil Styles, Brian Cahill and James Marrelli. Mike Kirk and Bart Robins received their Bear award and a Golden Arrow along with John Kelly. Stephen Richter received a Silver Arrow.

Wolf badges were awarded to Jim Bach and John Lonergan. Art awards were presented to Barry Kantner, Neil Klein, Kim Pearson, Donald Short, Gary Smith and Marvin Savatgy who also received his athlete's award. Jim Amato, Barry and Brian Kantner, Neil Klein, Billy Frangis, Garry McCloskey, Kim Pearson, Marvin Savatgy, Donald Short, Gary Smith, and Jim Kelly received the engineering award.

A new Webelos Den was formed with Don Boomhower and Frank Mendez as leaders. New members include Mike Kirk, David Mendez and Mark Boomhower.

Pack 37

Rivers of the World was the theme at the March pack meeting held by Pack 37 in West Saugerties. On display were several interesting items made by the cubs during the month.

Health for All

German Measles Head for Exit

According to past experience, an outbreak of German measles can be expected in the early seventies. The usual cycle is about seven years, and the last epidemic occurred in 1964.

But the story may turn out differently this time. Research scientists have been busy with projects looking toward development of a German measles vaccine, and good progress is reported. Several strains of the virus, apparently capable of producing immunity, are now being tried out, according to Medical World News. Dr. John L. Sever, of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness, has voiced the opinion that a vaccine will be ready for licensed use by the middle of 1969.

The conquest of German measles, if and when it comes, will be a particular boon to humanity. While the disease causes comparatively minor havoc to the sufferer (mostly children and young adults), it poses a special threat to expectant mothers. If German measles attacks within the first three months of pregnancy, there is a danger that the child may be born malformed.

Because German measles seldom strikes the same person more than once, some doctors approve the practice of deliberately exposing children to the infection before the age of puberty if they have not had the disease. If the hoped-for vaccine proves efficacious and safe, this drastic precaution doubtless will become a thing of the past.

German measles is usually characterized by a rash that starts on the face and neck, moving rapidly to the trunk, arms, and legs. The rash is commonly preceded by a mild fever. A cough, sore throat, head cold, headache, muscular soreness also are common symptoms. Except in its congenital form, the disease is rarely serious; but if symptoms occur a doctor should be called for safety's sake and measures should be taken to prevent spread of the ailment.

Overcoming Problem

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — To overcome veterinary regulations on horse sickness which bar South African horses from overseas equestrian events, including the Olympics, South Africa may establish a team of horses at a permanent overseas base.

"The idea is to buy and train these horses overseas and to send a South African team of riders over each year to compete in major and international events," said Allan Goodman, a leading member of the South African National Equestrian Federation.

Trophy for Pack 7

Cub Pack 7 won the first prize trophy for exhibits at the Scout Spectacular held at the New York State Armory recently.

Featuring the theme Hudson Valley Heritage, the five Cub Dens and Webelos worked out a colorful display depicting major events in history which helped shape New York State and the Hudson Valley. Four skits were presented by the boys illustrating the great Iroquois Confederation, Henry Hudson's discovery of the river that bears his name, the sale of Manhattan Island to Peter Minuet and the folklore stories of "Rip Van Winkle" and "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow" by Washington Irving.

The replicas, artifacts and clever props which acted as background scenery for the historic skits were gathered, designed and built by scouts. They generated a great deal of interest and comment by all who saw them.

Pack 7 also held its annual Pine Wood Derby at its monthly pack meeting and Kim Pearson won the trophy for first place after defeating some very tough and spirited racers.

The scouts and their fathers built the race cars to careful specifications and raced them on a specially designed track at the meet. Health for All

German Measles Head for Exit

According to past experience, an outbreak of German measles can be expected in the early seventies. The usual cycle is about seven years, and the last epidemic occurred in 1964.

But the story may turn out differently this time. Research scientists have been busy with projects looking toward development of a German measles vaccine, and good progress is reported. Several strains of the virus, apparently capable of producing immunity, are now being tried out, according to Medical World News. Dr. John L. Sever, of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness, has voiced the opinion that a vaccine will be ready for licensed use by the middle of 1969.

The conquest of German measles, if and when it comes, will be a particular boon to humanity. While the disease causes comparatively minor havoc to the sufferer (mostly children and young adults), it poses a special threat to expectant mothers. If German measles attacks within the first three months of pregnancy, there is a danger that the child may be born malformed.

Because German measles seldom strikes the same person more than once, some doctors approve the practice of deliberately exposing children to the infection before the age of puberty if they have not had the disease. If the hoped-for vaccine proves efficacious and safe, this drastic precaution doubtless will become a thing of the past.

German measles is usually characterized by a rash that starts on the face and neck, moving rapidly to the trunk, arms, and legs. The rash is commonly preceded by a mild fever. A cough, sore throat, head cold, headache, muscular soreness also are common symptoms. Except in its congenital form, the disease is rarely serious; but if symptoms occur a doctor should be called for safety's sake and measures should be taken to prevent spread of the ailment.

Overcoming Problem

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — To overcome veterinary regulations on horse sickness which bar South African horses from overseas equestrian events, including the Olympics, South Africa may establish a team of horses at a permanent overseas base.

"The idea is to buy and train these horses overseas and to send a South African team of riders over each year to compete in major and international events," said Allan Goodman, a leading member of the South African National Equestrian Federation.

Dear Abby

Selfish Dad Makes Mom Mad

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I get along pretty well except when it comes to money. He drives a truck and averages about $250 a week, but if you ever saw our furniture you would think we were on welfare.

He gives me $20 a week for groceries. We have three growing children, and if it weren't for my garden and the freezer I don't know what I'd do.

My husband banks every penny he gets his hands on. Our oldest is ten and wants to take piano lessons, but my husband says we can't afford it. Our home is paid for, we don't owe a dime and we have over $10,000 in the bank. Please put something in your column to help me. He reads it and thinks you're smart.

TURNING GRAY

DEAR TURNING: It may take more than a few words from me to part your husband from his money. The poor man seems to be obsessed with the fear of being broke. (Probably due to a hungry childhood and a good memory.) I don't recommend extravagance, but a man owes it to his family to provide them with as fine an education (musical, too) and as pleasant surroundings as he can afford.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is always looking for dirt in somebody else's house. The minute she walks in she looks in the corners for a speck of dust that might have been overlooked.

I have even seen her open closets, cupboards and drawers.

It's a habit. She looks behind the davenport, under rugs and once I saw her look behind somebody's washing machine.

The minute she leaves someone's house, she says, "My, she's a terrible housekeeper! Or, "Not a trace of dirt—she must have just cleaned."

What is the matter with a person like that?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: People who are constantly searching for flaws, imperfections and signs of "dirt' around others, do so in order to avoid seeing their own. Pray for them.

DEAR ABBY: We have a foreign exchange student from an Asian country living with us.

We were laughing hysterically while reading the letter in your column about the man who gave a "birthday party,' after he'd invite his friends for a regular "birthday party,' after which they'd all go out to the cemetery to "talk" to Ruby and leave her a piece of birthday cake.)

Our Asian friend couldn't see anything funny about that. He said it's an old Oriental custom to visit the cemetery once a year, and take along some food for their ancestors to "eat."

While we are far from agreement with a good deal of the material in "Bid Boldly, Play Safe," there is an excellent chapter on safety plays. We would expect this. Mrs. Marcus writes about rubber bridge, and in rubber bridge you work to make your contract.

Today's hand was played by Albert Rose, one of England's top players. Most players would have looked over dummy happily and noted that the contract would come home if either the club finesse or heart finesse would work. They would win the spade lead in dummy and promptly lose the club finesse. Later on they would lose the heart finesse also and complain about misfortune.

Mr. Rose looked over dummy carefully and saw that he could make the hand with both finesses wrong provided diamonds broke 4-3. He could try this first and reserve finesses for later if diamonds don't break that well.

He won the first spade in dummy and promptly discarded two hearts on the ace and king of diamonds. If West had ruffed the second diamond, Rose would have been in trouble but he was willing to chance a 6-1 diamond break. Then he ruffed a third diamond with the nine of clubs. When both opponents followed to this, he did not need to worry any more about finesses. He led a low club to dummy.

West went up with his queen. Had he not done so he would have lost it. Then West led another spade. Albert won in his own hand; entered dummy with the last high spade and discarded his queen of hearts on a good diamond.

An interesting and good line of play, but not such a sure thing as it appears. We will change the East-West hands a trifle tomorrow and show how this play might lose while the two-finesse play would win.

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 13, 1968

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Your concern with hidden matters, the occult, is evident. You no longer are apt to be satisfied with secondhand reports. You want to be there in person. You desire to see for yourself.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Relate to outsiders. Refuse to be hermetically sealed. Break through barriers, restrictions. Find out the why of persons, events. Get to know fellow men and yourself.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Accept added responsibility. Realize superiors may be testing you. Work and how you accomplish basic tasks are placed in spotlight. Be gracious, mature—maintain balance. Exhibit poise.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): Pleasure, hobbies dominate. You tend to be sensuous. Opposite sex perceives this feeling. Utilize attractiveness to put across vital viewpoints. Important day—don't waste it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Focus on home, family affairs. Take long-range view, attitude. Be specific. You may have to be self-assertive—and this could irritate family. But it is necessary. State terms — stick to facts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on relations with neighbors. Trust intuitive intellect. Ideas are important — especially how you express them. You could be called upon to instruct, teach. Say yes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Remember past lessons about economics. Some have their attention focused on your possessions. Be wise. Don't be overly suspicious—but at the same time be shrewd. Avoid waste.

SCORPIO Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Take the lead. Lunar position today highlights initiative, inventiveness. You have tendency to be secretive. Now you must come out in open — let others know you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Day to recuperate. Make up for abuses. Get proper rest. Gather reserves. Fine for seeking greater harmony with family, friends, other loved ones. Be quiet within.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): The way you handle complaints of friends is spotlighted. Key is diplomacy. Family member could be involved. Strive to be neutral, fair. Take a stand only after you know facts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Perceive subtle meanings. One you look up to attempts to convey message. If you are tense, opportunity vanishes. Know this—react in positive manner.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Spotlight is on travel plans. You tend to look beyond immediate indications. In so doing you run risk of being tripped up by details. Avoid this by keeping feet on solid ground.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are dynamic, independent, capable of guiding your own destiny. But, at times, you become so engulfed in self-doubt that you lose initiative. Current cycle points to change, travel and romance.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for SCORPIO, SAGITTARIUS. Lunar position favorable for planting, fishing. Special word to CANCER: don't oppose change. Make desires crystal clear.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Focus on home, family affairs. Take long-range view, attitude. Be specific. You may have to be self-assertive—and this could irritate family. But it is necessary. State terms — stick to facts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on relations with neighbors. Trust intuitive intellect. Ideas are important — especially how you express them. You could be called upon to instruct, teach. Say yes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Remember past lessons about economics. Some have their attention focused on your possessions. Be wise. Don't be overly suspicious—but at the same time be shrewd. Avoid waste.

SCORPIO Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Take the lead. Lunar position today highlights initiative, inventiveness. You have tendency to be secretive. Now you must come out in open — let others know you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Day to recuperate. Make up for abuses. Get proper rest. Gather reserves. Fine for seeking greater harmony with family, friends, other loved ones. Be quiet within.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): The way you handle complaints of friends is spotlighted. Key is diplomacy. Family member could be involved. Strive to be neutral, fair. Take a stand only after you know facts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Perceive subtle meanings. One you look up to attempts to convey message. If you are tense, opportunity vanishes. Know this—react in positive manner.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Spotlight is on travel plans. You tend to look beyond immediate indications. In so doing you run risk of being tripped up by details. Avoid this by keeping feet on solid ground.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are dynamic, independent, capable of guiding your own destiny. But, at times, you become so engulfed in self-doubt that you lose initiative. Current cycle points to change, travel and romance.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for SCORPIO, SAGITTARIUS. Lunar position favorable for planting, fishing. Special word to CANCER: don't oppose change. Make desires crystal clear.

While we are far from agreement with a good deal of the material in "Bid Boldly, Play Safe," there is an excellent chapter on safety plays. We would expect this. Mrs. Marcus writes about rubber bridge, and in rubber bridge you work to make your contract.

Today's hand was played by Albert Rose, one of England's top players. Most players would have looked over dummy happily and noted that the contract would come home if either the club finesse or heart finesse would work. They would win the spade lead in dummy and promptly lose the club finesse. Later on they would lose the heart finesse also and complain about misfortune.

Mr. Rose looked over dummy carefully and saw that he could make the hand with both finesses wrong provided diamonds broke 4-3. He could try this first and reserve finesses for later if diamonds don't break that well.

He won the first spade in dummy and promptly discarded two hearts on the ace and king of diamonds. If West had ruffed the second diamond, Rose would have been in trouble but he was willing to chance a 6-1 diamond break. Then he ruffed a third diamond with the nine of clubs. When both opponents followed to this, he did not need to worry any more about finesses. He led a low club to dummy.

West went up with his queen. Had he not done so he would have lost it. Then West led another spade. Albert won in his own hand; entered dummy with the last high spade and discarded his queen of hearts on a good diamond.

An interesting and good line of play, but not such a sure thing as it appears. We will change the East-West hands a trifle tomorrow and show how this play might lose while the two-finesse play would win.

Alan King: Savagely Funny

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Alan King is a keen and angry observer of our society and is able to report on some of the irritants, great and small, in savagely funny terms.

In his NBC special Thursday night, the comedian went to work on an assortment of irksome matters that ranged in subject and importance from the size of postage stamps—too big—to an "explanation" of television programming practices that must have resulted in pink ears on any network vice president who happened to be tuned in.

Timely Musical Spoof

King is a hero to the middle-aged, middle-class viewers who just don't understand hippies and flower children. He raked over "kids from nice homes who go to East Village" and went on to gurus, meditation and sitar players.

There was a timely musical spoof on the excessively grateful Academy Award winner's speech, presenting Liza Minnelli as an actress who after thanking everybody including her manicurist, threw humility to the winds and explained she really did it all by herself. And there was another that satirized the current crop of sexy violent films.

For the most part the show was bright, literate and often devastating.

Bob Hope, with Janet Leigh for company, came along on NBC immediately afterward with a book comedy, a change from his usual variety format for his last special of the current season.

Light, Gay Show

Bob played a jaunty, would-be Lothario, bound for a holiday in a Latin-American country who immediately becomes a patsy in a wild plot to get stolen funds out of the dictator's nation.

It was an amusing, familiar sort of show, a miniversion of the sort of thing Hope so often does in his motion pictures. The plot lines were so predictable, however, that one constantly expected the performances to break into song and dance routines.

It was light, gay and very easy to take—or leave alone, for that matter.

Alan King: Savagely Funny

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Alan King is a keen and angry observer of our society and is able to report on some of the irritants, great and small, in savagely funny terms.

In his NBC special Thursday night, the comedian went to work on an assortment of irksome matters that ranged in subject and importance from the size of postage stamps—too big—to an "explanation" of television programming practices that must have resulted in pink ears on any network vice president who happened to be tuned in.

Timely Musical Spoof

King is a hero to the middle-aged, middle-class viewers who just don't understand hippies and flower children. He raked over "kids from nice homes who go to East Village" and went on to gurus, meditation and sitar players.

There was a timely musical spoof on the excessively grateful Academy Award winner's speech, presenting Liza Minnelli as an actress who after thanking everybody including her manicurist, threw humility to the winds and explained she really did it all by herself. And there was another that satirized the current crop of sexy violent films.

For the most part the show was bright, literate and often devastating.

Bob Hope, with Janet Leigh for company, came along on NBC immediately afterward with a book comedy, a change from his usual variety format for his last special of the current season.

Light, Gay Show

Bob played a jaunty, would-be Lothario, bound for a holiday in a Latin-American country who immediately becomes a patsy in a wild plot to get stolen funds out of the dictator's nation.

It was an amusing, familiar sort of show, a miniversion of the sort of thing Hope so often does in his motion pictures. The plot lines were so predictable, however, that one constantly expected the performances to break into song and dance routines.

It was light, gay and very easy to take—or leave alone, for that matter.

Christians, Jews Throng to Jerusalem

By HAL McCLURE

JERUSALEM (AP) — Thousands of Christian and Jewish pilgrims thronged Jerusalem today for Easter and Passover, which coincide this year.

Visitors jammed hotels, private homes and pensions. The overflow bedded down in schools and monasteries.

The Christians came for the annual Way of the Cross procession, tracing Christ's path to Calvary on the first Good Friday, and to celebrate the Resurrection on Sunday. The Jews came to pray at the Wailing Wall before sundown, start of the week-long festival of Passover commemorating the Exodus from Egypt.

Hebrew historians claimed that this is the first Passover in 3,258 years that a Jewish army has been stationed on the Red Sea, over which the Israelites escaped from Egypt. Israel's army also was there during the 1956 Suez war but pulled out of the Sinai Desert before Passover began.

Jewish housewives and cooks were busy preparing the seder feasts which at sundown inaugurate Passover. Seders were prepared for army units from the Syrian Golan Heights to the Suez Canal, with the biggest in the Sinai Desert, near Mt. Sinai.

This Easter is the second Christian holiday to attract large foreign crowds to Jerusalem since Israel ended Jordanian control of most of the Christian holy places in the war last June. Israeli troops were on guard against any Arab attempt to embarrass the government with disruptive violence. The first such holiday, Christmas, also was heavily guarded and there was no trouble.

Views on the Shift to S. Viets

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's avowed hope for a gradual shift of the major war effort from U.S. to South Vietnamese forces is based on an assessment that they stood up well under the Viet Cong winter offensive.

Pentagon sources said the assessment was made both by Gen. William C. Westmoreland and by Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, who will succeed Westmoreland as U.S. commander in Vietnam by July 2.

The views of both generals were made known to President Johnson and his top advisers in personal reports at the White House during the past few weeks.

The sources said Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford was drawing on this military judgment in telling newsmen Thursday of a policy decision to turn over gradually the major effort to the South Vietnamese.

Clifford stressed that it is a long-range plan which he said will require "a period of testing to ascertain whether such a system will work."

Although Clifford appeared to be referring to a new decision, Pentagon sources said the new defense secretary had in mind the same decision about which Westmoreland spoke publicly when he was in Washington last November.

The record is replete with U.S. expressions of confidence and hope that the South Vietnam's forces would shape up to the task of shouldering the biggest part of the job of turning back enemy military efforts to overwhelm the country.

But in the past, the Vietnamese forces have fallen short of most expectations.

There were reports after the Lunar New Year offensive that many South Vietnamese units were at half strength—and thus highly vulnerable—because officers and men were on holiday leave. At the same time, U.S. forces had remained on a full war footing.

Although Vietnamese ranger, marine and paratroop units received praise for their fighting performance during the offensive, there were recurrent reports that other units retreated into strong positions for protection.

Westmoreland, in a speech to the National Press Club last Nov. 21, forecast that during 1968 it was intended to "turn a major share of frontline demilitarized zone defense over to the Vietnamese army."

The administration has been speaking recently with increasing frequency about providing the South Vietnamese with M16 rifles and other modern equipment.

Clifford hitched the modernization plan to the intention to transfer the heaviest role in the war to the South Vietnamese, and he said that the shiftover of major responsibility is part and parcel of "the President's decision to place a limitation at this time upon our troop level at a point not exceeding 550,000."

Clifford's statements came as he announced the call-up of 24,500 Army, Air Force and Navy reservists—10,000 of them destined for duty in Vietnam.

Editorial Comment

On Pension Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Vacationing state legislators were under sharp attack today by newspaper editorial writers contending the lawmakers acted irresponsibly in voting themselves a more liberal pension plan.

Newspapers that criticized Wednesday's action included:

The Buffalo Courier-Express: The Senate - Assembly approved plan awaiting Gov. Rockefeller's signature would enable a legislator to retire at one - quarter of his a annual salary after 5 years of service, provided he put in an additional five years in any other public employment — including military service during World War II.

Rank - and - file members are paid $15,000 a year, plus $3,000 for expenses, which also is counted as income for retirement purposes.

Newspapers that criticized Wednesday's action included:

The Buffalo Courier-Express: Our hard - working legislators haven't managed to get much done in the first 15 weeks of the current session. But they make the point that their actions affect the lives and property of 17 million residents and they should not be expected to rush into anything precipitously.

But when it comes to feathering their own nests with a lush pension arrangement, that's a different story. Zoom!!! It's whipped through both houses in a matter of minutes — no discussion, no consultation, no compromise, no delay, just pass it and adjourn for the spring vacation. Never mind the state budget; that can wait.

The Albany Times - Union: Whenever the young rioters in our cities loot and pillage in violent reaction to some wrong, they come under heavy criticism from all quarters — as well they should. The raid just conducted on the state treasury by greedy members of the legislature — with more than a nominal assist from Gov. Rockefeller, incidentally — deserves and will get the same type of criticism.

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The first all-woman jury in Mercer County court history never really got a chance to show its mettle.

When the 12 ladies were sworn in to hear a criminal trial, Judge Samuel D. Lenox Jr. observed it was a precedent. But the jury never got a chance to render a verdict. The defendant changed his plea to guilty.

Communist Tet Drive Robbed Many of Security

By BARRY KRAMER

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist Tet offensive robbed a million South Vietnamese of security, official U.S. statistics showed today. Millions of others are living in areas with less security than before.

The figures, compiled by computer with information from South Vietnam's cities and 12,736 hamlets, also showed that the Viet Cong brought 326,000 more people under total control.

Now in 'Contested' Areas

Hundreds of thousands of persons who formerly lived in secure areas now live in areas classed as "contested."

The statistics are those of the U.S. Embassy's Hamlet Evaluation System—HES—which has been providing computer analyses of security in South Vietnam since last December.

The HES analysis showed 61 per cent of South Vietnam's 17.2 million people living in secure areas on March 31. This compares with 67.2 per cent immediately before the Tet offensive, a drop of 6.2 per cent and the lowest in more than a year.

The population living in contested areas grew from 16.3 per cent to 20.7. Now under Viet Cong control are 18.3 per cent of the population compared with 16.4 per cent before Tet.

This means that 1,093,000 persons who formerly lived in secure areas are now in contested or Viet Cong areas. The number of people in secure areas dropped from 11.5 million to 10.4 million. The number of people in Viet Cong-controlled areas jumped from 2.8 million pre-Tet to 3.1 million March 31.

There were 5,331 secure hamlets before Tet and 4,559 at the end of March. The number of contested hamlets went from 3,593 to 4,084. Viet Cong control expanded from 3,838 hamlets to a total of 4,093.

U.S. officials say the pacification program "is really back on track." They said that 545 of the 629 pacification teams—or 87 per cent—are back in villages and hamlets.

Pentagon sources said the assessment was made both by Gen. William C. Westmoreland and by Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, who will succeed Westmoreland as U.S. commander in Vietnam by July 2.

The views of both generals were made known to President Johnson and his top advisers in personal reports at the White House during the past few weeks.

The sources said Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford was drawing on this military judgment in telling newsmen Thursday of a policy decision to turn over gradually the major effort to the South Vietnamese.

Clifford stressed that it is a long-range plan which he said will require "a period of testing to ascertain whether such a system will work."

Although Clifford appeared to be referring to a new decision, Pentagon sources said the new defense secretary had in mind the same decision about which Westmoreland spoke publicly when he was in Washington last November.

The record is replete with U.S. expressions of confidence and hope that the South Vietnam's forces would shape up to the task of shouldering the biggest part of the job of turning back enemy military efforts to overwhelm the country.

But in the past, the Vietnamese forces have fallen short of most expectations.

There were reports after the Lunar New Year offensive that many South Vietnamese urits were at half strength—and thus highly vulnerable—because officers and men were on holiday leave. At the same time, U.S. forces had remained on a full war footing.

Although Vietnamese ranger, marine and paratroop units received praise for their fighting performance during the offensive, there were recurrent reports that other units retreated into strong positions for protection.

Westmoreland, in a speech to the National Press Club last Nov. 21, forecast that during 1968 it was intended to "turn a major share of frontline demilitarized zone defense over to the Vietnamese army."

The administration has been speaking recently with increasing frequency about providing the South Vietnamese with M16 rifles and other modern equipment.

Clifford hitched the modernization plan to the intention to transfer the heaviest role in the war to the South Vietnamese, and he said that the shiftover of major responsibility is part and parcel of "the President's decision to place a limitation at this time upon our troop level at a point not exceeding 550,000."

Clifford's statements came as he announced the call-up of 24,500 Army, Air Force and Navy reservists—10,000 of them destined for duty in Vietnam.

Choosy Culprits

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Burglars who broke into a nickel and chromium plating firm here were particular. They took only the best material.

Harry Sica, owner of the factory, told police that only one dozen pieces of nickel were stolen. The burglars grabbed the new metal and left the older pieces behind.

Communist Tet Drive Robbed Many of Security

By BARRY KRAMER

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist Tet offensive robbed a million South Vietnamese of security, official U.S. statistics showed today. Millions of others are living in areas with less security than before.

The figures, compiled by computer with information from South Vietnam's cities and 12,736 hamlets, also showed that the Viet Cong brought 326,000 more people under total control.

Now in 'Contested' Areas

Hundreds of thousands of persons who formerly lived in secure areas now live in areas classed as "contested."

The statistics are those of the U.S. Embassy's Hamlet Evaluation System—HES—which has been providing computer analyses of security in South Vietnam since last December.

The HES analysis showed 61 per cent of South Vietnam's 17.2 million people living in secure areas on March 31. This compares with 67.2 per cent immediately before the Tet offensive, a drop of 6.2 per cent and the lowest in more than a year.

The population living in contested areas grew from 16.3 per cent to 20.7. Now under Viet Cong control are 18.3 per cent of the population compared with 16.4 per cent before Tet.

This means that 1,033,000 persons who formerly lived in secure areas are now in contested or Viet Cong areas. The number of people in secure areas dropped from 11.5 million to 10.4 million. The number of people in Viet Cong-controlled areas jumped from 2.8 million pre-Tet to 3.1 million March 31.

There were 5,331 secure hamlets before Tet and 4,559 at the end of March. The number of contested hamlets went from 3,593 to 4,084. Viet Cong control expanded from 3,838 hamlets to a total of 4,093.

U.S. officials say the pacification program "is really back on track." They said that 545 of the 629 pacification teams—or 87 per cent—are back in villages and hamlets.

Editorial Comment On Pension Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Vacationing state legislators were under sharp attack today by newspaper editorial writers contending the lawmakers acted irresponsibly in voting themselves a more liberal pension plan.

Newspapers that criticized Wednesday's action included:

The Buffalo Courier-Express:

The Senate - Assembly approved plan awaiting Gov. Rockefeller's signature would enable a legislator to retire at one - quarter of his a annual salary after 5 years of service, provided he put in an additional five years in any other public employment — including military service during World War II.

Rank - and - file members are paid $15,000 a year, plus $3,000 for expenses, which also is counted as income for retirement purposes.

Newspapers that criticized Wednesday's action included:

The Buffalo Courier-Express:

Our hard - working legislators haven't managed to get much done in the first 15 weeks of the current session. But they make the point that their actions affect the lives and property of 17 million residents and they should not be expected to rush into anything precipitously.

But when it comes to feathering their own nests with a lush pension arrangement, that's a different story. Zoom!!! It's whipped through both houses in a matter of minutes — no discussion, no consultation, no compromise, no delay, just pass it and adjourn for the spring vacation. Never mind the state budget; that can wait.

The Albany Times - Union:

Whenever the young rioters in our cities loot and pillage in violent reaction to some wrong, they come under heavy criticism from all quarters — as well they should. The raid just conducted on the state treasury by greedy members of the legislature — with more than a nominal assist from Gov. Rockefeller, incidentally — deserves and will get the same type of criticism.

Pink Ribbon Panel

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The first all-woman jury in Mercer County court history never really got a chance to show its mettle.

When the 12 ladies were sworn in to hear a criminal trial, Judge Samuel D. Lenox Jr. observed it was a precedent. But the jury never got a chance to render a verdict. The defendant changed his plea to guilty.

Jordan was part of the Ottoman Empire from the 16th Century until World War I.
